REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, OCTOBER 6, 1894.

Notes Gathered Here and There.

Building Commissioner Bush has suspended Inspector Joseph J. Ryan, of the 1st district, which include the 1st, 2d, 11th and 5th Wards and a part of the 3d. The cause of suspension was neglect of duty. It is understood that Ryan neglected to report something in connection with the rebuilding of the premises No. 19 Myrtle avenue, recently damaged by fire.

The Universal Building, on the southeast corner of Washington and Tillary streets, was sold at public auction on Wednesday last under an order of foreclosure. The property was mortgaged to the Mutual Life Insurance Company, and the amount due for principal and interest was a little over $155,000. Only one bid was obtained, that of the plaintiff, for $100,000, and the property was knocked down at that figure. The Universal including the part subsequently taken for the Columbia Theatre (which was not included in the foreclosure sale) was built in 1886 by Liebmann Bros., and, with the land, cost about $475,000.

PROPOSALS FOR CITY WORK.

Sealed proposals will be received at the Department of City Works until Thursday, October 11, at 12 M., for repaving Wilson street, from Cranberry to Pierrepont street, with asphalt; for repaving Greene avenue, from Franklin to Bedford avenue, with asphalt; for repaving Elm street, from Fulton to Livingston street, with asphalt; for repaving McDonough street, from Lewis to Stuyvesant avenue, with asphalt. BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET. NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—A change in the tenor of reports was noticeable this week. There was no claim for any variation in the general run of valuation, and our previous quotations are without revision, yet in all other particulars there seemed to be some improvement. Buyers have stopped higgling over cost, except possibly on some very inferior line of stuff, and top prices are more readily obtained, partly because there has really been something like competition among buyers, and notwithstanding ing comparatively liberal arrivals they sold promptly, and at the present writing it is reported that every load of desirable stock has been sold, a somewhat unusual feature this year. Receivers also have an idea that after the barges have discharged and gone up the river again they will not be allowed to return at once with fresh loads. Some few manufacturers intend working along through this month or until frost interferences, but the majority have quit or will do so this week, and that makes them somewhat independent about hurrying forward supplies. The average run of quality continues excellent from all points along the river. Most of the purchases made here this week have been by actual consumers and the chances are against much accumulation for winter stock until the barges commence to lay up. Trades in moderate demand and steady.

CEMENT.—There does not appear to be any very solid encouragement on this market. With the approach of fall and winter there has been some addition to the shipping trade, but not up to the average for either domestic or foreign, and as regards the latter there is reason to believe that at many interior points the accumulation of stock has reached quite as full proportions as desired. Production and importation as matters stand are difficult to keep down to the limit of market necessities, although, so far as standard and popular brands are concerned, the supply is very well managed and costs about old figures. There are some jobs in this city upon which the consumption of cement will probably be liberal all winter. The present run of importations is almost wholly from continent.

GLASS.—There are no features in the local trade that can be called positively new. The general run of inquiry appears to be about as moderate as ever and buyers indifferent toward the supply except to extent of getting an assortment for immediate special use, and that they can accomplish without an effort as both quantity and assortment are within reach. Our local jobbers are fairly successful in sustaining something like a steady tone on values, but on large parcels it is generally understood manufacturers would be willing to name easier rates. The New Jersey makers are fitting up their pots gradually and it is understood will soon all be at work. Imported glass has very far jolting calls and a new local list has been decided upon showing some reductions under a rearrangement to conform to new tariff influences.

LATH.—The market has done very well. Another five million came to hand at just about the time of our last publication, but trade enough has been found during the week to pretty nearly exhaust the supply without reducing the time of value from the plane for some time ruling. About $1.65 shows the average cargo rate, and 5¢ to 10¢ higher has been made on small lots. Considering the general dull character of trade it is somewhat singular how lath disappear, but they certainly have found custom, so far as desirable spruce stock is concerned, and with little now about the close is steady. There is some hemlock lath here for which it has been found difficult to secure custom and possibly low figures would be accepted.

LIME.—More or less the old conflict of statements may be heard regarding values, but there is nothing to show that the seller gets any advantage. On the contrary the tone is a little easier if anything, and when it comes right down to an operating basis the figures on Maine products may be named at about 75¢ to 80¢, with various discounts on common, and 90¢ to 95¢ on finishing. Some arrivals have taken place, but a fair outlet was found for all the fresh lots. Nothing of a very positive character comes from primal points although there is an intimation that some manufacturers commence to feel the propriety of making their offerings through less scattered channels.

LUMBER.—The market is still sluggish and does not furnish many really new pointers. It is a common experience to find operators who may happen to report a good trade one week, more or less in the dumps the next week, but the variation not difficult to account for. Every buyer, whether it be of job lots from yard, of car loads, or by cargo, makes the limit of investment upon carefully calculated, clear cut wants, beyond which he will not order, and as soon as the purchase is completed negotiations abruptly ceases, no matter what bargain sellers may have to offer. Of course there are exceptions, but we have stated the rule, and as there is no general attendance of custom, even upon the cautious basis, noted lapses in demand are frequent.

The fact seems to be getting plainer and plainer that there is little reason to expect any real animation this fall. The yards are not as full as they should be, of either coarse or fine stock, and it is possible a small flurry may develop before the close of navigation, but by both word and action dealers indicate, in a great many instances, that they prefer taking chances by holding over until spring. There has been disappointment in consumption, notably so of late, in the way of box boards, the result of a much smaller movement of general merchandise than had been expected. In a few instances there is a continued pressure of supplies, rather too severe for the outlet, but as a rule the offerings seem to be kept fairly in hand.

Eastern Spruce is spoken of a trifle more cheerfully. The demand has picked up slightly, especially from outside custom, and, with very little stock available in random and the productive capacity at work not extensive enough to quickly respond to calls for specials, it makes a firmer position. Each seller, however, appears to be more or less anxious to conceal from his competitor whatever additional business he may secure, and the chances are that patient buyers will be well waited upon. Piling is steady and not so much of it arriving of late. West Virginia Spruce gets a few new calls at steady rates. State Spruce has a fair ear lot trade, and value is supported at $21 for No. 1, $16 for No. 2 and $11 for No. 3.

Hemlock is securing orders from out-of-town custom, rather more of them if anything, and while evidences of occasional irregularity in price are not wanting, the market undergoes no serious fluctuation. The number of buyers on this market is rather limited and small orders serve their wants very well, but desirable offerings are not altogether plenty, and there is in particular a scarcity of 10 foot joint and 13 foot boards.

Carolina Pine is selling to some extent, but it is also being urged upon custom with a great deal of freedom, and under the latter condition the market is kept unsettled and feverish for both high and low grade stock. The efforts of operators to work in harmony does not as yet appear to be successful.

Yellow Pine is spoken of hopefully, not so much in consequence of any pronounced addition to the demand as upon the idea that affairs are shaping for a more sensible conduct of business at primal markets. In two or three cases the talk about producers getting together and working in harmony has commenced to give place to action, with that end in view, and a healthier market is predicted whenever the force of returning inquiry shall lend it aid.

White Pine finds call from dealers, from box makers and to some extent from exporters, but the offering is plentiful enough to satisfy all wants, and sellers are continually looking around to discover if custom does not want a little more stock. Buyers are not compelled to raise their bids to secure attention.

Hardwoods are about steady and fairly active, but without unusual demand for any grade. Poplar is probably getting the fullest and most direct call, as it has general use, and an impression is given that supplies are likely to be scanty all winter. Values are well sustained, and the inclination is, if anything, rather upward for best stock. Oak remains exceedingly popular, but has to fall in line and submit to the influence of the general cautious buying methods at present pursued by all classes of custom. Now and then a call comes for a few car loads of walnut, and buyers appear to thoroughly understand that they must bid full figures to obtain any thing at all desirable.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman says as follows:

The White Pine trade in the northwest is somewhat below the volume of years before the panic, but greater than last year at a corresponding time. But competition is concentrated in the States and sections of States wherein the crop outcome was the most abundant. This feature of the fall trade is noticed at upper Mississippi river points, in this city and finally throughout the White Pine belt. This competition is likely to continue until supplies have been so far depleted that holders of lumber shall see that it is time to stop the slaughter. In the regions west of the Missouri river, except in Eastern Kansas, there is little encouragement to try to sell lumber, and the result is that every holder is forcing sales in the more favored territory where crops were a fair average.

In Saginaw Valley there is a large amount of lumber of this year's crop remaining unsold, with considerable carried over from last season. Prices seem to have been held too firmly to allow of the moving of lumber. Recent breaks in prices have been reported on some sorts of stocks. The car load trade in the valley and at Lake Erie points is fair and holding on steadily in a moderate way as the fall advances.

At Chicago receipts were light during the week on account of the head winds, which have pre-vented loaded vessels from reaching port. The consequence has been a quiet market. Since a considerable number of boats are loading at mill points a sizable fleet is expected when the wind changes to the northward. The yard men, being aware that there was little on the market to choose from, have made but moderate inquiry during the week, but lumber to arrive has daily been sold. Prices remain practically unchanged, piece stuff going at $9 for short green and $9.25 for dry.

It is said by the commission dealers that the disposition of the mill operators is to withhold lumber from the market rather than make concessions, and some prefer to pile and hold over rather than to sell at going figures. Dealers who go to the mills for supplies find that there is nothing to gain so far as price is concerned, but they sometimes suit themselves at the mills in the character of stock purchased better than they can on the market.

Trade in Poplar lumber is picking up a little, but as yet there has been no material increase in prices. Stocks at river mills are comparatively light, but those located on the Ohio river now expect a new supply of logs to come down on the recent rise, which will enable them to start up again. The inland mills have been running steadily, but the aggregate supply of Poplar lumber is comparatively light, and a shortage will undoubtedly be developed as soon as demand shall reach a normal condition.

STATE.

The Albany Argus reports:

A few of the leading houses in the White Pine trade were quite busy the past week, but for most dealers it was a dull period. Receipts continue light and prices unchanged, though canal and lake freights have advanced, the former from $1.35 to $1.45 per thousand and the lake rates from $1.25 to $1.50. Trade in Spruce and Hemlock has picked up a little, and there were some quite large sales to New York parties. Nine-inch sizes are quite scarce.

NAILS.—Demand is not satisfactory. Occa-sionally orders run pretty full, but again drop off into very small compass, and it is evident buyers find no incentive to stimulate free investment. The orders at the mills have also fallen away somewhat, and at the moment faith in a good, full winter trade is a little shaky. The general range of prices stand about as before. We quote Gal at $1.00 a 1.05 per keg for car lots and $1.10 a 1.20 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3¢, per keg for steel; Wire, $1.00 a 1.15 for car lots, and $1.25 a 1.35 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Trade runs irregularly. Some operators appear to be fairly busy, now and then quite active, and others find demand of a dull, limited character, although the latter are mostly those who were booking a fair number of orders during the early portion of the season. In general the market has the characteristics common among pretty much all lines of merchandise, demand extending only to the limit of the sure and early wants of custom, and buyers evidently finding nothing to stimulate them into accumulating stock against the possibilities of the future. As a rule manufacturers have been careful with production, and there is no surplus offering to cause annoyance, but quite enough for all wants, and on matter of valuation buyers retain the advantage.

For leads, corrodors' quotations stand as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 6¢ net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase, 5¢; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 5.94¢; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 5.9¢. Lead in oil in 12 1/2 lb. tin pails, add 1¢; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add 5¢, and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case), add 25¢ per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots of 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2 1/2 per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corrodoring point. Unseeded Old meets with about the average demand from regular custom. Sellers are tenacious of recent advantages on value secured upon rumored damage to the seed crop, but reports of rate cutting by outside operators commence to be heard, and the close is unsettled. We quote at 52¢ a 53¢, for Western, 53¢ a 54¢, for City from domestic seed and 54¢ a 55¢ for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine, in rather small supply and fair demand, which, in conjunction with better accounts from primal markets, inspires a firmer general tone. We quote at 25¢ a 29¢, per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Business has been of moderate proportions and slightly uncertain in development, the current wants of buyers evidently proving small. Prices are slightly uncertain and not particularly firm. We quote Tar at $1.95 a 2.00 in pine or Whitington bbls., $2.75 a 3.00 in pork bbls., and $3.90 a 4.00 in oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50 a 1.70.

VOL. LIV. OCTOBER 13, 1894. No. 1,387

For additional Brooklyn matter, see Brooklyn Department immediately following New Jersey records (page 524).

THERE is apparent a halting, or perhaps more properly speaking, a retrograde movement in almost every line of business. This may be explained by the season, the prominence in men's minds of the coming elections, the recent religious observances which have kept so many members of that nation which influences every commercial centre from business, and the limit of the ability to purchase being reached for the time being. There is, too, a feeling of disappointment in the results of operations during the fine season, with little encouragement in sight for the coming winter months that has also a considerable influence. The crop reports continue to be bad reading, the comparison between previous years both in yield of wheat and corn and their prices, indicates such a depreciation of resources in the regions they most effect that it arouses only very gloomy views at present; later, some mitigating circumstances will come into play, and at least modify those views. Going into the stock market, for instance, the extreme bear opinion on the West is that the people have no money to travel with and nothing to ship, the extravagance of which is apparent. But Wall street is the gloomiest place to be found anywhere to-day, though there are signs that the stock market has discounted the bad features of the business situation for a moderate period ahead. If there was a little more activity in the commission houses, a more positive opinion might be ventured, but while these are so dull, prices are very much at the mercy of traders whose changing fancy there is no foretelling.

WHILE a great deal is very naturally made of the effects on the business situation yet to be experienced, of the shrinkage in the corn crop, no attention seems to be paid to another point which will go on the credit side of the agricultural ledger. This is the improvement of all fall crops and late pasturage as a result of the plentiful rains and sunshine of the past two months. The spring-like freshness of the grass everywhere observable, though most unusual at this time of the year, is alone significant of a large addition to the means and resources of the farmer, and has an actual pecuniary value which will compensate for a part of the losses the country has sustained through the drought of the summer. To this must also be added the value of many small crops which have also been benefited by recent climatic conditions and whose share in the total of the year's returns from agriculture is by no means insignificant. Another thing not without importance is that if the experiments, now being made with wheat as cattle feed, are as successful as they promise to be in enlarging the uses of that grain it will not continue long to sell at the same price as corn.

THE union of all the anti-Tammany forces will test the strength of the Wigwam at the coming municipal election. Political arithmetic is notoriously uncertain, but so far as paper calculations go, it is difficult to see how Tammany can come out of the contest a victor. Colonel Strong, the nominee of the anti-Tammany combination, is pretty nearly as strong a candidate as could have been put up. He lacks, perhaps, something of the popular esteem in which, for instance, Mr. Seth Low is held, but he lacks little else. Any slight obscurity surrounding him at present will be dispelled before election day, and voters will be in very little doubt as to who the man is or as to what he stands for. Mr. Strong's election will mean a new regime in the administration of the city, and it is scarcely Puritanism to desire a change in the administration of the city's affairs after the recent disclosures made by the Lexow Committee. Mr. Goff's investigations, of course, have been limited to only one department of the government, but no sensible person believes for a moment that all the other departments of the administration are not similarly tainted. The people of this city have been given an lesson as to what government by "politics" means, and it is simply impossible for any one to believe that they want it to be continued. The union of otherwise hostile factions, under the leadership of Col. Strong, indicates a real determination to bring about, at least, a measure of reform. Complete reformation at one bound is, perhaps, not to be hoped for. The most that can be looked for is a decided measure of improvement. The combination of Republicans and Democrats will in itself, if successful, insure greater progress later on. It is a decided step toward non-partisanship in municipal affairs. The manifest absurdity of attempting to govern the city upon political lines will be driven home by an object-lesson, the force of which can not but be felt by even the most rabid party men. The efficient management of the city is entirely a matter of selecting efficient, honest men for the work that has to be done. It is precisely similar to the successful management of a business concern. The merchant who should engage his assistants and workpeople solely according to the way they voted would be regarded by everyone as fit for instant transference to an insane asylum. To endeavor to clean city streets by "politics" is every bit as ludicrous, and the people who persist in the method deserve to be secluded with the merchant. A Chinaman who should faithfully describe the principles upon which New York city is managed would undoubtedly figure as a very comic person among his fellow Celestials. If we had not tried the system, and had not been confronted for years with the resulting criminality and inefficiency, there might be some excuse for people going to the polls, election after election, to vote for officials according to "politics." We have been prosecuting the absurd business, however, since childhood, with the result that New York is to-day the type of a mismanaged city. To-day the indication is that common sense is about to play some part in our affairs. The election of Colonel Strong is hardly to be doubted. His accession to office will mean more business and less politics than we have had in the City Hall almost since that venerable building was constructed.

Rapid Transit at Last.

CERTAINTY has so frequently proved uncertain in the parlous undertaking to supply New York city with an adequate system of rapid transit that it is running something of a danger to say: "At last, the metropolis is practically assured of an adequate system of transportation." This does seem, however, to be the case. There is an unusual air of certainty about the present situation. It is true, the whole affair is still in a theoretic condition. Constructively, nothing has yet been decided upon. The problem is still more or less in the control of popular clamor, and as the judgment of the multitude has already given several curious twists to the matter, it is, of course, not impossible that it may give one more turn to it and take it quite off the lines upon which it is at present.

It will be remembered that at one time the prevailing conception of rapid transit was not much beyond a third track on the elevated road. At the time, the Manhattan Co. was quite ready to extend its system, but public opinion, which usually means public prejudice, was "down on" the late lamented Jay Gould, and refused to grant any thing to the company he presided over, no matter how much benefit would accrue thereby to the city. This phase was one of long duration. It gave way, after a time, under the pressure of the inconvenience of getting about the city, to the idea that an underground road, owned and controlled by some private corporation (of course, morally constituted like the Manhattan Co.), was the proper thing. But this idea did not get acceptance at once. A mirage of a solid overhead road through the blocks, from one end of Manhattan to the other, floated about on the verge of the popular horizon until it was clearly shown that a construction of the kind was totally precluded by its enormous cost. Schemes, also, for girdling the city with rails along the dock fronts were discussed, but all discussion drove public attention more and more to concentrate on the axis of the island. It was seen that to meet the requirements of the city adequately, whatever road was built, overhead or underground, would have to pass as nearly as possible through the centre of the town. This condition seemed to make an underground road the one thing possible. People took up the idea, endorsed it, and, after a great deal of pother, a franchise was put up to auction. No purchaser was forthcoming. The fact is, there was nothing for private capital in a road that really served the people. Another twist was then given to the problem. After having cursed the Manhattan Co., Public and Press alike appealed to it for assistance. The company was solicited to accept a franchise for the construction of a new elevated road system. But in this case the corporation was obdurate. It was content to leave the New Yorker to deal with the problem unaided.

This denouement drove people to the conclusion that they should have reached logically at the outset. Municipal ownership was the way out of the woods. THE RECORD AND GUIDE pointed this out at the time when press and public alike were violently opposed to the idea. We then declared it was impossible to get a really adequate system of transportation unless the city constructed the road and perhaps operated it, also. Nearly everyone has now come to this opinion, and to-day we find not only the question whether the municipality shall, if necessary, own and operate the needed rapid transit system going before the people for indorsement at the polls, but we find every party or faction in the city committed to record an affirmative answer.

That the referendum will result in a heavy majority for municipal ownership, there can be no doubt. It is this which practically guarantees that the rapid transit problem is at last entering into a practical phase. The importance of this result to real estate cannot be over-estimated. The lack of adequate transportation facilities has grievously hampered the expansion of the city in the last few years. It is true that there has been expansion; but expansion has taken place, not within the limits of the metropolis, but without—in the outer wards of Brooklyn and in the State of New Jersey.

SO long as the war between China and Japan continues and the condition of the Czar of Russia gives anxiety, scares similar to those recently operative will at uncertain intervals disturb business in Europe. As to the Eastern war it appears that the great powers are preparing to intervene to prevent the victorious course of the Japanese, should it continue, going to the length of throwing the whole of China into a condition of anarchy. A moment's thought will suggest something of what that might be, and no one will claim that the glory of the conqueror deserves to be gratified at such a price, not merely to the foe but to humanity at large. If China were in the ascendant the interests of the great powers would equally require them to prevent her going to extremities with her rival. In such a consideration as this of course Japan will have to be reckoned with, but her course has been guided with too much wisdom hitherto to make it possible to suppose that she would continue her depredations on a helpless enemy in defiance of the expressed wish of England, France, Germany, Russia, and probably the United States. The matter is a very delicate one for all the parties concerned, and consequently so full of danger that scare-mongering for bourse purposes is likely to be a profitable, even if a disreputable occupation until a settlement has been attained. The appeals issued in London in the third quarter of this year for new capital were more than double what they were for the same quarters in the two previous years, and are satisfactory compared with any of eight consecutive previous quarters. The total for the year compares favorably with that of the same time in 1893. The response is said not to have been a warm one, but the persistence with which new enterprises are offered on the market shows a faith in the improved conditions on the part of promoters at least, and as their business is to watch the turn of events, we may take it that this faith is based on something more substantial than air. The attempt in Paris to revive the Panama Canal scheme has proved a distinct failure, for which there are many reasons for being thankful. The Atlantic-Mediterranean Canal scheme has been revived and a commission appointed by the Minister of Public Works to report on its value, notwithstanding that there are already naval, military and civil engineers' reports condemning it from all its points of view. The Berlin and Vienna bourses have been more disturbed than any others by reports of the Czar's health, for the reason that the securities of the Balkan governments are dealt in more there than elsewhere. Spanish finances are improving, judging from the statements recently issued by the Minister of Finance at Madrid. The Argentine government is proceeding with its plan for taking up the provincial debt, but so far the holders of that debt have not been heard from except in dissent from the terms proposed. Of trade conditions abroad, nothing new can be said of them, except that perhaps there is a little falling off since last advices.

LITERATURE may be searched in vain for a description of actual or imagined horrors to equal those reported to have occurred on board the Chinese cruiser Yang Wai and the Japanese flagship Metsuchima during a conflict between them in the course of the war in the East. Nothing in ancient story of ruthless sack suggests anything like it for rapid destruction and mutilation, or for recking, weltering goriness. In the midst of so many dreadful things that we are asked to believe happened on the Chinese cruiser, the surgeon spraying prussic acid into the eager outstretched throats and nostrils of tortured and suffering wretches wounded beyond hope of remedy, appears like a picture of grace and mercy. If such are the results of the encounter between two powers like China and Japan, to what extreme of pitilessness would two great powers descend if their defensive resources were brought into conflict? It is melancholy to see that our much belauded civilization, in the development of engines of war and destruction, has found means to concentrate within the space of a few days, weeks or months, all and more of the cruelties possible to the tyrants and torturers of any thousand years of the rudest past. The West regards with disgust the cruelties incident to the manners and customs of barbarous or semi-barbarous nations, yet how many years would elapse before in the ordinary employment of such practices an equal amount of pain and suffering would be inflicted on the Chinese and Japanese peoples as has been and will be inflicted in the conduct of this war by modern naval and land armaments, the gifts of the civilized West to the semi-barbarous East. This is not the scientific or the popular lesson of this war; it is the merciful one, though. It shows that the nations which boast of their civilization ought to give more earnest and conscientious attention to devising means for limiting, if not discontinuing, the pursuit of the science of destruction than they do. At present the tendency is decidedly the other way, notwithstanding the talk of peace societies. The call is for larger ships and more powerful guns. Yet any one who will look at the matter coolly must shudder to think that in joining in this demand he is helping to bring about other such scenes of mutilation and carnage as are now being witnessed in the China Seas. This is positively a most dreadful thought.

NOTHING illustrates better the difficulty of deciding questions in dispute between employer and employed than the decisions just rendered in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in two celebrated labor cases. One of these, prepared by Justice Harlan, by holding that an individual cannot be compelled to remain with an employer, practically destroys all value, as far as the employer is concerned, of the position taken by Judge Jenkins in the celebrated Northern Pacific case, which interposed the authority of the Court to prevent a strike. The second decision, made in another division of the Court, sustained the lower Court in fining an Ann Arbor engineer for an alleged contempt of Court in leaving his engine on the track in the course of a labor dispute. If a man cannot be restrained from leaving his employment, it is hard to see how he can become in contempt of the Courts for disregarding powers they do not possess, no matter when or how he leaves. If he renders himself liable to penalties for abandoning his work under any circumstances, it is just as hard to see how the Courts can enforce them without interfering with those individual rights that Justice Harlan's opinion maintains. Which position is right is a question which will probably have to be referred to the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States. Though at first it appeared not to be the case, later decisions have made the results of carrying labor disputes to the Courts for settlement more to the advantage of the men than of the employer. That the men see this is shown by the confidence with which appeal is made by some Reading employees to the Court at Philadelphia for an order restraining the receivers from discharging them for the reason, as alleged by them, that they refuse to resign from certain labor organizations. This makes a nice question of the right of employers, represented by the Reading receivers, to determine the causes justifying dismissal of employees and will be watched with interest. These cases, although they only directly affect disputes on railroads in charge of the Federal courts, have a value outside of the several points of dispute in that they inferentially and indirectly provide a dispassionate discussion in the best of quarters of the question of the relations between employer and employed out of which some valuable suggestions may reasonably be expected to come for making those relations more satisfactory than they now are, and they will therefore be watched with very great interest.

A GOOD deal of baby-talk is going on in the English press, and the English financial press particularly, on the causes of the distrust of American railroad securities abroad. The rascality and jugglery that have brought some prominent railroad companies to the ground are condemned as much on this side of the Atlantic as the other, and the desire for reform in managerial and fiscal policies as sincere here as there. Many innocent people have been injured wherever American railroad stocks and bonds have been dealt in; but the losses in the main are due to the spirit of speculation which is probably more rife in the immediate vicinity of Threadneedle street and Cornhill than in any other part of the world. People who buy securities out of the investment list generally know that they are taking some risks, but never seem to inquire who and what are back of these issues until that fact is proved by values shrinking in their hands when the inevitable time of adversity comes. Ears are probably more acute to this kind of preaching just now because of the extent of the losses that have been sustained in recent years, and while it is hoped that they may, it is very doubtful if they will remain so. It would be better for both Englishmen and Americans if they encouraged the growth of economic sense and howled less. In exceedingly few cases of misconduct in the treatment of corporate property is there any attempt to procure restitution or the punishment of the offenders. If this continues to be the case the future will produce new crops of wreckers, encouraged into existence by the ease with which the old ones are now allowed to escape with their plunder. If injured security holders want to reform corporate methods, let them combine their energies and resources to obtain redress for the injuries they are at present uselessly bemoaning. As for the disfavor with which railroad securities are at present regarded, it is a fact to be deplored, but it is a fact, nevertheless, that it will disappear as soon as a prospect for speculative profit appears, without any regard whatever for intrinsic merit. As one foreign journal remarks, buyers have been attracted into Americans because of their "manifold attractions—as for instance, almost infinite variability combined with the greatest market freedom." These attractions will be as potent in the future as in the past; it only requires that the public memory should become a little dulled.

THE building trade, no doubt, read with satisfaction the testimony to the growing demand among the business public for modern and luxurious offices contained in the article published recently on the results of this year's renting in the downtown office region. Not only is the office space present and immediately prospective, largely increased by the high buildings, but owing to the reduced cost of erecting them, they can offer everything that the professional man and the merchant can desire in the way of facilities for carrying on their several businesses at rates so moderate that the old unimproved buildings cannot compete with them at all. Notwithstanding the continued restriction of commercial activity, the pecuniary results in the sky-scrapers opened this year do not appear to be unsatisfactory to their builders. In fact, as a prominent architect remarked recently, regarded from the æsthetic view their commercial success was a most unfortunate thing. This being a time of general contraction rather than expansion of running expenses, it follows that the new offices flourish at the expense of the old, and the question will arise as soon as the signs of expansion become pronounced, what must be done with the latter to put them in a position of more advantage with the former? The answer to this lies on the surface; fire must fight fire. The older buildings must either be changed or rebuilt in order to supply those luxuries into the use of which tenants have been educated by the new ones.

Municipal Rapid Transit.

SOME RESULTS OBTAINED ELSEWHERE—AN ERROR ON THE PART OF EASTSIDERS.

The hot work that is going on in the selection of candidates for the great municipal offices overshadows all other questions at the moment, but it is to be hoped that when the names are clearly before them, citizens of New York will not overlook the fact that besides determining their choice of individuals for the offices, they will also have to decide upon some principles that materially affect their comfort and prosperity. For instance, next to securing an honest administration of their affairs, there is no question that concerns them more than rapid transit, and consequently none that deserves more earnest attention. The point has been recently made in the discussion now proceeding on the question of rapid transit, that the increase in assessment that follows every improvement also increases New York city's contribution to the revenues of the State. This is an argument that could have been brought against every improvement the city has ever made, but no one grudges the increased addition to the State taxes as a result of laying out the parks. The value of rapid transit to the city, from the pecuniary point of view at any rate, will be very much more than the parks were. Besides, much of the money contributed to State taxes by New York city comes back to it through channels of trade and finance, because of its dominating position in the business of the country, and any figures which attempt to show that New York city in improving itself is helping the State at large ought to take this into account.

The approaching vote has naturally drawn attention to the position of the east side of the city as the plans stand at present, and many letters are received from east-siders saying that they will not vote for municipal rapid transit while no provision is made for their part of the city. The policy of the Commission toward the east side is authoritatively stated as follows: "When the Commission first came into existence it was necessary either that it should adopt the route of the old commission, which made no provision for rapid transit on the east side, north of 42d street, or that it should lay out entirely new routes and obtain the necessary consents of the property owners and local authorities. The reason why the Commission faced this alternative was that the Rapid Transit Act required that before the question of municipal construction should be submitted to the people, the routes and plans should be located and adopted, and should be assented to by the property holders and the local authorities. Under these circumstances to lay out a new route would have delayed the submission of the question to popular vote for at least a year and perhaps more, and therefore the Commissioners adopted the former alternative, in order to submit the matter immediately to the popular vote. But power is expressly reserved to the Commission after the taking of the popular vote, if the question is determined in the affirmative, to locate new routes and adopt other plans wholly irrespective of what had been done prior to the vote. The Commission will unquestionably avail themselves of this power in order to make provision for adequate rapid transit on the east side of the city. This is shown by the fact that it has already instructed its engineer to study the matter of an east side route with a view to its speedy adoption if the people shall determine in favor of municipal construction. There need be no apprehension, therefore, on the part of those living on the east side of the city north of 42d street that the Commission will prove indifferent to their interests."

Mr. William Barclay Parsons submitted his preliminary report to the Rapid Transit Commission at their meeting on Tuesday last. As has been already stated, Mr. Parsons visited London, Liverpool, Glasgow and Paris last summer in order to study the systems of rapid transit in use there, and his conclusions, which were generally stated last week, are: First, that an underground railway operated by steam, even with the most approved system of mechanical ventilation, would be intolerable to the people of the city of New York. Second, that a railway with a speedy, frequent service can be operated successfully and economically by electricity. Third, that an underground railway operated by electricity has a comfortable atmosphere, and that it can be arranged so as to avoid great changes in temperature. Fourth, the advice and experience of foreign engineers lean toward keeping the rail level as close to the surface as possible, and that excavating from the surface is cheaper and safer than tunneling, but Fifth, if conditions demand, a deep tunnel can be constructed, for which the circular form is best. Sixth, that an underground road can be so designed as to be attractive in appearance. Seventh, that the work can be carried on through a busy street without endangering the houses and without seriously impeding travel.

A great deal of attention is naturally devoted by Mr. Parsons to London, where the first actual attempt to wrestle with the problem of rapid transit was begun forty-one years ago. His description of the different pieces of road, built here and there by private enterprise at enormous cost, suggests the thought that the results must have been much more efficient if the energy and resources employed had been directed upon a comprehensive plan dealing with the whole city. The irregular way in which the work has been done in London seems to have resulted in only the very best sections, and those that promised the quickest pecuniary returns, being developed, and these at a correspondingly high cost, while the other districts have been left to shift for themselves or wait until their importance warranted private enterprise entering the field to supply their wants. The concentration of engineering ability and means to a large plan, carried out under the supervision of a public body, could not but have resulted in a better service. In the course of the description of construction, appearance, operation, etc., of these foreign railways, Mr. Parsons gives some figures relating to the success of the electric railways, which are particularly interesting. On a small line of 3.5 miles, the City and South London, built on the Greathead system, the speed from terminus to terminus, including stops, is 11½ miles an hour, or excluding stops, 13½ miles. The maximum between stations is from 20 to 25 miles. The contractors for the working plant guaranteed a working cost not to exceed 7 cents per train mile for a service of 14,800 train miles per week and 12½ cents for 8,247 miles. There are being made an average of 8,769 train miles per week, at a cost of about 8¼ cents, or 4 cents less than the guaranteed cost, per train mile. On the Liverpool Overhead Railway, an elevated railway operated by electricity, 6.1 miles long, the original specifications called for a three-minute service, with an average speed, exclusive of stops, of 16 miles and a maximum speed of 30 miles per hour. The contractors were to run the trains for two years at a cost not exceeding 7 cents per train mile for all expenses connected with the running power. At the end of ten months the company put an end to the contract and saved money thereby, as they can operate at less than 6 cents per train mile. The report on the whole is very suggestive of what can be obtained in efficiency of service, economy in operation and other advantages of a comprehensive treatment of the matter of rapid transit for New York city, and will, when completed, undoubtedly be of great service to the Commission in its future deliberations.

While the Commission is thus proceeding with its work along the lines which have received a larger measure of popular sanction and approval than has ever been accorded to any other scheme for rapid transit, other possibilities in the way of transit systems do not fail of their advocates.

A gentleman who for more than twenty-five years has been intimately related to the real estate market, and in that time has been one of the strongest advocates of all that would inure to its interest, gave expression yesterday to the following ideas upon the question: "I do not look for the solution of the rapid transit problem by the construction of an underground railroad. So far as this referendum is concerned, I believe in that. I would like to see a favorable vote on the question, so as to conclusively recognize and approve the principle of municipal ownership and construction. I believe the city ought to own all of these franchises that in their nature are monopolies. But the progress that has been made in electric traction during these last few years appears to me to indicate the direction toward which we must look for the development of the transit system which is to fill the needs of this city. Any one who has not become familiar with the trolley railroads as they have been established in the district above the Harlem and in Westchester county, can hardly conceive of the extent of their superiority over the old horse car and dummy systems.

"Why, during the warm evenings in the summer, when it seemed impossible to find a cool spot anywhere, I used to jump on a trolley car in front of my residence and ride to the end of the route and back again, and I invariably felt refreshed and cooled off by the trip and could go to bed and to a comfortable sleep. This I did in preference to driving, and I did it often, when, under similar circumstances, I would have ordered out my horses for a drive over the country roads. The ride in the trolley car was actually pleasanter and more refreshing. There are great objections, of course, to the overhead wires for a road in New York city—I mean down here on the island. But here are two great companies just now in competition for a right of way from 110th street to the Yonkers line, through St. Nicholas avenue and the Kingsbridge road, both of which propose to use the underground trolley system. Now, who would have thought of that a few years ago?"

"But, sir, while that will undoubtedly prove a vast improvement in the systems of local transit, how will it meet the demand for improved rapid transit? You do not expect to see these cars run on the street surface at a speed equivalent to that even of the present elevated railroad system, much less of the ideal transit system, do you?"

"Not at all. But what is to hinder the operation of the overhead or elevated railroads by electricity? Indeed, I have been told by a responsible engineer that the present elevated railroads could be operated by electric power at less expense than they are now run by steam. The proposition has been thoroughly discussed by the directors of the elevated roads, and there is a strong sentiment in favor of it, only it looks as if no improvements at all could be made in that system as long as old Russell Sage is alive. He is the chief and almost the only obstacle to improvement there. If the company knew where it could dispose of its steam motors without suffering a great loss upon them, I am told it would change to electric traction right away; but old man Sage is unwilling to make an investment that does not return an immediate profit, and so the change isn't made. But I would not be surprised to hear any day that the company was making arrangements to convert its traction system from steam to electricity.

"Just see what an immense improvement it would be to get rid of all the smoke and steam and cinders and the flavor of spoiled eggs that emanate from the steam motor and pollute the atmosphere of all the trains! And the elevated railroad company could change to the electric system easier than any other road. It would have no cost to build, and there is no wagon or other street traffic to avoid. It could place its conductor down between the rails, away from everybody and everything, and it could make any speed that would be desired. The trolley cars in upper New York often make as high speed as thirty miles an hour, and I am sure that on an elevated structure they could make even better time. I think we ought to allow all the third tracks the company might want, but it ought to be conditional upon its changing to the electric system. Then it ought to establish local stations at every cross street and stop as often as passengers wanted to get on or off. Operating on the electric system, every car could be a motor, and single car trains would often be worked with advantage over two, three or four car trains. They would move so much faster, don't you see, and with such greater frequency that they would accommodate so many more people. Then, on the third track, they could shoot their express trains along between long stops as fast as they pleased."

"Doubtless such a change in the elevated railroad system would greatly improve the conditions of travel on that line and would increase the capacity of the roads, but would that suffice to meet the requirements not only of the present but of the future also? Do we not need an entirely new road, running close to the main line of travel, which is along Broadway, with facilities for extension in the future?"

"Undoubtedly. But why should not that be an elevated rather than an underground road? I am aware of the objections urged against the present elevated railroad structure—that it is a crude, hideous, noisome structure, a blur upon every street through which it runs—but why need it be so? Any new road might be given an attractive appearance, with pillars of architectural grace and beauty and girders of ornamental design. It could be kept fairly clean, and ought to be painted once a year. Then, if it were operated by electric power, there would be no steam, or gas, or cinders to distress the passengers, and the noise of the engines would never annoy the people along the line. Such a road in Broadway would be unobjectionable, or at least as little objectionable as any road, underground or otherwise, is likely to be. But I hope there is no doubt of a favorable vote on the referendum at all events. Elevated or underground, the city ought to build and own the road. But my preference and the preferences of most people, I believe, will be for travel in the open air."

An Appeal on Behalf of Rapid Transit.

NEW YORK, October 9, 1894.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

It is now within a month of the day on which the fate of real rapid transit for New York will be decided by the voters, and after all that has been discussed and written on the subject I feel constrained to say and loth to admit that it is a surprising fact to find many of our citizens who, should rapid transit become an absolute law, would become its chief beneficiaries, seem to have a very limited knowledge regarding the merits of the question.

It is also a fact that the masses as a rule do not read, except superficially, articles in the newspapers of a didactic public nature, especially the average voter, the reason for which I presume may be attributed to lack of time and patience to interest himself permanently in any special subject among the many that continually loom up from time to time.

Therefore all interest, active temporarily only, is lost in the very subject which pertains exclusively to the development of our city.

Political questions at this time seem to absorb attention instead; at such a time the public mind, so to speak, becomes transitory.

Assuming, therefore, the majority of the voters of our commonwealth are among the superficial readers, and to bring to their notice the importance of this vast and all significant subject, and while admitting that to the press is due great credit for its able and earnest advocacy of rapid transit, yet I venture to say that it would be suggestive on the part of the press to print headlines in type sufficiently large, and in a few words demonstrate to the superficial reader the importance of the subject of rapid transit.

If the press fail to reach and educate the masses on this subject by lengthy, able as they may be, and if not read, obscure editorials and articles, other tactics should be adopted, with undoubtedly better and more far-reaching results.

I fear that although rapid transit is conceded as essential by every honest voter, where it is thoroughly understood, it may be defeated at the polls by supineness on their part, especially through the intrigue of the elevated railroad, traction companies and politicians.

All conversant with the subject know what a boom it will be if successful—especially an ally in developing Greater New York—but in the event of defeat, what then? RAPID TRANSIT ADVOCATE.

The Lumpers' Boycott.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE ORGANIZATION THAT THE BOYCOTT CALLED INTO EXISTENCE.

The headquarters of the newly-formed Employers' and Builders' League, in Room 522 of the United Charities Building, are being furnished, and will in a few days be fully ready for occupation. Meantime the League is soliciting supply firms to send specimens of their work, which will be exhibited prominently for inspection by the members. In addition to this and to the arrangement by which men leaving the employment of one member will be given the opportunity of going on to the jobs of others where required, it is proposed some time in the future to arrange that builders in the League who are asking for sub-estimates may send their plans to headquarters, and that the members shall have the privilege of figuring upon them.

Another and a very important matter which is occupying attention is the question of settlement of disputes between members by arbitration. The adoption of the principle of arbitration by the League, could hardly be followed by any but beneficial results. These disputes often involve the filing of liens and the carrying on of lawsuits which are not only expensive, but consume a great deal of time and make bad blood between the disputants. By accepting the principle of arbitration a prompt and fair decision could be reached without expense, by specially appointed committees, or by a standing arbitration committee. The advantages of arbitration in trade disputes over legal warfare come mainly from the fact that the body which is to decide can take up a case at any time, whereas a lawsuit has to wait its turn on the list. Moreover, the arbitrators are intimately acquainted with the matter in dispute, which judges and juries in the courts are not. Fairness is generally assured by the fact that the arbitrator of one day may be the petitioner of the next. It is no wonder then that the League members are said to be delighted with the proposition and looking forward eagerly for the submission of a plan which shall give it practical effect.

At the usual meeting of the League last Wednesday evening fifteen new members were enrolled, making the total membership now over 130. The business submitted was of routine character, calling for no special remark. Informally it was gathered that the employment of counsel to take proceedings to compel the performance of sub-contracts on membership jobs was followed by satisfactory results. The intimation that they would be sued for violation of their contracts is said to have stiffened the backbone of some of the sub-contractors who cling to union affiliations, and that they are now getting to work again. For instance, Walker & Lawson's work, which has come up so prominently in this dispute with the Board of Walking Delegates on the "lumping" question, is now going on all right. How much of this is due to the threat of legal proceedings it would be hard to say, and so long as work is resumed no one cares to inquire.

For the information of those who may be desirous of joining the League, it may be stated that its fees are moderate, being $5 for initiation and regular dues $1 a month, payable quarterly in advance.

The New Buildings of the University of the City of New York.

"We feel very happy over the way our building work is proceeding," said Chancellor McCracken, standing in the hallway of the frame structure that has been erected between the first and second beams of the new university building now in course of construction in Washington Square. "We have," he said, "here two classrooms capable of holding 200 people each and ten other smaller rooms, five of which are occupied by the School of Pedagogy, while the others are used for the Chancellor's, treasurer's, secretary's office, etc. We get steam from a neighboring mercantile building, and have made ourselves comfortable until our building shall be completed, and we occupy the rooms intended for us. It was specified in the contract that we should be housed in this temporary way by October 1st, and our architect, Alfred Zucker, and contractors Cornell Brothers, and L. & E. Weber have come right up to the scratch. These results have been very remarkable, because we held our farewell meeting in the old building as late as 20th of May last, and the old building, an immensely heavy one, had then to be removed. Below was only a cellar eight feet deep, and it was necessary to excavate twenty-five feet for foundations. Out at University Heights we have also been very successful in our building operations. Our Hall of Languages, a building 100x50 and costing $80,000, is receiving the interior polished oak woodwork. The laboratory, 75x55 feet: the power-house, which also accommodates the School of Physics and Engineering, and the gymnasium, a frame building 100x65 with stone foundations and tile roof, are all completed. The old mansion that stood on the grounds we have converted into a dormitory, about 63x65, for forty men, and the students are now in it. We have now five permanent buildings and two temporary, though substantial ones; one for natural history, biology and geology and the other for reading-room and association hall."

Building Activity on the East Side.

In appearance the East Side of the city at least does not support the complaints that have been made of dullness in the buildings' trades. Any one who will walk down the avenues and keep a sharp eye for the streets as he passes them will see very many of the evidences by which the builder always makes his presence known, in the thoroughfares pedestriated and those observed merely. The amount of work under way covering the whole city may not be entirely satisfactory to the trade as a whole, though the circumstances of the times taken into account, it will probably surprise the grumblers themselves when brought in a clear, condensed statement before their eyes. In certain districts the dissatisfaction is certainly the outcome of the pessimistic habit into which nearly everybody has seemingly fallen since the financial upheaval of last year. A builder, who one day this week sat on a pile of timber in the characteristic aspect of the race, apparently "thinking of nothing at all," yet at the same time keeping a sharp and watchful eye on every part of a large job going on before him, made complaint that this large job, the plans for which were only filed last spring, would soon be finished and then he would have nothing but some smaller contracts to attend to; that people would not begin new work now that the year was so far advanced, prices were so low, etc. This is a typical example of the attitude of the business men who constantly overlook the fact that the work they are now upon came out of the unknown, and that the future has similar opportunities, though they cannot be seen at the moment; that the requirements of a great and growing city will produce the work of the coming seasons as they have the work of the present and past ones. The obstruction to operations by reason of strikes is a complaint that has better ground. It is undoubtedly very exasperating any time, and particularly now, but the building trade has had sufficient experience of the humors of workmen and the pleasantries of the walking delegate that it should not be unduly disturbed by them.

As already stated, the East Side does not represent a condition of stagnation in the building trade. An inspection of the district between 59th street and 125th street and east of 5th avenue will prove this assertion. The amount of work under way may not meet all the wishes of the trade, but it is undoubtedly quite substantial. It comprises many jobs for which the plans were filed last year, but which were delayed owing to a variety of causes, including the usual ones which need not be specifically mentioned; but chiefly to the impossibility of financing them in the then disturbed condition of the money market. On Madison avenue and its vicinity, just south of Mount Morris Park, there is considerable structural activity, as the result of taking up delayed plans. For instance, John J. Macdonald is putting up a row of flats on 117th street. Next, east of this job, it may be mentioned, Builder Cunningham is getting out foundations for two flats, for which the plans are about to be filed. The large apartment house of John W. Stevens, on the northwest corner of Madison avenue and 116th street, is nearing completion. Quincy & Harris are working on the northwest corner of 114th street and 5th avenue; a block of stores and flats are going up on the southeast corner of Madison avenue and 115th street; lower down on the block front on Madison avenue, between 95th and 96th streets, the Troop A riding-school is in the hands of the contractor for the interior work. These are, with the exception named, all from plans not included in this year's list. Fifth avenue, in the 60's, is another quarter where there is considerable activity both on new and old work, which promises soon to close up the east side of that thoroughfare in an unbroken line of costly houses. Off the avenue, in the same neighborhood, a number of residences of similar character are in different conditions of progress. The other and less pretentious residence portions of this district are receiving considerable additions, as will be hereafter seen. The plans filed with the Department of Buildings to cover sites within the limits of territory previously mentioned, for the first nine months of this year, make up a respectable showing, both in diversity of buildings and the total amount of work present and prospective that they represent. Exclusive of alterations, these number 223, with a total estimated cost of $5,182,555. The known withdrawals or abandonments number 5, and reduce the total estimated cost by $63,100, in which is included the celebrated Astor stable, that accounts for $25,000 of this amount. These applications classified are as follows:

Class of Building.	No.	Average Cost.	Total Cost.
Flats and tenements.....	108	$21,767	$2,350,906
Dwelling houses.....	30	28,710	1,435,500
Apartment houses.....	7	62,130	437,000
Schools.....	2	157,500	315,000
Factories.....	4	35,875	143,500
Churches.....	2	50,000	100,000
Hospital.....	1	65,000	65,000
Office building.....	1	30,000	30,000
Stables, small buildings, etc.....	48	6,368	305,645
Total.....	223	$23,240	$5,182,555
Withdrawn three flats and tenements, one stable and one small building.....	5	12,620	63,100
Revised total.....	218	$23,483	$5,119,455

A great many of the buildings included in these plans, especially the smaller ones, have been already completed, and as far as a test made to ascertain how the larger ones stood the most of them are under way, with a fair portion nearly completed. The average prices given above and the practice, in the cases of flats, tenements and dwellings particularly, of building in blocks of four and five will show that the number of individual jobs of $100,000 and over is fairly proportioned to the whole. The test involved a visit to twenty-five of the larger undertakings spread over the whole district and resulted in showing work in all stages, from opening ground to interior finish, but work actively progressing, except in the cases of the two schools for which plans have been filed, where no work is being done. Among these test cases may be mentioned the store and office of the Metropolitan Telephone and Telegraph Company, No. 129 124th street, which is completed; the three five-story brick and brownstone flats on 94th street, of August Ganzenmuller, partly complete and occupied; the Quackenbush apartment house on the northwest corner of Park avenue and 92d street, estimated to cost $150,000; the Livingston flats on 89th street, estimated to cost $150,000; St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church on 87th street, which is being erected from plans of Wm. Schickel & Co. at a cost of $80,000; the hospital of the New York Homeopathic Hospital and Medical College, between 63d and 64th streets, on Avenue A, estimated to cost $65,000; several factories on Avenue A and adjacent thereto, representing expenditures of about $100,000. Among the dwellings included in this test list were the following: Dawson & Archer's two, one on Madison avenue and one on 72d street, estimated cost of both $120,000; Henry A. C. Taylor's three houses from plans of McKim, Mead & White, one on 71st street, near 5th avenue, estimated to cost $190,000, and two on 72d street to cost $75,000; the house of Mrs. Cath. L. Kernochan, on 5th avenue, near 64th street, for which Henry F. Kilbarn made the plans, which is to cost $75,000, and that of Mrs. Josephine Schmid, on 5th avenue, near 62d street, of which R. M. Hunt is the architect, and which is to cost $75,000. McCafferty & Buckley have a row of dwellings on 77th street, between 5th and Madison avenues well under way. Besides these the Department of Buildings' records made up to August 31, show twenty-six undertakings completed from plans filed this year. From these facts it may be taken that work has been begun on an unusually large proportion of the plans filed since January 1 last, and from the results of following up the plans given above as well as from the importance of so many of the jobs, it follows that building on the East Side below the river is not by any means as dull as is generally believed.

The number and value of the plans filed in the first three-quarters of this year were not so large as in the same time of 1893, the first being 256 and the second $6,540,365. There was, too, more variety in the buildings projected and more of the pretentious and expensive kind. Thirteen plans alone had an estimated cost of $2,130,000, or an average cost per building of $163,846. These, with their several estimated costs, were: the Astor mansion, 5th avenue and 65th street, $300,000; Isaac Stern's house, 5th avenue and 67th street, $150,000; Mrs. Florence C. Martin's house, on 5th avenue, $80,000; Ward's Island Asylum and dwelling, together $105,000; Hotel Carrollton, 76th street and Madison avenue, $300,000; American Institute building, $250,000; flats, corner Madison avenue and 94th street, $100,000; C. T. Yerkes' house, 5th avenue and 68th street, $250,000; Armory, Madison avenue and 94th street, $140,000; E. J. Berwind's house, 5th avenue and 64th street, $150,000; Bloomingdale's store, $250,000, and the Mission House, at 1147 1st avenue, $75,000. The fact of the total being swelled by these large undertakings and the extreme probability that an examination of the facts, if they could be ascertained, would show that many more plans were hung up financially last year than this while others were abandoned as in the case of the American Institute building support the belief that this year has seen more actual work in progress than last, and certainly, at any rate, that this year makes a good comparison with last. The figures for last year, compiled in the same way as the previous table, are:

Class of Building.	No.	Average Cost.	Total Cost.
Flats and tenements.....	128	$23,500	$3,008,000
Dwelling houses.....	52	33,096	1,721,000

A Colossal Timber Deal.

A purchase of timber land has just been made in North Carolina through George Hagemeyer & Sons, of this city, which is suggestive of the great deals that used to be made in the northwestern timber regions a few years ago. The property in question consists of 78,000 acres of timber land near Asheville, North Carolina, and not far from "Biltmore," George Vanderbilt's luxurious winter seat. The lumber standing on it consists of some hundreds of millions of feet high-grade hardwood and poplar. Messrs. Hagemeyer conducted a most careful and thorough examination of the property, personally, and through experts in their employ, with the result that a combination was made to purchase. The Tuckasee Timber Company was incorporated with a capital of $600,000, to develop the property, and having officers as follows: President, H. K. S. Williams, of I. T. Williams & Son; Vice-President, A. W. Adams, of Wilson, Adams & Co.; Treasurer, George Hagemeyer, of G. Hagemeyer & Sons. Board of Directors, H. K. S. Williams, Allen W. Adams, George Hagemeyer, E. A. Parmele, of the Parmele-Eccleston Lumber Company; Capar Hagemeyer, G. E. Hamford, of the Foreign Hardwood Log Company; J. M. Endie and W. H. Chew. The last two named represent the sellers. Work has already been commenced with a hundred pairs of oxen and a thousand hands. The result to the immediate locality will be the laying out of two new towns and the building of several mills having a daily capacity of a quarter of a million feet. The extension of the facilities of the New York houses interested for cutting from the stump direct ought to improve supplies, and in other ways advantage the consumer.

The Sketch Club.

The monthly meeting and dinner of the Sketch Club of New York was held in the clubrooms, on Saturday evening last. The guests of the club on this occasion were Mr. Hastings, of Carrere & Hastings, Messrs. Masqueray and Garden, of the Chicago Sketch Club. The evening until 11 P. M. was passed in gastronomic and artistic and intellectual pleasures.

Questions and Answers.

Correspondents who do not find answers to their communications in this paper must please refer to future issues.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Kindly inform us where you get your authority for the statement in your issue of September 29th that, notwithstanding an agreement between broker and client, the former cannot enforce his claim for a commission of more than one-half of one per cent. for placing a loan on bond and mortgage?

Answer.—The statute regulating the charge for the placing of a loan in this State at one-half of one per cent. has been in force for twenty years or more, and was passed for the purpose of protecting owners of farm lands from being preyed upon by unscrupulous money lenders or their agents. The amount of commission having been regulated by statute, no more can be collected under any circumstances, but can, of course, and frequently is, given as a gratuity by mortgagors. A suit brought for the collection of any amount above the legal commission would have the same status as one brought to collect interest on a mortgage in excess of the legal rate, which is at present six per cent. The court would decide adversely on the ground that the additional charge was usurious.

Real Estate Market.

The sales announced as closed through the agency of brokers during the past week involve an aggregate consideration exceeding $2,700,000, a sum nearly double the amount, with one or two exceptions, involved reported in any week's transactions since the ending of the spring season. That fact is the best possible evidence of a revival of interest in real estate. The parcels sold indicate a disposition by buyers to invest in almost every section of the city. Even the long-neglected lower East Side has been benefited by the extended buying movement, and several important sales in that district are included among the week's transactions. Downtown property seems to have fared exceedingly well. The only weakness shown is a falling off in the sale of improved property west of Central Park, but the reports referring to that locality are at best incomplete. It is known that a transaction involving the sale of a row of six new houses has been successfully negotiated by one Columbus Avenue broker and that a resale of one of the dwellings has been effected. Another transaction known to have been closed within a few days by another West Side broker is one involving the sale of two properties for a total of $125,000. None of these sales is reported for the reason that no definite information regarding any one of them has been divulged.

The auction market, if such it can be called, has been uneventful this week, but better things are promised for the six days beginning with Monday next. Two important executors' sales are announced, one at the Broadway Salesroom and the other at the Real Estate Exchange. The result of each will be anxiously awaited by all who are interested in New York realty. Pronounced success for both or either of the sales will mean much to owners who are as yet timid about offering their holdings under the hammer. Should satisfactory prices be obtained all doubts as to the full auction market should disappear and a fair number of offerings follow in the immediate future.

The same auctioneer adjourned on Wednesday until the 24th inst. a sale of No. 352 West 16th street and withdrew Nos. 55 and 57 East 76th street, announced to be disposed of under a decree of foreclosure on that day. Kennelly, bulletined for the same day, went over until Nov. 12. On Thursday D. P. Ingraham adjourned to the 26th inst. the sale of No. 131 West 83d street, and to Nov. 8 a sale of property on Macomb's Dam road, north of St. James street.

On Monday next, October 15, at noon, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell at auction, in the Real Estate Exchange, No. 59 Liberty street, No. 2156 2d avenue, a five-story four-family brick tenement, containing two stores on first floor, 25x85x100, situated on the east side of the avenue, about 51 feet south of 111th street, and near an elevated railroad station.

On Tuesday next, October 16th, at noon, by order of the executor of Joseph I. West, deceased, Smyth & Ryan will sell at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, thirty-four valuable parcels, including private dwellings, single and double flats, tenements, factories and vacant city lots; also a tract of about four acres of land on Morris Canal, Greenville, Jersey City. Particular attention is called to parcels 10, 11, 12 and 13, which will probably be sold together, and comprise Nos. 224, 226, 228 and 230 West 30th street, made up of three three-story brick tenements and two factory buildings, which were formerly occupied by the West, Bradley & Cary Manufacturing Co., proving their value for manufacturing business. Space will not permit the description of all these parcels in detail, but intending purchasers will find it worth their while to peruse attentively the book-map and description, which may be obtained at the office of Messrs. Smyth & Ryan, No. 111 Broadway.

On Wednesday next, October 17th, at noon, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell at auction, at the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room, No. 59 Liberty street, a valuable plot of land, with a two-story frame house standing thereon, situated on the southwest corner of St. Nicholas avenue and 150th street. Harnett & Co. will sell by auction in the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room, No. 59 Liberty street, at executors' sale, a number of parcels of flats, a tenement and several dwellings. These comprise very valuable and desirable property, and their offering for sale from the auctioneer's stand will no doubt attract a large crowd of buyers. The flats are No. 438 West 27th street, No. 316 West 44th street, only two blocks away from the 42d street station of the 9th avenue elevated railroad; No. 644 9th avenue, which also contains a store and is situated between 45th and 46th streets; Nos. 405 and 107 West 50th street. The tenement is No. 329 West 38th street, and the dwellings Nos. 213 West 42d street, less than a block and a-half from the 6th avenue elevated railroad station on that street; 230 232, 320, 322, 324, 326, 328 and 330 East 72d street. Messrs. NEW HOUSES.

Builder F. H. Hawkins is putting the finishing touches to four attractive four-story limestone and buff brick American basement dwellings at Nos. 13 to 19 West 94th street, near Central Park. They are arranged on the boulevard plan and contain eleven rooms, besides two bath rooms, closets, etc. Two of the houses have frontages of 18 feet, one 19 and one 20 feet, all are 55 feet deep, with 17 foot extensions. The fronts are of salmon colored brick and limestone. There are three steam heated suites of four rooms and bath on each floor, and the finish throughout is of oak. The fact that they are already nearly fully occupied by selected tenants speaks volumes for their attractiveness and the great care Mr. Lemon exercised in their construction. Mr. Lemon is at work on the steam heating plant for ten flats Builder John Casey is erecting on West 98th street, and has contracts for similar work for Builder Casey at Columbus avenue and 8th street, and for Chambers & Lemon at 120th street, St. Nicholas and 8th avenues.

The price agreed upon is a little over $40,000, and it is said to be the intention of the purchasers to erect a business structure on the site. This sale was made previous to the one reported last week of the adjoining property Nos. 106 to 112 Spring street, southwest corner of Mercer, to Boehm & Coon through the agency of the same broker.

The lease of the block front on the east side of 4th avenue, between 27th and 28th streets, and the proposed new building, by the Cooper estate, to the American Lithographic Company has fallen through. The lease agreed upon, it seems, was supplemented by an offer on the part of the Cooper executors to sell the property outright, which was favorably considered by the lithographic company. The necessary searches were gotten under way, and, to the surprise of all the parties interested, it was discovered that covenants of restriction contained in old deeds would prevent the erection of a building such as was contemplated. All negotiations and agreements have in consequence been declared off. It is believed, however, that the operation of the covenant will be nullified by obtaining consents from adjoining property owners, in which event it is likely that either the original lease or proposed sale will be consummated.

MACHINE-MADE MORTAR.

The United States Mortar Supply Company announces a reduction in the price of their product; at the new figure they claim that machine-made mortar is cheaper than any good lime mortar that can be made by hand. As is well known the proof of a pudding is in its consumption, so that the merits of this mortar are evidenced by the fact that it is used for the Constable Building, 5th avenue and 18th street; the Carnegie Music Hall addition; for the alterations at the Cable Building on Broadway. It is also to be used for many new buildings, including those of the University of the City of New York, at Fordham, St. Luke's Hospital, American Surety Co., the Home and Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, the Fidelity and Casualty Co. The company has many other references to support their claims in regard to the value of their manufacture.

MORTGAGES.

The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next is that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the fee for which it was given, and the amount. The dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever "E." "S." "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for further particulars, see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, OCTOBER 13, 1894.

Flatbush Avenue Extension.

MEETING OF THE FLATBUSH AVENUE EXTENSION COMMISSION.

The Flatbush Avenue Extension Commission held an informal meeting in the Mayor's private office on Wednesday evening last, with Colonel William Hester as chairman. All the members with the exception of George W. Channey were present. President William Harkness, of the Board of Assessors, attended as adviser. He had a number of plans made at the request of the Commission, and he explained the cost of those proposed. Colonel Hester said that he supposed they had the privilege of discussing other plans than the direct Flatbush avenue one. He said that the principal thing needed was a route to the bridge which would afford some relief to the crowded condition of Fulton street above the City Hall, due to the many lines of surface cars and other causes. The blockade there now during the busy hours of the day was an injury to the city, and something should be done at once to relieve it. Any route that was adopted should be started from or near Flatbush avenue, and he did not believe the new route would in any way interfere with the business houses below that point. Richard Young's plan, which met with favor, starts from Washington street and Myrtle avenue and runs parallel with Fulton street above the City Hall, and 300 feet from it to a point on Fleet street. It would then run south to Flatbush avenue. This plan would give a direct route through Washington street to the bridge, and would accommodate all the surface cars that was necessary to relieve Fulton street. Mr. Young explained that were it made 100 feet wide it would leave so many gores that it would be practically worthless. If, however 300 feet were taken there would be scarcely any gores, and no grade at all. It would take property of comparatively small value and leave on either side that which could be used for business purposes. All the members except Mr. Maxwell, who would hear of nothing but the direct Flatbush avenue route, were in favor of this plan. Mr. Harkness said that Mr. Young's plan would cost about $5,000,000, and he did not think the people would take kindly to it just now. He was of the impression, however, that property below the proposed roadway would become principally business property. Col. Hester's plan takes in Livingston street, from Flatbush avenue to Court street. The drawings show the street widened to 100 feet, by taking the houses and lands on the south side, making a direct route to the bridge through Court street. Two of the car lines, the Flatbush avenue and the Third avenue, could be placed on this street and in a measure relieve Fulton street. A suggestion was made that it might be a good plan to continue the route to Clinton or Henry street and thence to the bridge, but it was received with disfavor, owing to the many churches and other buildings on those streets. Mr. Harkness said that there was less objection to this plan than any of the others. He did not think it would cost over $2,000,000 and he was almost certain that the railroad company would pay 25 per cent of the cost for the privilege of running its cars through the street, the property-owners who would be benefited would pay 25 per cent, leaving 50 per cent for the city. No plans were finally decided upon. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, the 17th.

Notes Gathered Here and There.

Notice is given that the Common Council has declared, by resolution, its intention to grade and pave St. Mark's avenue, from Howard to East New York avenue, with second-hand Belgian blocks; also to repave New York avenue, now paved with cobblestone, from St. Mark's avenue to Park place, with asphalt, and to regrade and repave Dean street, from Nostrand to Bedford avenue, with asphalt. Objections must be filed with the clerk of the Common Council on or before the 5th day of November.

George F. Elliott, counsel to the Board of Supervisors, has rendered an opinion that the bills of R. B. Eastman, who was appointed supervising architect at the county farm during the erection of the asylum buildings, amounting to about $1,200, are valid. He says that Eastman could recover, and advises their payment.

Building Commissioner Bush has appointed James Sweeney Deputy Commissioner in place of Jacob Roth, whom he has made Chief Examiner at $1,900. He gives to Sweeney $1,500, although Roth received $1,900.

Health Commissioner Emery sent a communication to Alderman Clark, of the 26th Ward, in which he stated there had been so many complaints made of the unsanitary condition of the region known as Brownsville, especially with regard to defective vaults and cess-pools which overflow, that he must insist upon the old vaults being taken out and new ones built in accordance with the requirements of the department if there be no prospect of a relief through sewers being built. The Commissioner adds: "I understand there is a resolution now before the Board of Aldermen calling for the building of such sewers." After consultation with City Works Commissioner White, Alderman Clark said that it had about been decided to advertise for the completion of the lateral sewers in the 26th Ward.

The Litchfield heirs have got a writ of certiorari to review the proceedings of the assessors in fixing the valuation of property in the 22d Ward. Edward H. Litchfield asks that a valuation of $369,000 be reduced to $291,000; Grace Denio, that one of $225,000 be reduced to $143,000; the trustees of Henry P. Litchfield, one of $524,000 to $400,000; the Brooklyn Improvement Co., one of $334,000 to $250,000. The matter has been referred to Herman F. Koepke, on application of the Hon. William C. DeWitt and Assistant Corporation Counsel Henry Yonge.

Resolved, That $100,000 be transferred from the revenue fund to the building fund.

Resolved, That the proper city authorities prepare and submit to the legislature a bill authorizing the city to raise during the year 1895, $750,630 by the sale of bonds, to be placed at the disposal of the board of education for the following purposes: $700,000 for the erection of new school buildings, and $50,000 for the purchase of school sites.

The committee on school houses was authorized to make the necessary alterations to provide for four class rooms in the building recently transferred by the Board of Aldermen to the Board of Education for school purposes, the same to be annexed to No. 76 and to be occupied by girls only. The building was formerly the station house in New Lots.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of trappings under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read it 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET
NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—The gaining tendency noted last week has been progressive and it is satisfactory to be able to record a further improvement in tone. Indeed, there is at last an actual advance reported in value, especially noticeable on the general run of stock, and a great many makes heretofore available at about $1 are now costing 12 1/2 to 25c. more. There is also reported a few specials at a fraction above $4.50, but on the upper line of quality the gain is less noticeable. In view of the fact that a continued excellent run of condition permits nine-tenths of the buyers to secure a perfectly satisfactory selection without confining themselves to the production of a few favorite manufacturers. The arrivals during the week have been comparatively moderate, and the inquiry so close to offering that only a few loads remained unsold from day to day, and pretty much everything taken passed directly into hands of consumers. From along the river the advices come about in accord with calculations. A few makers will keep pegging away so long as the weather permits, but the more general inclination is to wind up the season's operations as rapidly as possible, and in many cases where work has ceased the tendency is to lessen the shipments. Of course, taking the season of year into account, the ruling line of values and the strengthening made of late are at an extremely low average, but that the market improves at all is a source of gratification, and the hope is for more of it. Prices are quiet and unchanged.

GLASS.—An irregular and generally unsatisfactory market prevails for window glass. The retailers and jobbers are grievously disappointed over the insignificant calls they are receiving from consumers and with the very fountain head of demand thus curtailed the reflection is found throughout the entire market. It seems a trifle singular that production should be continued under ruling conditions, but manufacturers are compelled to work for sake of keeping their help together. Between the stock in bond and the current run of arrivals, the supply of foreign has been steadily on the increase ever since the tariff was passed, and with every poor demand the market is much depressed. We give in our tabulated quotations the new French list, which is generally lower, and in some instances the reduction has been sweeping, although the revised figures really only conform to those previously ruling under persistent and deep rate cutting. Boston adheres to the old list.

LIME.—A moderately active and easy market may be reported. Supplies have been quite full enough for all wants with something to spare, the latter development especially noticeable on finishing. The consumption of finishing stock is not steadily as full as it was a few weeks ago, and evidently some of the cargoes arriving were made up without proper provision for that change, and therefore the finer grade shows a slight surplus, and on value has the weakest tone of the two qualities. Current quotations are given at 75c., 80 for common and 90 for lump, with an assortment of discounts for cash to suit such emergencies as may arise. The quantity held by dealers is moderate, but they are unlikely to stock up freely this fall.

LATH.—Conditions have continued fairly satisfactory, the market ruling about steady, and receivers managing to handle the arrivals without difficulty or further sacrifice on line of value. The range at present writing is quoted at $1.65 to 1.70, and the inside figure is doubtless as low as anything in way of cargo lots of standard quality can be reached. There is known to be additional quantities of stock coming forward from both Maine ports and the Provinces, but relief is expressed in ability to care for it without trouble.

LUMBER.—More sales have been perfected in a wholesale way, and in some cases slightly firmer prices are shown. It is, however, by no means an active market, as compared with what is ordinarily found at this season, and evidences multiply to show that neither dealers or large manufacturers will put away any great amount of stock this fall. They find no encouragement in the outlook for consumption, and while hardly expecting lower prices, are skeptical about an advance, especially for the goods from which duty has been removed, and can save interest at least by waiting until spring. Of staple stock offerings are ample, but extra choice and special selections are not plentiful, and when buyers insist upon having them sellers insist upon a price in proportion.

White Pine may be considered generally steady, a somewhat increased sum of orders having imparted a firmer tone to those who were so fortunate as to secure the passing trade. No line of custom upon whom dependence was placed for a larger and broader line of orders have given much disappointment by their comparative indifference. Offerings have proven ample from all regular sources of supply, with evidence that a great deal more stuff would have been found available if needed, and prices were kept low in all cases. Between the good stocks on hand at most Western points, backed up by a large supply of logs still awaiting the saw, the prospect of a heavy winter cut already under way in the burnt district, and the Canadians watchful for a market, there are no immediate fears of scarcity.

Yellow pine has been coming along of late in a manner to indicate that considerable quiet trading took place during the summer months. It was, however, about all for special cuts, and demand for similar schedules still prevails, together with an occasional call for export assortment. The latter, as usual, are free-on-board orders for direct shipment at primal ports. There is no quotable difference in cost but a disposition to talk steadily.

Carolina Pine is probably meeting with quite its natural relative demand as compared with other lines of stock, but is offered under continued determined effort to secure custom, and the competition gives buyers much advantage. Irregularity in value is shown on all grades of stock, but No. 1 in comparison with the lower qualities shows much the easiest rate.

Eastern spruce retains a generally steady market and can probably do so to the end of the season if the offerings do not increase, while under some conditions sellers gain an advantage that is especially noticeable on specials, for which the demand has broadened since first of the month and the ability to meet calls made no gain. Indeed, when it came to wide stuff or anything extra difficult it proved really a hard matter to place orders, and contracts have been closed at $1 7/8 to $1.50 advance over anything that could have been secured a month ago. It is said that one or two water mills have commenced cutting again temporarily, and the proprietors of steam mills express rather more hopefulness in regard to winter work. The local consumption of piling continues quite good, but largely provided for by stocks in hand and current inquiry is of a moderate character. State spruce can be obtained in fair quantity, but there is nothing liberal in the offering, and prices are generally getting excellent support. Virginia stock is well controlled and secures good average demand.

Henlock meets with a fair sort of routine demand from local custom, and the general country trade is keeping up to about former proportions. Offerings, however, are as a rule plentiful enough to satisfy the wants of buyers with becoming promptness, and sellers appear content with former rates, and may upon occasion consent to moderate shadings if that will close desirable-sized negotiations.

Hardwoods have developed no important change during the week. The demand is lacking in force sufficient to afford a place for any great amount of stock on single purchases, yet there are quite a number of small orders going to book, as both manufacturers and dealers want something for assortment and have no reason to find fault with present cost. There appears to be very good management in offerings as a rule, and although supplies are not found to be excessive in quantity or depressing upon value, there are enough of them to satisfy all current calls with reasonable promptness and the supply could be increased if necessary. Few export clearances are reported, but principally on through shipments from interior markets.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

The Albany Argus reports:

Now that the active season in the lumber district is rapidly growing shorter, the number of buyers to be noted about the yards is on the increase, and some quite heavy purchases are being made. The leading white pine dealers enjoyed a good trade last week and anticipate a good average fall trade from this time on. Prices are ruling unchanged. The box manufacturers in New York and other places are fairly busy and are taking spruce and pine from this market. Spruce dealers report quite a little increase in their sales for the last ten days. Canal and lake freights held the advance noted last week and there is no other change in situation except that shingles are quoted lower.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

Throughout the Northwestern white pine field there seems to be such anxiety to unload stocks that prices are cut and demoralized to an unusual extent. An unwonted weakness seems to have seized the general market, evidently from no really good reason. Probably the cutting off of demand in Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas by the partial failure of the crops has had a depressing effect on values. The rush of manufacturers is to market all passable lumber in territory east of the Mississippi before winter. This induces more than the usual competition between the Lake Michigan markets and the Wisconsin and Mississippi river producers and dealers. The craze to sell at any price will have to run its course. How long it will rage no one can now say, but it is probable that the close of navigation will have some degree of hardening influence on the market. The prospect now is that the mills will shut down early. Several at Eau Claire, Wis., have already ceased operations. It is stated from Munitee, Mich., that the mills there will mostly shut down about November 1. The disposition of the mill operators who have burned pine to put in this winter is to stop sawing early, so that the crews may be sent into the woods for a long season.

At Chicago receipts during the week were not heavy. The signal service having predicted rough weather, many vessels remained in shelter. Judications point to rather light receipts during the remainder of the season. Rates from Duluth and Chequamegon bay ports having advanced to $2 and $2.25 a thousand, with a probability that they will harden at the last named figure, renders it impossible to ship from Lake Superior to this point at a profit, especially since the weather hereafter is liable to be adverse to making speedy trips, with more risk in the passage than owners like to encounter. The consequence will be a falling off in receipts from that lake.

Such lumber as arrived has been a variety of stuff, largely hemlock, for which there is a somewhat better inquiry. Prices remain practically unchanged. Green piece stuff is still quoted at $9 a thousand and dry at $9.25. Inch lumber sells according to quality within the quoted range. There is no excitement or special movement in any kind of lumber, but a quiet market all around.

Reports from several of the leading distributing centres this week indicate a freer movement of poplar in all grades. Prices are freer in some respects, but the increased movement is not yet sufficiently marked to cause a material advance in prices. As compared with the average amount of stock on hand at this season, dry lumber is in short supply, but there is sufficient to fill all immediate requirements. A number of mills in the producing section have secured fresh supplies of logs and started up again, but the season's output will be much less than last year.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

The loggers on Black River, Wis., are putting into the woods an unusually large number of men in order to save the burnt timber. The pine on that stream is in the heart of the great fires which swept the State during the summer.

The loggers of northern Minnesota are pushing the work of skidding logs with more than their usual energy. There is a fair prospect ahead that about all the timber killed by fires in this State, as well as Wisconsin, will be cut this winter.

The past month has been an average one in the white pine district. At this point the volume of shipments showed no increase over the amount moved during August, but just about held its own. The fact was trade was better the latter part of August and early in September than it is now. Prices are still ruling low and there is no prospect of the manufacturers getting together to discuss trade matters for several weeks yet, when it is expected that conditions will be more settled.

Lumbermen are now actively turning their attention towards logging matters and the work of the winter is being well gotten under way. There is more activity than usual in the woods at this time of the year owing to the desire to cut the burned over timber before it spoils. On the Chipewewa and St. Croix rivers logging operations will probably be as extensive as last year, for in the district tributary to those streams was the greater part of the burned timber. On the Wisconsin practically no timber was burned. Reports as to the burned over timber were greatly exaggerated, and it is not probable that the winter's log output will be much greater than usual, however it is now rather early to prophesy in regard to it.

A section of the white pine belt that has had a pretty good demand for lumber this year is the Wisconsin valley. Lumbermen and millmen there have done perhaps a better business than in many other sections, and although this week there is a falling off to some extent in the demand, trade on a whole this fall with Wisconsin valley manufacturers has been good. Up at the head of the lakes, according to all reports, lumbermen have been shipping a good deal of lumber east this season, and on the whole the season's shipments from Duluth alone up to date are larger than the total volume of lumber sent east from all the points at the head of the lakes last year. This is a good showing. The rush of eastern water shipments is now over. Rates have advanced and navigation will close in a few weeks.

CANADA.

A correspondent of Northwestern Lumberman writing from St. John, N. B., says:

The first weekly sales of timber limits on crown lands for the season took place at Fredericton. There were twenty-seven births, comprising 1,384 square miles. All went at the upset price of $8 a mile, except five miles on the southwest Miramichi that Frank J. Morrison ran up to $11, six miles on the Tabusintac by Senator Snowball to $9, and two miles on the Salmon River, in Victoria County, by A. J. Beveridge to $9.50.

Nearly all the mills on the Miramichi are closed for want of logs. One or two will run for a short time to finish cargoes for vessels consigned to them. The mills on the Restigouche have enough logs to keep them busy till snow flies.

It is announced that the Bank of Montreal, which lately offered the Black Brook mill on the Miramichi for sale, will itself operate the mill next year. Mr. Winslow, the bank's agent at Chatham, looking after it. The mill will be fitted with two gangs, and thoroughly repaired.

There is no improvement in either freights or markets. The British market is apparently quite heavily stocked with lumber of all kinds.

LUMBER.—The markets at present fully supplied with all sorts. The present value of Spruce is about $12.75@13 per M. for Merchantable and of White Pine about $18@18.50 per M., as customary, for Merchantable. The last sales of Pitch Pine were $20.07 and $21.27 per M., for Merchantable a $13.07@15.27 for Refuse, according to assortment and quality, and a $12 for Second quality.

COOPERAGE STUFFS.—There will be hardly any demand before November. New Shooks are almost exclusively used here now, and the demand for Old is, therefore, somewhat limited. The last sales of Sugar Hogshead were a 76c per bundle for Old, and a $11.16 per bundle for New. Staves: We understand that arrangements have been already made for nearly all that will be required for next season and that sales have been made to arrive a $58 per M. for No. 1. R. O. Inspected and $48 for Culls. The cargo by the Auburndale is the first shipment of the same. Wood Hoops: The last sales of Straight were a $18 per M. for 11 feet, and a $20.50@21 per M. for 12, 13 & 14 feet assorted. 2 M. bundles French by the Istro, from Nantes, have been stored. Of celled, the last sale was a 33c per bundle for Newfoundland, and a $15.50 per M. for English, assorted 9 to 14 feet.

SHINGLES.—There is a heavy supply of all kinds on hand. Last sales were of Split Cypress a $9.25 per M. for 7-inch a $7.70 for 6-inch "Hearts" a $5.30 for 6-inch "Saps." Long Split Cedar: Gaspe a $5.09 for Extra Large, and a $4.6@3.95 for Large, and a $2.84@2.41 for Small. Laying: Sawn Cedar a $2.01@1.83. Sawn Spruce a $1.91.

METALS.—COPPER.—Ingot of late has not shown much animation, but upon every test revealed a very strong market. Some producers were off the market entirely in view of having previously contracted for their output during balance of the year, and from all quarters offerings proved small. Current demand, however, run somewhat moderate as consumers and exporters were getting considerable stock on deliveries. On the average range of valuation we quote at 93@97c. for Lake and 91@95c. for casting brands. Manufactured copper meets with no unusual attention, but from regular trade sources an inquiry of fair proportions is secured, and prices retain a steady position all around. The production is gauged somewhat carefully to the outlet. We quote as follows: Sheet, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 14c; do, 14 to 16 oz., 15c; do, 12 to 14 oz., 16c; do, 10 to 12 oz., 17c; do, 8 to 10 oz., 20c; do, under 8 oz., 22c. Sheets longer than 72 inches 14c; for 12 to 16 oz., 19c; for 10 to 12 oz., and 23c; for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets not above 36x96 in., 16 oz. and over, 14c; do, 14 to 16 oz., 15c; do, 12 to 14 oz., 16c; do, 10 to 12 oz., 17c; do, 8 to 10 oz., 20c; do, under 8 oz., 22c. Sheets longer than 72 inches 14c; for 12 to 16 oz., 19c; for 10 to 12 oz., and 23c; for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz., 14c; do, 16 to 32 oz., 16c; do, 11 to 16 oz., 18c; do, 12 to 14 oz., 20c; do, 10 to 12 oz., 24c. Sheets wider than 48x96 and longer, 11a17c, for 32 to 64 oz.; 19a26c, for 16 to 32 oz.; 21a—c, for 14 to 16 oz. and 26a—c, for 12 to 14 oz. Bolt copper, 3/8 inch diameter and over, 14c. Circles, segments and pattern sheets, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do, 4c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 5c. do. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1a2c, per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottoms, 18a24c, per lb. IRON.—American Pig has encountered a somewhat disappointing market. It had been calculated that with the fall months considerable animation would be shown, but instead buyers are found operating in the old, slow, conservative manner, and taking only enough stock to satisfy the wants of the moment. Offerings are ample, and could be increased if needed, with sellers satisfied to accept former rates. We quote at $12.00@13.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $11.00@12.00 for No. 2 X do., and $10.00@11.00 for Gray Forge; Scotch pig iron, $20.00@21.00. Old material meets with a somewhat variable demand, and now and then the market becomes pretty dull, leaving holders without ground for much advantage. Supplies, however, seem to be under control, and a firm line of valuations adhered to. We quote at $11.00@11.50 for old iron rails; $10.00@10.50 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $8.50@10.00 for cast scrap; $10.00@10.50 for old car wheels, and $6.50@9.00 for borings, stoveplate, etc. Manufactured iron and steel does not get much attention. At some of the interior markets a better business has been reported lately, but operators here complain of the dilatory action of buyers, even in some instances where future work is so well decided upon that contracts for supplies would appear to be quite in order. The following quotations are made f. o

b. at Pittsburgh: Angles, 1.20@1.25c; tees, 1.35@1.40c; beams and channels, 1.30@1.35c. base; sheared bridge plat s, steel, 1.25c; Universal mill plates, steel, 1.25c; Iron 1.35c; refined bars 1.35c. base. Steel rails are still subject to rumor, the most pronounced of which is to the effect that the companies are about perfecting a new organization for purpose of equalizing and controlling production and maintaining a uniform valuation. There is as yet no evidence of important deals closed, although some of the leading railways in the understood are making moves that must sooner or later bring them into the market. We quote standard sections $24 per ton at mill, with usual advances for delivery at tide water. Pig lead has not made so strong a market as hoped for with the opening of the month. Demand runs mainly to small lots with evidence that some of the large consumers are getting stock on contract, and the offerings at prime points run up pretty liberal at times. Prices rather weak. We quote at 53a54.5c, per lb. The manufacturers of lead are quoted at 53c, for Pipe, 6c, for Sheet, 15c, for tin-lined Pipe, and 37c, for Block Tin Pipe. Pig Tin has been knocking about considerably in value under the not over tender merces of local and London speculators, but no great amount of strength could be found under the value line. The general supply is large and the calls from actual consumers are without sufficient volume to assist the market. We quote at about 15a215c, for round lots, and 15a16c, for jobbing parcels. Tin plate has been passing into consumption with much freedom on withdrawals of stock from bond and deliveries on contract from fresh arrivals. Current demand, therefore, proved moderate and prices, on the whole, a little tame. We quote as follows: L. C. Charcoal, Melyn grade, $4.75@4.80; Charcoal, Melyn grade, crosses $6.40; L. C. Charcoal, Allaway grade, $1.20@1.25; Allaway grade, crosses, $5.00; Charcoal terms, M. E. grade, 14x20, $6.90@6.25; M. E. grade, 20x28, $12.00@12.50; Worcester, 14x20, $4.75@5.00; Worcester, 20x28, $8.60@9.00; Allyn grade, 14x20, $4.60@4.75; Allyn grade, 20x28, $8.10@8.15; D. R. D. grade, 14x20, $3.90@3.95; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $7.50@7.90; L. C. Coke, Penion grade, $3.65@3.75; J. B. grade, 14x20, $3.85@4.15; L. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $3.90@4.20 basis; L. C. Siemens steel, squares, $3.95@4.25 basis. Spelter finds rather slow sale and a somewhat unsettled market, but inclined to weakness, as there is here and there a disposition to urge the sale of supplies. We quote 24a25.55c, for Common Western, according to brand.

NAILS.—Operations still fail to expand into the liberal volume many of the trade had hoped to experience by this time. All movements, however, simply show the determined caution of buyers, who are generally refusing to invest except upon a basis of early requirements, and there is evidently a desire to wind up the year with as small stocks in hand as circumstances will admit. The competition between manufacturers of wire nails has been curtailed, and prices have greater uniformity in consequence. We quote Cut at $1.00 @1.05 per keg for car lots and $1.10@1.20 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c, per keg for steel; Wire, $1.00@1.15 for car lots, and $1.25@1.35 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—There is practically no change in general features of the market. Business is unevenly distributed, and while some operators may be found expressing a fair measure of satisfaction over the market, others do not seem to be altogether satisfied with trade. The entire deal, however, is simply a case of the immediate wants of dependent custom, the majority of buyers making up no orders except such as may be suggested by early wants, and even from points of ordinarily difficult and costly transportation as winter approaches the call is below an average for this season of the year. The selections are made up largely of thoroughly staple lines of dry and oil colors, ready mixed paints, etc., although a few extras are taken for assortment. Much irregularity in prices continues, with turn principally in buyers' favor. On leads and kindred products the value line has become greatly disturbed by competition between home and foreign offerings, and the regular price list is omitted as no longer a guide. White lead is said to have slid down to 33a34c. Linseed Oil undergoes some little variation in tone, but generally it is found that competition assumes less acute form than during early portion of the season, and the market retains much support through the high cost of seed. Offering are light. We quote at 53a54c, for Western, 54a55c for City from domestic seed and 55a56c, for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine has been very dull, and with no important support from prime points prices are generally slack. We quote at 28a28.5c, per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Demand has been somewhat irregular, and at times inclined to expand, which, in conjunction with rather moderate supplies, kept advantage in sellers' favor, and a undertone of market was quite steady. We quote Tar at $1.95@2.00 in pine or Whungton bbls., $2.75 @ 3.00 in pork bbls., and $3.90@4.00 in oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50@1.70.

THE business situation is such that it offers ample argument to support either the bull or the bear view. President Roberts, whose position at the head of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company gives him a good opportunity of judging, has caused it to be announced that in his opinion business is on the mend. Men in the position of President Roberts like to be right and, therefore, seldom hazard anything but wait until the conditions are clearly defined, and even then are cautious of what they say. Consequently it is long odds that Mr. Roberts is right, especially as what he sees is the continuation of what began in manufactures with the Summer of last year as a reaction from the panic. The greatest value Mr. Roberts' statement possesses is in the influence it may naturally be expected to have upon investors who are sitting on their money for fear they should lose it, and in European markets where American enterprise is now so discredited. The view that business is improving is borne out by some of the important dry good auction sales of the week and by the continued improvement in railroad earnings. On the other hand returns from the iron trade are discouraging, stocks are increasing notwithstanding limitations on the normal output and prices are weak. The largest patrons of the iron trade, the railroads, are buying comparatively little. While this industry, which occupies so very prominent a place among the industries of the country, is in the unsatisfactory condition that it is, the situation as a whole cannot be good. Gold exports are always regarded with disfavor, and as an argument for lower prices in the stock market. Their occurrence just now, although their proportions are small, have a more than ordinary prominence and influence in forming opinions. It cannot be said that they have checked business, for the reason that there was no business to check, the market continuing to be as it has been for some weeks past—a purely professional one, and taking its cues from the movements of issues which are most speculative in character. There are no very pronounced views either way, but the prospect of Republican victories at the coming elections, and the assurances given that a return of the Republican party to power would not mean an imitation of the recent policy of the present administration, in raising a tariff discussion at a time when the return of commercial confidence and prosperity require that all disturbing features should be as far as possible expunged from the situation, are creating a more bullish feeling than has been seen for some time, and will most probably be the next incentive to an advance.

FRENCH ill-feeling toward England is giving as much anxiety at Versailles as in Downing street. There are no points of dispute between the two countries that ought not to be amicably settled, but that does not always signify for peace when the population of either one of two countries, or of both, is in an unamiable mood. Recent attempts of leading Parisian journals to stem this chauvinistic tide may have the desired effect; their efforts will certainly have the support and approval of all that hope for advancement and civilization. England's suggestion that the great powers seek to end the war between China and Japan has apparently failed of its purposes, none of the other powers caring to take it up, either because they each wanted to be first in the movement, or because they considered the moment not a fitting one. There is, however, an idea prevalent that the war will not be protracted very much further. China is now in the market as a borrower and Japan is expected to be before the close of the war. The war material which is now being destroyed or used will have to be renewed. Complaints, both of volume of business and of prices, are very general throughout Europe. The bull movement on the Berlin and Vienna bourses has not yet run out, indicating that for Germany and Austria the unseen conditions are better than in other countries. In Great Britain, two great disappointments have been experienced, one the failure of the iron trade to advance and the other the small results to the export trade that have followed the passage of the Gorman Tariff Act. Sir William Harcourt's budget is proving a success inasmuch as something more than half of the required increase of revenue of $15,000,000 was obtained in the first half of the Government year. Meanwhile the people have cheap food and clothes, as appears from the fact that among the articles that have declined in price since last year, grain, beef, sugar and cotton are conspicuous. Foreign government grain estimates do not appear to be any more reliable than our own. For instance, the French wheat crop estimate of the Department of Agriculture was 332,000,000 bushels, a grain trade association fixes it at 387,000,000. In fact so great is the surplus that the growers are talking of agitating for an export bounty equal to the import duty fixed last spring of about 30c. a bushel. The government is having some difficulty in making income equal estimates. The French Submarine Telegraph Company and the Paris to New York Cable Company have been amalgamated subject to governmental approval. The anxiety that the bourses show about the condition of the Czar of Russia is one part imaginary and the other mercenary. Should the death of the Czar occur at as early a day as latest reports indicate, while that event may be used to depress the prices of government securities, the actual results are likely to be small. At any rate they would not develop so rapidly that prices should go to pieces at once as the cables indicate to be the view abroad.

THAT government monopolies may be very inconvenient to the public is proved by what is taking place in France. Spurred by the difficulty of making receipts cover expenditures the government has looked to its monopolies closer than ever. Having failed in the courts to sustain a claim that it alone had the right to manufacture cigarettes, it proposes to obtain the right by legislation. If it is successful in this it will also claim the right to manufacture cigarette paper. A large trade is done both in the making of cigarettes and of cigarette paper which would most likely never have been disturbed except for the present condition of the treasury. It also proposes to protect more rigorously its monopoly of match-making, not the amorous kind be it understood, though that might be possible in a government so paternally inclined as that of France to-day, but phosphorous match-making. The duty on playing cards is 12 cents a pack, a fact that in connection with the price created an industry of card cleaning and trimming, which made over dirty cafe cards for a small consideration. Such an evidence of honest industry, one would think, ought to be commended. One of the cleaners, however, has just been prosecuted and fined $200 for defrauding the government by making a pack of cards serve two lives instead of one. Finally, to cap this catalogue of official pettiness, telegrams addressed to the best known firms and individuals have been returned to the senders when the full address was not given. The object of this trick was to compel the addressees to register a telegraphic address for which a charge of $8 a year is made. But this new rule raised such an outcry against the government that it was forced to cancel it. Receivers of telegrams are, it may naturally be presumed, richer and more influential than makers of centime boxes of matches or playing card cleaners, and their voices sounded louder in official ears. The saying: They do these things much better in France evidently does not apply either to the collection of revenue or the equal treatment of rich and poor.

TEMERITY characterizes the action of the American Bankers' Association at their meeting at Baltimore in adopting a scheme for the reform of the currency, at least this appears so when it is considered how quiet the banking interest has been in the last three or four years' currency discussion. Looking back over this time it really appears as if the cowboy and the bucolic element in Congress were the only people qualified to take part in the debate, and that the representatives of the moneyed and financial interests knew nothing of what was their daily occupation, or dared not speak for fear of increasing the prejudice with which they were regarded by those who have had all the say, and whose knowledge of political economy never went farther than counting the change for a ten dollar bill. Seriously speaking, the suggestion of a scheme of currency reform coming from the American Bankers' Association ought to start the discussion on a fair basis—the basis of knowledge of the subject instead of ignorance of the subject, which characterizes suggestions from other quarters. The association does not exhaust all the expert testimony that should be heard on this question before a decision is arrived at, nor does it follow that the association's scheme is exactly what this country wants, though the description: A currency that moves automatically in accordance with the wants of the country, if a true one, shows that the right note has been struck. The important thing is that the right people have spoken from practical experience and after due deliberation. This assuredly furnishes something more valuable to work upon than a hastily prepared resolution of a political convention composed of ward politicians and farmers set in motion by a wire-puller.

IT is apparently inevitable that wherever a few architects are gathered together there will be a discussion carried on concerning commissions and competitions. The recent meeting of the American Institute of Architects was no exception to the ordinary course. Certain new schedules and rules were adopted, but we greatly fear that they will do very little to improve conditions which are due rather to the weakness of human nature than to the imperfection of professional regulations. Everybody who knows anything knows that the majority of architectural competitions of the day are comic proceedings. A competition does not involve any selection according to merit. It is merely the machinery through which a shrewd or a favored architect exercises his "pull." It is sometimes supposed that the evil is due to the Philistinism of plutocratic bank presidents and directors of life insurance companies. Undoubtedly, there is something in the nature of the individual who is well equipped for a commercial presidency or directorate that, as a rule, adds an air of farce to any art matter that he happens to meddle with seriously. The chief offenders, however, we are inclined to think, are the architects themselves. We include the "leading" architects—the Simon-pure representatives of the profession—for it is quite within their power to make competitions really competitive and enforce such conditions that the best design will be the selected one. In spite of a great deal of cant, it is notorious, however, that the architects contribute very little toward bringing about the ideal competition of which they prate so much. A well-known architect said recently of one of his clients that he (the client) went shopping nowadays for his plans. It is also true that architects, in the methods they adopt to obtain work, could give pointers to the shrewdest of commercial travelers. If one could only see behind the scenes of a competition for, say, a large commercial building, there would be revealed a condition of affairs that would make "professional etiquette" for ever afterward the veriest kind of shop cant.

ANOTHER labor decision has been made in the Federal Courts which is more surprising than any that preceded it. This is contained in the opinion of Judge Woolson, which denied to the Receiver of the Omaha & St. Louis Railroad Company the ability to reduce wages and seemed to be based upon some sentimental and sympathetic views the Court held of the condition of the working classes. Consequently the Receiver, being under the supervision and control of the Court, cannot go into the market to obtain the labor required to operate the road in his care at the lowest rates, but must continue to pay the rates which the men have hitherto been receiving without any regard whatever to commercial conditions and practices. This is as much as to say that the company, being in bankruptcy, must continue in bankruptcy and that the bondholders who have loaned money to the company shall not avail themselves, through their representative the receiver, of a very important source of economy in order to secure payment of their debt or of defaulted interest. Such a ruling suggests that the courts exist only for the protection of the laboring classes, and that others, though they may be equally poor and deserving, are not entitled to any consideration. The difficulties of any railroad in the hands of a receiver were already great enough, but with the receiver's hands so tied by orders of Court that he cannot adopt means employed by rival properties to get freight or take advantage of the market for cheap labor, it is hard to see, supposing such restrictions can be maintained, how the property in his custody is to be relieved from insolvency at all.

MORE and more the facts brought out before the Lexow Committee bring the responsibility for the rotten condition of the Police Department home to the door of the citizens of New York themselves. When we find an individual occupying a good position in society and in commercial circles calmly submitting to blackmail and then indulging in the most outrageous prevarication to protect, not himself, but the police captain by whom he has been blackmailed, we must conclude that the sense of morality in the community if not absent is at least very dull and of small proportions. When we find, too, money used in bribing the police accounted for in the books of a large corporation by a humorous entry and formally approved by the directors of the corporation paying it, we are led to believe, taking these people to be representative people, that the department is as good as the city it serves or tyrannizes. The hilarity that attends each session of the Investigating Committee and the flippancy which characterizes the reports of its doings in the daily press show clearly that the community has not yet awakened to its responsibility for the disgraceful state of things that has been proved to exist in the Police Department. Compared with that of many a respectable citizen the policy of such of the criminal element as has appeared before the committee toward the police has more to recommend it. It has something like reason in it, even if the moral quality is equally wanting. It seems to recognize that so far as the present personnel of the Department is concerned, to adopt their own expressive parlance, the jig is up and they have nothing more to fear from it. But the merchants, storekeepers, shippers and others who have a recognized position in respectable society, judging from the reluctant way they give their evidence when they can be made to testify at all, and their prevarication—putting the offense mildly—in favor of the men to whom they have had to pay blackmail seem to desire to maintain a system which they in common with the rest of the so-called respectable elements are supposed to condemn. The fact of the matter is that through all this can be seen a very prevalent individual selfishness which does not care how the rest of the community are served or suffer so long as in each particular case more is obtained than belongs to it, and as long as this is the common feeling no reform is possible.

OUR BUILDING LAWS.

Architects, builders, building operators and others interested in the building trades in Brooklyn, will be glad to learn that THE RECORD AND GUIDE edition of the new Building Laws of Brooklyn is now issued and for sale. Those who are familiar with the manner in which THE RECORD AND GUIDE editions of the Building Laws of New York have been compiled know what to expect—a handy volume, containing everything embraced within the State laws, municipal ordinances, and departmental regulations, with illustrations wherever they are helpful to declare the meaning of the text, and a directory of the Building Department. The laws and ordinances embrace those governing sanitation, drainage, water and other street connections, and the regulations of the Health Department also. Finally there is a complete index—a labor and time-saving convenience that is alone worth twice the price of the book, which is ready for delivery from the offices of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, Nos. 14 and 16 Vesey street, New York, and 276 Washington street, Brooklyn, at the uniform price of $2.

The Record of Nine Months.

APPENDED is a summary of the deeds and mortgages recorded and the applications for permits for new buildings submitted from January 1st to September 30th inclusive during the past three years. Taken as a whole the showing made by the conveyances of the first nine months of this year is not encouraging when subjected to a comparison with the records of the same period in 1893 or 1892. During the quarter ending on September 30th there were 2,488 deeds filed as against 2,440 in the same three months of last year, and 2,728 in 1892. On its face this looks to be a much more favorable showing than was made by either of the previous quarters of the current year. And it is if the number of transactions only is taken into consideration. But in examining the figures for the third quarter of the year and comparing them with those of the same period of 1893, regardless of the statistics of preceding months, a startling truth is discerned. If we regard the number of transfers as equal it is found that the property conveyed in July, August and September of this year realized nearly 25 per cent less than did the property transferred during the same months of 1893. The average price paid last year was $13,554, and this year it was $10,099. The number of conveyances for nominal sums increased, however, more than 20 per cent this year. Allowing the same average considerations for the "nominal" transfers of the respective quarters of each year it will be found that the apparent shrinkage in values is still slightly above 20 per cent. The figures tell a simple story of sales made at prices far below those that prevailed during the summer of 1893 when the depressed condition of business caused by the stringency in the money market gave real estate its first severe trial in many years. And that fact seems to be indisputable despite the much more favorable conditions under which the business of the past summer was transacted.

The mortgage tables demonstrate that despite the tendency to loan on real estate security more readily than last year, representatives of capital have kept posted on the lower values that have ruled during the past three months, and during that period have scaled their advances accordingly. In the third quarter of 1893 there were recorded 2,882 mortgages. The average sum loaned was $12,035. During the same period of 1894 the 2,864 mortgages filed represented loans averaging $10,165. That realty still retains the confidence of lenders where the amount of mortgage is not excessive is shown by the number of loans at 5 per cent, and less bearing about the same proportion to the total that they bore in 1892 and 1893.

The building statistics for the third quarter of the present year have almost made amends for the shortcomings of the previous six months. The number of buildings projected since July 1st nearly equals those for which plans were filed in the same months of 1892 and greatly exceed the number of new structures planned during the same period last year. The estimated cost this year, during the same months, exceeds the estimated cost of the buildings of both 1892 and 1893. If the same proportionate increase is maintained until December 30th, the completed figures for 1894 will compare favorably with its two predecessors, notwithstanding the strikes and hard times.

The Modern Town House.

NOS. 7 AND 9 WEST SEVENTY-SIXTH STREET DESCRIBED.

Mr. Henry F. Cook, architect, of the late firm of Charles Buek & Co., is putting the finishing touches upon the two magnificent houses he has built this year on West 76th street, one, No. 7, under contract, for Joseph C. Baldwin, Esq., and the other, No. 9, for sale. These houses rank among the best of the season, and in these days of improvement this means also the best of any season. As is well known, the houses on the West 76th street block, between Central Park and Columbus avenue, are the work of the very best builders in New York city, and therefore stand for only what is first-class in materials and workmanship among our domestic architecture. The lots that remain vacant on the block are restricted to first-class dwellings. The block front between 76th and 77th streets, 204x125, on the white mahogany, prima vera, whose ability to produce bright, beautiful results needs no telling. Some of the other details of this floor are mosaic tiling, beveled French plate glass in the vestibule, handsome massive mantles to match the trim in the parlor, foyer and dining-room, with open fire-places of Numidian marble and tiles, groined ceiling of the dining-room, in which there is also a large sideboard, containing cupboards, drawers and glass cabinets. These are all made from special designs, which is also the case with the mantles and other trim and furnishings of this house. The butler's pantry, besides the adjuncts expected to be found there, contains an unusually large number of well-arranged drawers and closets.

The arrangement of the upper part of the house is not less admirable than the lower. The stairways and hallways, the first of which are easy in ascent and the second of very ample width, are in polished oak, continuing the effect produced in the main hall throughout the west side of Central Park West, is the property of the New York Historical Society, who propose to put up a building for themselves thereon. These facts put the exclusiveness and desirability of the locality beyond peradventure. Moreover, each house on this block represents a large expenditure of money, and is of substantial dimensions. For instance, the first on the north side, No. 5, the house of W. T. Evans, Esq., of Mills & Gibbs, the well-known Broadway merchants, has a front of 45 feet; that which Mr. Cook is completing for Mr. Baldwin is 30 feet, and the house Mr. Cook is offering for sale is 20x70 x butler's pantry extension, running up to the fourth floor, 16x20, lot 102.2.

New Dwellings, Nos. 7 and 9 West Seventy-sixth Street.

HENRY F. COOK, Architect and Builder.

An examination of the details of No. 9 will produce most satisfactory results, because it contains the best of everything in the shape of material and workmanship both inside and out that money and the constant supervision and inspection of the architect and owner could secure. This applies also to the Baldwin house, but that is not for the moment under review except incidentally. The front then of No. 9 is in Romanesque style, with an oriel window in the second floor, and built of Long Meadow brownstone and pink Milford granite, and capped by a tile roof in color contrasting well with the stone of the facade. Entrance to the main hall is by a box stoop. The plan of the first floor contains vestibule, hall, parlor, foyer, dining-room and butler's pantry. The vestibule hallway, foyer and dining-room are trimmed in polished oak, while parquet flooring runs through the hallway, foyer and into the dining-room. This produces a very handsome effect, as may easily be imagined. The results in the parlor are even handsomer, the trim there being of house. Birch, maple and ash trim are distributed through the bedrooms, creating a pleasing variety of appearance that would otherwise be wanting, and also allowing for a more elaborate decoration than would otherwise be possible. On the second floor there are two large bedrooms, communicating through dressing saloons, containing full length and dressing French plate mirrors, as well as closets, drawers and cupboards. The bathroom, which is located in the extension, is wainscoted in marble, has a mosaic tiled floor and is furnished with a solid porcelain bath-tub, with other accessories and fittings to match. The third floor contains two large bedrooms, communicating through dressing saloons similar to those below. The extension on this floor contains a bathroom similar in style and furnishing to the one on the second floor, and also a fair sized room suitable for a sewing room or a child's play room. On the fourth floor there are a large front room, with dressing closet, containing wash-bowl, etc., a large store room, and, shut off by a door at the end of the hallway, the servants' quarters, consisting of two bedrooms and a bathroom. Each of the five principal rooms of the sleeping floors contains a large open tiled fireplace, with carved wooden mantle to match the trim, and two or three closets. The care bestowed on these details is particularly noticeable, and shows that the architect, besides having a desire for handsome effects in the selection and arrangement of trim and furnishings, was also careful of the very many conveniences that make a house desirable for comfortable family life.

The lower portion of this house contains a dry cellar, unusually high, concreted throughout, and on the basement floor a billiard room with handsome paneled wainscoting; also, kitchen, laundry, etc. The billiard room in the basement can be reached from the main hallway by a special stairway, without going at all into the basement hallway by which the occupants of the kitchen pass in and out of the house. Of course it is not necessary to give every detail of a house of this character, as it will be accepted from what has already been stated that the minor details have been carefully attended to. For instance, none but open plumbing and of the best class would be put into a house of this kind; it is wired throughout for electric light; the furnishings are costly in make and artistic in design and application. A back stairway runs up from the laundry through the butlers' pantry to the second floor. The bathroom on the second and third floors can also be reached from the hallways as well as from connecting rooms.

From the foregoing brief and limited description it will easily be seen that No. 9 West 76th street is one of the finest houses on the West Side. This cannot fail to be the opinion of anyone who will make a personal inspection. A great deal of pleasure may be derived from seeing what a modern high-class house really is; as regards convenience of plan, tastefulness of trim and furnishing and the luxury implied in its arrangements.

A New Field for Building Operations.

Every city, large or small, is a world within itself, having its own process of growth, the development of its wealth and the consequent creation of buildings and treasures of art and learning which follow in the train of more material success. This is particularly true of New York City, because it, as the centre of the greater community of the nation, has irresistible attractions for the people who have made their money elsewhere, but in places that do not offer adequate means for its enjoyment. This latter fact is a greater impetus to development, and proved by the number of people who were one time identified with San Francisco, Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland and other places who have taken up their position, as far at least as their domiciliary establishment is concerned, alongside of the Knickerbockers and the other families that by right of priority take the lead of New York society.

These influences keep all our industries at work, not all over the city at one time, but when activity wanes or ceases in one place it crops up at another, not promiscuously, but for good cause, which can be easily ascertained with a little diligence and intelligence. The cutting of the Riverside Drive settled the character of a great strip of territory between it and the park, which was at once seized upon by the quicker intelligences of the building trade as most suitable for the erection of residences. The space has been very thoroughly and efficiently filled, as anyone can tell who remembers what it was fifteen, or even ten, years back. This period has been a very exciting and interesting one for that part of the town. Fortunes have been made and lost; but it may be taken as sure that those who in cutting the cake had heed of their powers of digestion were always successful. There are signs now that the West Side is entering on a little period of comparative rest. The demand for houses there is by no means what it was, and the supply is large enough, so that the attractive chances are limited to special cases, where locality counts for a great deal, for instance, or where extraordinary efforts have been made in the way of workmanship and embellishment. This being the case the builder must look around for new movements which afford him the opportunity for the employment of his intelligence and capital.

Now, all the signs indicate that such a movement is under way in a limited area east of Central Park. Anyone who will ride up 5th avenue with his eyes open cannot fail to be struck with the change that is going on in that thoroughfare from Washington Square to the Vanderbilts' doors. The process of conversion from domestic to commercial uses is there in every stage, and so extensive that anyone can see that 5th avenue is destined within comparatively few years to be the great retail street for high-class wares. This being the case the question arises, what has become of the people who used to make their homes on this avenue and what will become of those who remain, but will inevitably have to give way to the growing tide of business in the near future? The West Side has and will not receive them, because it has not sufficient provision of houses of the highest class to accommodate the dispossessed families of 5th avenue, to say nothing of the new people who follow in their train and who include both the successful business men of the city itself and the wealthy strangers from other cities. No doubt the apartment houses and the great hotels designed especially to accommodate families have absorbed many of these. But it is this change in the lower part of the avenue that has caused the upper part between 59th street and 80th street to be built up in the way it has been and is being built, and will undoubtedly give an enhanced value to the side streets within the same limits as far east as Park avenue. This section has a front comprising for its limits the finest and costliest domestic architecture of the city. The houses are owned by well-known and wealthy people, including such as Commodore Gerry and John Jacob Astor, both of whom have spent what for other men would be reckoned as ample fortunes in building their city houses. Others have been equally lavish in proportion to their wealth, so that the houses on the Park front of this section represent expenditures of from $75,000 to $400,000 or more each. The names of the very best architects in the city are associated with these dwellings.

It is not to be expected that this movement will stop with the building up of the Park front in this costly way, which merely represents the tastes and wishes of a comparatively few, who are very rich. There are a great many more people whose fortunes are great, in the general acceptance of the term, and who have a desire to remain near the richest of all, who will have to be provided for on the side streets, and who will provide the market for houses costing anywhere from about $30,000 to $40,000 and up to, say, $100,000. This is no mere expression of opinion, because the movement has already set in in that direction by the operations of a few well-known builders, who have been successful enough to continue upon the same line. The houses that have been built so far as a part of this movement possess architectural and other attractions that the West Side would find it hard to match, being the work, in some instances, of the best known firms. For instance, McKim, Mead & White made the plans for the large house, whose lower courses are now being laid, on the north side of 71st street and two others on 72d street, the property of Mr. Henry A. C. Taylor, which represent a total prospective cost of $265,000. Carrere & Hastings made the designs for Mr. Henry T. Sloan's house on 72d street, which is to cost $100,000. The four houses that William W. & Thomas Hall are putting up on 80th street, from plans of Alex. M. Welch, are indeed very creditable specimens of domestic architecture, and, in addition, the particular combination of dark brick and light stone in this case is in very good taste. Similarly, the four houses on 82d street, of which Daniel Hennessey is the builder, may be commended, the architect, Mr. Henry Anderson, having been equally happy in his design and the selection of the materials with which to produce it. The Dawson & Archer houses, on Madison avenue and 72d street, from plans of Thom & Wilson, are also good; the same may be said of Nathaniel McCready's house on 75th street. These houses vary in cost from $190,000 for the Taylor house on 71st street to $35,000, which fact more than anything else shows that this building movement is what it was above stated to be, a movement to supply a demand for high-class houses on the East Side with an extensive grading of price.

The vacant sites within the limits indicated are comparatively few, and afford a somewhat small field for speculative building, but it is not reasonable to suppose that the sites remaining unoccupied and in the market will by any means meet all the demand for high-class houses that will arise from the fashion set by those who have built to overlook the park, but that to supply it fully the old houses that cannot be considered as meeting modern requirements will have to give way or be altered. There are cases where fronts have been successfully changed in accordance with the architectural taste of the day, and interiors rearranged and refitted with latest appliances and decorations. If the space for entirely new houses is small, the field for converting the older ones is very extensive indeed. There is money to be made by this operation, and we confidently expect to see many financial successes achieved in modernizing and renovating older structures within a few years.

Municipal Rapid Transit.

THE RAPID TRANSIT COMMISSION TO PREPARE CITIZENS FOR VOTING BY A STATEMENT.

What is known and included in the term politics continues to occupy general attention, to the exclusion of more important subjects—to the exclusion of the subject of municipal rapid transit, for instance, upon which very little new has been said in the past week. At the meeting of the Rapid Transit Commission on Tuesday last the business was of a purely formal nature. Mr. Lewis L. Delafield, its Secretary, said, however, that the Commission propose, within a few days, to respond to the innumerable inquiries they continue to receive every day by publishing a statement explanatory of the results which will follow a favorable vote upon the question of municipal construction. "The six members of the Commission present at the last meeting," he said, "were unanimously of opinion that the only means by which a system of rapid transit, adequate as well to the future as to the present needs of the city, could be obtained is by municipal construction, under such safeguards as will protect the interests of the city; and while I do not think that they will assume to advise the voters concerning a matter upon which each man must exercise his individual judgment, they are nevertheless of opinion that the best interests of the city and of its inhabitants require that the people should vote in favor of municipal construction."

The fact that the principle of municipal construction has been approved by all political parties is removing doubt of what the result of the voting will be. Exception has been taken to the statement that it is approved by all parties, but the exception will not hold water. Tammany Hall and the New York State Democracy both took this as a distinct plank in their platforms, and while the Republican platform, which is very short, does not contain a distinct declaration that the convention favored municipal rapid transit, by its adoption of the platform of the Committee of Seventy, which clearly and explicitly advocates that this great work shall be carried out by the municipality, the Republican party in the city is pledged to support this measure. This agreement among the contending parties on one issue the voters are called upon to decide lessens materially, if it does not altogether remove the danger of defeat from active opposition, and as a majority voting on the question is all that is required to decide it one way or the other, an affirmative result is assured. While those who have studied the question are a unit in believing that it is only through the municipality that rapid transit can be had and will vote in favor of endowing the municipality with the necessary powers, those who have been indifferent to the question will not go out of their way to kill it simply for fun, especially as they would thereby be violating the principles of whatever party they may happen to belong to.

People on the East Side, and particularly in the northeast corner of the city, continue to harp on the fact that the plans as now existing make no provision for rapid transit in that quarter, but, as was fully explained by THE RECORD AND GUIDE last week, the Commission is pledged to correct what is so obviously a defect in the plans, and has already, by putting the engineer to work on a preliminary investigation, taken steps to exercise the powers it undoubtedly possesses for that purpose. The people on the East Side should bear in mind that the adoption of the old Commission plans was partly an expediency to prevent a delay for two and perhaps more years in taking a vote on the main question—shall the municipality provide rapid transit? The voter will be asked to cast one of two votes, one reading, "For municipal construction of a rapid transit railroad," and the other reading, "Against municipal construction of a rapid transit railroad," and should be very careful to see that he drops the first in the ballot box and returns the second to the proper officer for receiving rejected ballots.

The American Institute of Architects.

A NOTABLE GATHERING IN NEW YORK DISCUSSES IMPORTANT QUESTIONS.

The twenty-eighth annual convention of the American Institute of Architects, which was opened on Monday in the Fine Arts building, No. 215 West 57th street, brought together a large gathering of men well-known in the profession, and including among them many of more than national reputation. A partial list is as follows: D. H. Burnham, Chicago; T. P. Chandler and George C. Mason, Philadelphia; Jeremiah O'Rourke, Newark; G. A. Frederick, Baltimore; C. T. Schweinfurth and Levi T. Scofield, Cleveland; George W. Rapp and J. M. McLaughlin, Cincinnati; W. F. Eames and A. F. Rosenheim, St. Louis; W. G. Preston, Boston; Henry Van Brunt, Kansas City; Alfred Stone and Edward J. Nickerson, Providence; Bernard Vonnegut, Indianapolis; J. W. Yost, Columbus, Ohio; J. L. Smithmeyer, Washington, D. C.; E. Boydon, Worcester, Mass.; W. H. Foster, Charles K. Ramsey, W. B. Ittner, C. D. Brisselin and T. C. Link, St. Louis; C. Waldo Fisher, Worcester; F. J. Sawtell, Providence; P. H. George, Utica; L. Boncherle, Youngstown, Ohio; Clarence L. Stiles and W. L. B. Jenney, Chicago; J. H. Pierce, Elmira; Otto Block and Thomas Nolan, Rochester, N. Y.; August Eichler, Orange; Asa L. Merrick, Syracuse; Robert Andrews, Boston; C. M. Bartlinger, Pittsburg; J. G. Zwicker, Nashville; Louis De Coppet Berg and Walter Dickson, Brooklyn; A. H. Kipp, Wilkesbarre; E. O. Fallis, Toledo, Ohio; H. H. Bickford, Elmira; W. L. Plack and Henry A. McConob, Philadelphia; E. H. Kendall, E. A. Wright, Charles C. Haight, James E. Ware, Charles J. Berg, A. W. Longfellow, A. J. Bloor, R. W. Gibson, S. G. Sloenn, George B. Post, R. H. Hunt, N. L. Brown, Thomas Tryon, W. R. Ware, Joseph Wolf, H. R. Marshall, T. De Lemos and H. C. Meyer.

Among a number of important artistic and technical questions presented to or discussed by the convention, three were of more than ordinary interest. The first related to the improvement of the Federal architectural service, the second to compensation of architects in competition, and the third, that most important of all questions relating to architecture to-day, that of the limitation of the heights of buildings, and incident to and part thereof, the durability of steel construction.

The first was brought up by the President of the Institute in delivering the annual address by reference to the bill now pending before Congress providing for the appointment of a Commission of five, three of whom are to be architects, to examine and report upon designs for Government buildings. Mr. Burnham expressed the hope that if that bill should pass architects would not hesitate to serve on the Commission. It was, he said truly, a question of serving one's country in a most important line, and architects, he thought, would not be found wanting when called upon. If they were, the curse of a degraded architecture would fall upon them.

A Committee on Competition having been appointed early in the session, its report was presented by its chairman, Mr. Geo. B. Post, on the second day. It covered the points of recompense for plans submitted in competition and the control of construction by the architects at the rates of payments established by the Institute. The Committee took suggestions from members of the Institute, and while in their report affirming the principal involved in the last mentioned point, gave prominence to the suggestion of Mr. John Carrere for removing the objections of architects of repute to entering competitions. This was by the adoption of a progressive rate of compensation for the preliminary plans submitted. Such a rate, to begin with $550 for buildings costing from $50,000 to $75,000, and increasing gradually to $5,000 for buildings valued at $4,000,000 to $5,000,000. Messrs. George B. Post, Thomas L. Hastings, W. L. Yost and John M. Carrere took part in the discussion that followed. Mr. Carrere suggested further that in all important competitions the general plan and programme shall be discussed by the competitors, professional adviser and jury, and that competitors may, on a majority vote, make changes, subject, of course, to the approval of the jury and professional adviser. This was accepted, and the whole matter again referred to the committee in order that a suitable code might be prepared.

Mr. Thomas Hastings read a paper condemnatory of the high building, and maintaining that there should be a rational limitation of height for all buildings constructed solely for revenue, in order to meet practical and sanitary requirements. He pointed out the thanklessness of the task presented to an architect of working on any portion of the front of a street or avenue to produce, no matter how suitable the building might be in itself, a blot upon the ensemble of the general line. Legal limitations, he claimed, were necessary, and would give a monotony essential for harmonious effects and incidentally a proper background for exceptional monuments. Mr. George B. Post was the principal speaker on this paper, as was natural, as he sounded the first warning to the architectural world of the way it was drifting. His remarks covered the ground of the restriction of the artistic instincts and ability in design involved in the continual repetition of the tower buildings, the probable limitation of its individual life and the danger to health and comfort involved in filling narrow streets with high buildings that shut out the sunlight entirely from the lower floors. This question was most thoroughly discussed in the RECORD AND GUIDE last Spring. The exceptions to Mr. Post's allegations were few and none novel. Mr. W. L. B. Jenney, of Chicago, took exception to the doubt expressed of the reasonable endurance of steel construction, supporting his exception by the facts that he had seen iron in Rome 500 years old which showed no effect of rust, and that a bar of iron taken from the obelisk now in Central Park was in good condition. He did, however, not show either that the metal in question was the same chemically as that employed in modern building, that the examples he referred to were not exceptional cases of preservation or that the conditions under which they remained intact were the same as those to which steel construction is and will be subjected.

Among other Institute business transacted in the course of the Convention, officers were elected as follows: President, D. H. Burnham; Vice-Presidents, George B. Post and William S. Eames; Secretary, Alfred Stone; Treasurer, Samuel A. Treat; Directors, George C. Mason, Theodore C. Leak, Samuel Hannaford, Charles A. Cummings, Edward I. Nickerson and Wilson Eyre. It was decided to hold the next Convention in St. Louis. The following honorary members were elected: W. P. P. Longfellow, Professor John S. Billings, Professor C. Staley and Professor C. H. Moore. S. M. Randolph, William Paul Gerhard, Professor Edward S. Moore, Charles MacDonald and Montgomery Schnyder were elected corresponding members.

Members from other cities were shown what was notable in the new work in this, and considerable time and attention was devoted to the Willard Architectural Commission's collection in the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Work and pleasure, both were brought to a close by an informal reception at the Building Trades' Club by the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange. A very large response was made to the invitations sent out for this event. Messrs. John J. Tucker and John L. Hamilton received the guests of the Exchange, and Mr. Isaac A. Hopper delivered a short and appropriate address of welcome to which happy responses were made, and it goes without saying that a very pleasant evening was passed.

Architects and builders will find in THE RECORD AND GUIDE edition of the Building Laws and Ordinances of Brooklyn a time and labor-saving volume worth many times its price. It is illustrated and indexed so that the reader can find in a moment any regulation for which he may be seeking without having to read the whole volume. It is ready for delivery now at the offices of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, 14 and 16 Vesey street, New York, and 276 Washington street, Brooklyn. The price is $2.

The Employers' and Builders' League.

New members continue to be attracted to the lately organized Employers' and Builders' League. Sixteen were admitted at the usual weekly meeting, held on Wednesday evening last, making the total membership over a hundred and fifty. Although in a sense forced into existence by the humpers' boycott, the way in which the league has gained numerical strength in the short period of its existence and the standing and character of the members show that such a rallying point for contractors in the building trade was necessary and that in fact the league fills a want that was probably felt long before it was expressed. Some of the principal individuals and firms in the league are: Francis J. Snugg, Louis Wirth, Alexander Jordan, James J. Loonie, Walker & Lawson, Watkins Bros., Geo. C. Edgar's Sons, John W. Livingston, John Livingston & Son, Forster Livingston, James A. Frame & Son, Platt & Marie, Francis A. Crawford & Son, Morgan, Slattery & Co., J. J. Farley, James Livingston and John P. Leo.

Energetic efforts are being made to strengthen the league by bringing into affiliation the several boss associations. With this view committees have been appointed to confer with the Master Stair-builders' and Master Plumbers' Association, while some direct negotiations have been had with the Master Plasterers' Association. The idea of some direct connection with the League is very favorably received by individual members of those associations who are also members of the league. But so far the best means for bringing this about have not been decided upon, nor has any definite move thereto been had except in the case of the Master Plasterers.

Regarding the status of the original dispute, which occasioned the organization of the Employers' and Builders' League, it does not appear to have had more than a temporary effect upon work in hand, because no member reported that he was in any trouble, at Wednesday's meeting of the League, or asked for the assistance to which he would be entitled in such case. It is understood that the Board of Walking Delegates have taken up the carpenters' fight, which shows that the latter is not very successful. Among other labor news growing out of the humpers' boycott, it may be stated that the Master Plasterers are endeavoring to make an arrangement with the Plasterers' Union similar to that adopted among the mason builders, in order to remove cause of strikes. The idea is received with favor among the better class of the plasterers, who feel irritated at having their work interfered with by petty disputes as, for instance, whether they shall be paid fortnightly or weekly.

The Greek Style of Architecture.

FOUR ATTRACTIVE HOUSES ON WEST SEVENTY-EIGHTH STREET, NOS. 206 TO 212.

Among the houses that have just been completed and opened to the inspection of investors on the West Side, in that superb residence district among the 70s, the houses of Mr. Robert Auld, at Nos. 206 to 212 West 78th street, are particularly deserving of notice. Their location, on the south side of the street and only 100 feet west from Amsterdam avenue, is as everyone knows who has any acquaintance whatever with New York City realty first-class. Time and again attention has been called to its peculiar adaptiveness to family life, by reason of the facilities it contains for health and recreation in the park improvements that have been its features for so long; for comfortable living in the complete resources of the stores both on Amsterdam and Columbus avenues, and for travel in having at its doors almost, not only the lines of the Manhattan Elevated railroad, ing dressing salons and a bath-room opening from the hallway; and on the third floor, a large front bedroom with dresser and closet attached, a store-room and in the rear two bedrooms, also having dresser and closets opening from them. The trim is hardwood throughout, each room containing a cabinet mantle to match the trim and open-tiled fire-places and hearths. Different woods are distributed through the rooms, affording a pleasing variety: In the hallways, parlor, library and dining-room the trim is of rich polished mahogany, that of the second story bedrooms and dressing salons sycamore; the floor above of birch, the basement sitting-room of oak, and the kitchen of oak. The mitre trim is employed throughout the house. The painting and polishing, without exception, is of the best. The style and finish of the vestibules, which are in accordance with the front, we can safely say are equal to those of our latest and best private residences. Now as to important, though minor details, which in themselves are a testimony to the character of the work that has been put into the houses. These but also those of the Metropolitan Traction Company, by which every other part of the city can be reached cheaply and expeditiously. It is not necessary to refer to the attractions of Central Park on the east and the Riverside Drive on the west, further than to point out that they are at hand for the immediate enjoyment of the residents of this section of the city, and have been the means of bringing into it the best among the citizens of New York in their search for homes.

Messrs. Hoefer & Drischler, of No. 1730 Broadway, were the architects of these houses. In designing the facade they chose the Greek style of architecture and everything in the way of ornamentation has been kept down in conformity thereto, the only reliefs allowed being the high stoops and bay-windows of the second floor, which are supported by brackets modeled from those on the Erechtheion at Athens, and the cornice. The desire was to produce a front substantial, yet quiet and taking; the effort has been entirely successful. The material employed, brownstone, lent itself readily to the plan. The result is an original addition to architecture and one eminently in keeping with the purpose for which the buildings were designed. Consequently, in this and other respects, these houses are suitable in style, finish and dimensions for people desiring a plain but rich appearing house. The ground plan shows a frontage of 18.9 and a depth of 55 feet, with a laundry and butler's pantry extension of 11x14, while the depth of the lot is something more than 100 feet. In their three stories and basement they contain: in the basement, a sitting-room, kitchen and laundry; on the first-floor, parlor, library, dining-room and butler's pantry; on the second floor, two bedrooms with connect-comprise among them a furnace of the most approved pattern capable of heating the whole house, supplemented as has already been mentioned by grate spaces in each room which can be utilized in the milder inclement seasons, and double-thick French plate glass paneling of vestibule doors, mantles, dressing salons and closets; tile wainscot in the kitchen which also contains a large range and boiler, porcelain tubs in the laundry; open plumbing throughout and porcelain rolled rim bath-tub in the bath-room which is also tiled throughout, door furnishings of silver in the parlors, which on the polished mahogany has a very bright effect; antique bronze in the vestibule and dining-room and brass elsewhere; yards, cellar, sidewalk, including curb, concrete and other things, small and large, too numerous to mention. The dining-room which extends across the whole width of the house is more than usually spacious, light and attractive. The cheerful appearance of this room is enhanced by cathedral glass doors in tasteful patterns communicating with both the hallway and the butler's pantry. The fitting up of the latter is also calculated to increase the pleasure of that agreeable task of dining. Besides having everything necessary for the proper keeping of glass, china and table utensils, it communicates with the kitchen by a special stairway into the laundry and by dumb-waiter.

Some work requires minute inspection to prove whether it is well done or not; other is proved to be first-class in every respect by the mention of the people who did it, their names being a guarantee for the best in workmanship and materials in their respective lines. Mr. Auld's houses are a case in point. The firms selected to carry out the different parts of the work or to furnish the supplies being all well known in the trade for the superior excellence of their work. Messrs. George and Andrew Auld were the contractors for the masonry; the carpenters were Messrs. Moore & Corbett; the plasterer, Mr. Harry Woods, the plumbing was supplied and put in by Mr. John T. Hutchison, 874 6th avenue; the trim and mantles were furnished by the well-known firm of Kilian Bros.; the hardware by Sargent & Co.; the bells and electric work were supplied and fitted by Mr. Thos. Farrell; the concreting was laid down by Mr. M. Caravatta; the tiling by Mr. W. D. Grant; the J. L. Mott Iron Works furnished the furnaces; Mr. A. G. Bolton the ranges, etc., and Mr. G. F. Werner the cornice and roofing.

The description of these houses may very fairly be taken to prove the assertion made in opening this article, that they deserve the careful attention of people who are looking for an opportunity to make an investment in house property either for pecuniary return or for occupation by themselves, which in the end is the same thing. They possess the advantage of location, exterior attractiveness of style and interior convenience of arrangement, cheerful appearance and tasteful furnishings, for the increase of which the purchaser will find ample opportunity in the selection of decorations he will put in, and, finally, the best of material and workmanship.—(Communicated.)

"The Estate of John Jacob Astor."

On the Victoria Embankment, at the foot of the steps leading to Essex street, Strand, there is just now being built a house of unique aspect in Portland stone. Passers-by have their attention drawn to it by seeing a weather-cock, formed of a brightly-gilded old-fashioned ship or hulk, over the building. This house is the office of "The Estate of John Jacob Astor," the American millionaire, who seems to have settled permanently in this country, and is, we believe, making considerable purchases of London property. We have been told that this building is to be a perfect palace of an office, but we are unable at present to give any further particulars. It is a funny title to give it—"The Estate of John Jacob Astor." "Estate of" is in general the designation of the property of somebody who is dead, or somebody who is bankrupt, but neither of these eventualities affects Mr. Astor, so we presume the title is given as a grim joke. The building appears rather squat in style, but a fair judgment cannot be yet formed, surrounded as it is by scaffolding, but it is much dwarfed by loftier buildings in the neighborhood. The gilded hulk is to our thinking unsightly, but perhaps some other joke is veiled behind it which the ordinary English mind cannot catch on to. It is a treat, however, to have something new in architecture and in style, and it is nice also to have a puzzle in stone, timber and gilding. The location chosen for a business office is peculiarly strange. Mr. Astor has, however, brought a good many dollars with him and changed them into sterling, and again into English freehold property, and in so entitling his office he perhaps desires to give a strong "moral support"—prospectively—to the new estates duty of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, which is very good of him indeed.—Australian Trading World.

DAMAGES BY CABLE ROAD.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Being owner of a flat house on 3d avenue, I would kindly ask you to give me some information in regard to the Third Avenue Cable Road. On the first of this month I collected rent from a family living in my flat six years, and was told by the lady that she would move on the first of next month. I asked her the reason. She told me (occupying the second floor) that the brakes of the Third Avenue Cable Road made such terrible noise by stopping and starting again that she is now troubled with nervousness, as she claims, through the noise of the cable road. Now, if this lady makes an affidavit to this effect, could I not sue the Third Avenue Cable Road? Is there no redress for such a nuisance? What steps would you advise me to take?

Answer.—You have a cause of action against the railroad company. If you desire redress you must put your case in the hands of a lawyer.—LAW EDITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you be kind enough to advise me whether the American Institute of Architects has a fixed fee for the members to go by for the percentage to be charged to the owner for drawing plans and supervising the construction of a warehouse.

Answer.—For full professional services (including supervision) 5 per cent. upon the cost of the work if costing more than $10,000.

LANDLORD AND TENANT REPAIRS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

I wish to get your opinion in regard to a lease of a house, if the tenant is required to repair the roof of a house he occupies. The agent claims because there is this clause in the lease: "Repairs in or about the house to be made by the tenant." This should not hold the tenant responsible to repair the roof or anything outside of the house, the stoop, sidewalk or yard. If you will kindly give your opinion in your this week's RECORD AND GUIDE you will greatly oblige one of your oldest subscribers.

Answer.—Such a clause being in the lease the tenant is bound to repair the roof. "The lessee's covenant to keep the whole house and premises in good repair and condition is broken by his allowing the steps to become rotten, and the roof to leak so that the walls are injured." (Green v. Eden, 2 Supm. Ct. (T. and C.) 582.—LAW EDITOR.

Quick Searches.

The passing of a real estate title on the third working day after the signing of a contract of sale would have been declared impossible by the conveyancers of ten or fifteen years ago, unless an understanding had been arrived at by the principals some time previous to the making of the agreement. It is still an exceptional occurrence, but has been done with at least two sales that were effected recently. In one case the agreement to purchase was signed by the buyer on Thursday and the deed giving him possession of the property was filed on the Monday following. Another instance was mentioned a few days ago by an attaché of one of the title companies, where a completed search was returned with a guarantee on the second day after it had been directed to be made by the attorney. Such celerity is of course unusual, but it is evident that real estate has of late become an asset which can be more quickly turned into cash than formerly. The allowance of thirty days in which to examine title, which at one time was considered by lawyers the minimum time that must ensue after the signing of a contract of sale, has been reduced to twenty days or less and, if desired by both principals, there is no obstacle nowadays to the passing of a title within two weeks. The change is due to the title companies. It is a change for the better, although one that still leaves real estate behind other forms of investment in respect to the time required for converting the equity of the owner into ready money. The effect of the reduced number of days required for searching is specially favorable to mortgagors. It is not unusual for loans to be placed and the money paid over in much less time than was possible a few years ago. That fact was demonstrated by the recording of the Hilton mortgage on the Stewart building, to Mrs. Hetty Green, not many months ago, within two weeks from the date of the acceptance of the loan. In that case, titles to a large number of parcels had to be examined and the abstract prepared was very much more extensive and bulky than the average abstract of title.

Real Estate Market.

The improvement noted last Saturday has continued and the sales made public present evidence of an aggregate investment having been made this week through brokers that falls little short of the unusually large figure involved in the purchases of the preceding six days. Down-town property has been in greatest demand, but the total amount invested is closely pressed by the aggregate represented by the sales of dwellings. Next in order and not far behind is vacant land, which has sold freely and will in several instances be built upon by spring. Residence property west of Central Park does not seem to be in as much demand as it was a few weeks ago, and many of the brokers who make that class of realty a specialty express the opinion that their sales will not cut an important figure in the market until another year has been ushered in. There are enough big deals under way concerning property below 14th street to justify the giving of a positive assurance of a fairly good market for the next week or two, despite the interest that will be taken in the approaching election. In fact, it is admitted that at least two extensive sales have been closed within a day or two, details of which it is expected will be divulged in time for publication next week.

The fate of the auction market for the next month and possibly for several months would appear to have been decided adversely by the outcome of the sales held since Monday. The total realized compares favorably with the amount obtained by the auction sales of the corresponding week of last year, but it has been a hard struggle for the auctioneers, and an experience that there will be no inducement to repeat for some time to come. The sale of the Joseph I. West estate properties, on Tuesday, by Smyth & Ryan, was to all intents and purposes a failure, but one not due to the auctioneers. The attendance was large and embraced many faces not familiar to patrons of the auction rooms. The newcomers displayed, however, no disposition to bid. Eighteen parcels were sold for a total of $163,400, and thirteen were bought in for the estate.

At Richard V. Harnett & Co.'s sale, at the Real Estate Exchange, on Thursday, of property owned by the estate of Samuel D. Isaacs, and estate of Simon A. Asch, the audience was the greatest the salesroom had held since spring. Not only that but the persons present were of a class that has always been prominent at sales that have been successfully carried on. Their purse strings were tightly drawn, however, and few shared in the bidding. Five parcels found buyers at prices that experts pronounced good and ten were left on the hands of the representatives of the estates.

At the Broadway Salesroom, on Tuesday, James L. Wells adjourned until the 30th inst. a partition sale of property on Frederic, Pyne and Bayard streets and Crescent avenue. On the following day William Kennelly withdrew from sale No. 723 7th avenue. On Thursday Smyth & Ryan withdrew property on Cross place and Jerome avenue, 24th Ward, and two lots in South Mt. Vernon.

On Tuesday next, October 23, at noon, in the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room, No. 59 Liberty street, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the valuable business properties, either together or separately, known as Nos. 109 and 111 Broad street and Nos. 24 and 26 Front street. These properties will be offered to close the estate of the late Henry S. Sequine. As may be judged from the location, the property is a very desirable one and the terms of sale offered are reasonable. Further particulars can be obtained of the auctioneers.

On Wednesday next, October 24th, at noon, the three-story and basement brick dwelling and lot, No. 247 East 110th street, 16.8x40 x100.11, will be sold by Richard V. Harnett & Co., at auction, in the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room, No. 59 Liberty street. This house stands in the block between 2d and 3d avenues, and but a step away from the "L" road station on the first mentioned thoroughfare.

On Wednesday next, October 24th, at noon, in the Auction Room, No. 59 Liberty street, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will offer at auction, No. 116 Bank street, a piece of West Side residence property, consisting of a three-story and basement brick dwelling, 25x40, with one-story brick building on rear of lot and standing on a lot 25x95.

On Thursday next, October 25th, at noon, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell at auction at No. 111 Broadway, two three-story brown-stone private dwellings, Nos. 262 and 274 Lenox avenue, 20x75 and 18x75 respectively. These properties, besides other qualifications, offer an attraction to residence buyers by their proximity to Mt. Morris Park.

Mr. Frank S. Baker, the real estate dealer, is a candidate for the Assembly from the Twenty-third District on the Republican ticket. Party dissensions that may jeopardize that ticket are unwise, as in Mr. Baker they have a gentleman well qualified to represent them in the Legislature.

CONCERNING REAL ESTATE AGENTS AND BROKERS.

Ames & Co., of No. 109 West 34th street, corner of Broadway, have an excellent centrally-located office, coupled with first-class facilities for the transaction of a brokerage and agency business, including the sale and management of realty. The firm have many valuable properties in their charge and for sale. Mr. J. B. Harris is now connected with the selling department, which is fully up to date.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

The Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum has sold No. 77 Franklin street, a four-story stone front store, on lot 18.9x75.8x20.6x75.9, to Hall C. Tuckerman for $55,000.

Henry G. Cassidy has sold for Thomas Edwards the four-story single flat, No. 222 East 39th street, lot 16.8x98.9, to a Mr. Henderson, for $14,500.

Robert Auld & Co. have sold for Richard A. Farrelly to John Fath the three-story dwelling, No. 347 West 50th street.

F. Southack has sold for Frederick Konig No. 487 Broadway and No. 62 Mercer street, a five-story stone front and brick business structure, 28x200, occupying the block front on the southerly side of Broome street, to John T. Williams, for less than $350,000.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. have sold, for the estate of the late John McB. Davidson, the Livingston leasehold, 100.4x131, on the northwest corner of 7th avenue and 42d street, and the fee of the plot, 69x100.4, adjoining on the street, to Thomas Canary, who will utilize the plot as a site for a theatre, upon which work is to begin about the first of February next. The consideration agreed upon for the property is understood to be about $150,000. The first period of the leasehold will expire on May 1, 1903, and a renewal of twenty-one years is contingent on there being a building erected before the end of the term that shall cost not less than $25,000. The same brokers have sold for Charles E. Runk and Daniel B. Freedman, to Henry O. Havemeyer, Nos. 43 to 47 Broad street, east side, 130.11 north of Beaver street, four-story buildings, with plot, 63.4x128.5x60.5 x irregular x 73.2. The sellers took title to the property about April 1 for a nominal consideration. No reliable information can be obtained of the price to be paid by Mr. Havemeyer, but it is understood to be not far from $270,000.

Jefferson M. Levy has sold the old five-story building, 25.6x50.11x25.9x53, No. 31 Liberty street, to Joseph Fahys for about $90,000. Mr. Fahys has begun excavating for a ten-story building to be erected on No. 29 adjoining and No. 51 Maiden lane adjoining the rear of No. 29, both of which were purchased as one parcel at the Lasak partition sale on May 31 for $121,000, and will include his latest purchase in the site for the new structure. Mr. Levy bought No. 31 at the same sale for $56,000. It will be seen that he has realized a handsome profit on his investment of four months ago.

The four-story stone front dwelling No. 63 West 46th street, lot 20x100.5, is reported sold for Mrs. Helen E. McMurdie, to Mrs. A. Stockwell for about $32,000.

Williams & Greene have sold for Mrs. D. P. Mowry the four-story stone front dwelling, 25x90x100, No. 534 5th avenue, between 44th and 45th streets, for $115,000.

The four-story brick dwelling No. 117 East 17th street, lot 25x92, has been sold by Abraham Stern to Mrs. Caroline Hertzberg for $26,000.

S. B. Rogers has sold for Jarvis B. Smith Nos. 13 and 15 Lispenard street, north side, about 125 feet east of West Broadway, a five-story stone front store, on plot 50x100, to Joseph Byk, for about $130,000, partly represented by property taken in trade. A resale had previously been arranged, and immediately after the signing of the first contract another was signed by which Mr. Byk sells the property at an advance of $7,500. A part of the consideration in the last transaction is also property to be taken in exchange. The parcel was to have been sold under foreclosure by Wm. Kennelly, on Tuesday, but was adjourned for one week. A settlement of the suit was arrived at on the morning of the following day. The last conveyance of the property in which a consideration was expressed was made in 1890, when the figure given was $120,000. Mr. Smith had previously owned the same parcel, taking title in January, 1886, for a consideration of $125,000.

Mrs. E. W. Candee, for whom the residence No. 11 East 60th street was recently sold, has purchased of William Amory the four-story dwelling, on lot 20.4x100.5, No. 111 West 37th street. The house is one of a row built for Mr. Candee some years ago and was sold by him to the present seller. The price mentioned is something above $30,000.

Tim & Co. have sold for the Racer estate, No. 239 3d avenue, east side, 63 feet north of 22d street, a three-story brick store and dwelling, 21x60x75, to Mrs. E. McElroy, for about $20,000.

This week's records disclose an interesting transaction or series of transactions that look peculiar but hardly unfamiliar to those who keep posted on the purchases of operators of a certain class and their methods of manipulating property of which they become possessed. On Monday, John G. Norris took title from the estate of the late W. J. Todd to Nos. 154 and 156 West 27th street, for a consideration of $54,000, giving as part payment a purchase money mortgage for $47,000. This left an equity of only $7,000, but on the same day a second mortgage for $23,000, from Norris to Moyer L. Sire, on the same parcel was recorded and also an assignment of that valuable security from Sire to Edward F. Browning for a consideration equal to the amount it calls for. Mr. Browning, however, is a real estate broker and the presumption is that he is well able to protect his interest in the property, whatever it may be.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. have sold for Max Schonfeld the plot, 100x120, on the southwest corner of 5th avenue and 114th street to Thomas McManus, who gives in exchange the two five-story buildings, Nos. 1297 and 1299 3d avenue, east side, between 74th and 75th streets, on lots 20x110 each. The exchange was an even one, each property being valued at $60,000. Mr. McManus bought the 3d avenue parcels at auction in March of last year for $27,000 each. The purchaser will begin the improvement of the plot as soon as possible and erect a five-story flat covering the avenue front and flats of smaller frontage on the street.

It was reported yesterday that the New York Orphan Asylum property on 73d and 74th streets, Riverside Drive and West End avenue, had been sold. An unsuccessful effort was made to verify the rumor. It was learned, however, that the representatives of the corporation are about to close a purchase of land north of the Harlem River, which is to become the site of a new asylum. Several suitable properties have been considered, and a favorable decision is said to have been reached regarding one of them.

The plot, 102.7x103x100.11x120.11, on the southeast corner of Riverside Drive and 102d street, has been sold by John D. Jones to William G. Brown for $105,000.

The four-story dwelling, No. 14 East 65th street, lot 22.6x100.5, has been sold by Reuben S. Middleton to George G. Williams, President of the Chemical National Bank. The price agreed upon is said to be $50,000.

Heilner & Wolf have sold to William H. Brandt eight unfinished five-story flats, 25x87.6x100.11, Nos. 219-233 West 121st street. The property was purchased at foreclosure sale last month by the mortgagees, Heilner & Wolf. Mr. Brandt will complete the buildings.

The lot, 25x100, on the southwest corner of Columbus avenue and 80th street, is reported sold by Amos R. Eno for $37,500.

William L. Flanagan, owner of the new Hotel Marie Antoinette, on the northwest corner of the Boulevard and 66th street, is reported to have bought of James O'Brien the five-story flat adjoining the hotel on the street.

The purchaser of the residence, No. 11 East 60th street, reported sold last week, is Mrs. John E. McGowan. The price agreed upon is $127,000.

M. Bargehr & Son have sold for Philip Braender the five-story brick flat, 32x90x95, on the southwest corner of St. Nicholas avenue and 119th street, to a Mrs. McCaffrey for $45,000.

Charles T. Barney has sold through James R. Hay the plot, 60x about 102, on the southeast corner of Riverside Drive and 91st street, and two lots, 25x100.8 each, adjoining on the street, to Builder William J. Merritt, who will erect thereon three handsome dwellings. Mr. Merritt is also the purchaser from Mr. Barney of the plot, 100x100.8, on the southwest corner of 88th street and the Boulevard, and intends erecting on the site a seven-story apartment house for which excavations are now in progress.

John Kehoe has sold No. 312 West 71st street, one of a row of new three-story stone front dwellings, 18x55x100.5, to John Schreiber for about $26,000.

Frank L. Fisher has furnished the particulars of the extensive West Side sale referred to in the RECORD AND GUIDE of last week. He has sold for the West Side Bank to the Amsterdam Investment Company the six three-and-a-half-story stone front dwellings, Nos. 315 to 329 West 84th street, for about $150,000. The houses were built by Dunn Brothers, No. 319 being 19x55x102.2 and the others 18x55x102.2 each. No. 319 has been resold to R. K. Owens. The same broker has sold for the Jacob & Skinner Realty Company the two-story brick and stone private stable, 25x90x100, No. 345 Amsterdam avenue, between 76th and 77th streets, for about $25,000.

Stabler & Smith report a sale by Watkins Bros., the builders, of one of their houses on the north side of 162d street, between Edgecombe and Amsterdam avenues, to Alexander Cameron and wife. It is a three-story stone front, 18.6x52x112, and the first sold of a row of dwellings not yet completed.

J. Freedman has sold for Daniel B. Freedman, to two investors, a plot of 40 lots fronting on Dyckman street and the new Speedway, and about thirty lots on Sherman avenue, adjacent to the Speedway.

John Davis has sold for Sonn Bros. the northwest corner of Columbus avenue and 80th street a plot 51.2x100, upon which are one-story brick stores which yield an annual rental of over $4,900. The buyer is a Chicago investor, and the price agreed upon close to $75,000.

Charles A. Yost is the buyer of the flat, No. 1987 7th avenue, the sale of which was reported last week.

NORTH SIDE.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, OCTOBER 20, 1894.

IN view of the dullness that has been the feature of the market throughout the year no disappointment should be felt over the evidence presented below of a largely reduced aggregate involved in the sales of Kings County real estate up to October 1 when compared with the recorded transactions for the same months in 1893. Values have evidently suffered, but if property has sold for less it has also been mortgaged more lightly and is probably better protected as investments than it was a year ago. The records of the Department of Buildings give evidence of a great falling off, not only in the number of new structures projected during the first nine months of this year, but in the estimated cost as well, when subjected to a comparison with the figures for the same period in 1893. This discrepancy is not unexpected, however, being only the natural result of an absence of speculation and reduced investments in real estate.

Two Proposed Boulevards.

T. D. MOSSCROP'S PLANS LAID BEFORE THE FLATBUSH AVENUE EXTENSION COMMISSION.

The third meeting of the Flatbush Avenue Extension Commission was held in the Mayor's private office on Wednesday afternoon. There were present, besides the members, Thomas D. Mossdrop, who came prepared to submit his plans, and Lawyers W. D. Napier and D. G. Harriman, representing the property owners on Fulton and Livingston streets and Flatbush avenue. Mr. Mossdrop's plans, which were called "Boulevard Plans," were placed before the Commission. He explained that the North Boulevard was a widening of Hudson avenue 50 feet on the west side from Fulton to Johnson street, the proposed terminus of the Hudson avenue bridge, and where it crosses Wiltonghby street it turns west, widening Wiltonghby street 40 feet on the north side from Hudson avenue to Adams street, widening Adams street on the east side to Myrtle avenue, and Myrtle avenue 25 feet on the south side from Adams to Washington street, making a continuous boulevard 100 feet in width, from the corner of Hudson avenue and Fulton street, opposite Flatbush avenue, to Myrtle avenue and Washington street. There would be no grade to speak of and very few gorges. The South Boulevard is a widening of Livingston street 40 feet to Boerum place, and a widening of that street about 10 feet to Fulton street. Mr. Mossdrop said that his proposed route would cost only $1,577,582. This is $1,677,318 less than the lowest estimate for the direct or "air-line" route. The plans also admit of enlarging the facilities of the present railroad lines concentrating at the bridge and ferries. All cars could pass through the North Boulevard on the way to the bridge and return by way of Fulton street, Court street and Joralemon street to the South Boulevard. This would permit increasing the number of cars at the bridge and ferries from 5,000 to 10,000 daily. It would also increase the speed from Flatbush avenue to the bridge from an average of four and a-quarter miles to seven miles an hour, while decreasing the danger to life and limb of passengers and pedestrians. The Commission has finally decided to recommend for public discussion two of the plans submitted to it for approval. One of these is what is known as the "air-line" plan for the extension of the avenue in a direct line to the bridge. The other is the "parallel" plan, which provides for the extension of the avenue to Fleet place and the construction of a roadway 300 feet north of Fulton street, to run parallel with that street to Myrtle avenue and Washington street. On Tuesday evening next there will be a meeting held in the Common Council chamber, City Hall, when an opportunity will be afforded for a public expression upon the air-line and parallel plans.

Notes Gathered Here and There.

Notice is given that the assessment rolls in the following-entitled matters have been completed and placed in the hands of the Collector of Taxes and Assessments, for collection: Sewer map K, District No. 23, Butler street, from Washington avenue westerly to the crown of the street, between Underhill and Washington avenues; sewer map O, District No. 37, Hausman street, between Nassau and Meeker avenues; Prospect place, between Rochester and Buffalo avenues; Ralph avenue, between Pacific and Bergen streets; Vanderveer street, between Bushwick avenue and Evergreen Cemetery, and Grove street, between Myrtle avenue and the city line.

Thirty-five bids were opened on Monday, by Fire Commissioner Wurster, for five new engine-houses. The lowest bidders were as follows: Liberty avenue, south side, 40 feet west of Market street, Frank Mapes & Son, $13,270; Norman avenue, north side, 75 feet east of Diamond street, Peter N. Phillips, $12,400; Monroe street, south side, 100 feet west of Nostrand avenue, Frank Mapes & Son, $14,418; 4th avenue, east side, 25 feet south of Garfield place, M. Gibbons & Son, $11,718; Morgan avenue, west side, 75 feet south of Grattan street, Peter N. Phillips, $12,400. No award was made, as the specifications state that the Commission would decide whether the pillars should be constructed of iron or wood and the first floor laid with tiles or board.

It is reported that the Brighton Beach Railroad will abandon steam for electricity. Trolley wires are to be strung the whole length of the line. This decision was hastened by the fact that the Common Council has given the Kings County Elevated road permission to connect with the Brighton Beach road at Franklin avenue. It is said that the former road will also adopt electricity as a motive power.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen on Monday it was decided to repave the following streets with asphalt: Clark street, from Fulton street to Columbia Heights, cost $11,500; Pineapple street, from Fulton street to Columbia Heights, cost $9,000; Orange street, from Henry street to Columbia Heights, cost $5,500; Columbia Heights, from Middagh to Pierrepont street, cost $11,250; Spencer place, from Hancock to Fulton street, cost $4,600, and Hancock street, from Franklin to Bedford avenue, cost $6,800.

Alderman Colson offered a resolution authorizing the Brooklyn, New York and New Jersey Terminal Company to construct and maintain one or more tunnels from the shore of the East River to the junction of Flatbush and Atlantic avenues, and to build one or more tracks in such tunnel or tunnels. The resolution authorizes the construction of tunnels under Furman, Pineapple and Fulton streets, Flatbush avenue and intersecting streets. The resolution was referred to the Railroad Committee.

Petitions were received asking that 4th street, between 6th and 7th avenues, and Macon street, between Ralph and Howard avenues, be repaved with asphalt. These were referred to the Committee on Grading and Paving.

PROPOSALS FOR CITY WORK.

Sealed proposals will be received at the Department of City Works, until Friday, October 26th, at 12 M., for repaving St. Marks avenue, from Bedford to Franklin avenue, with asphalt.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded. Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—Although the market does not offer many really new features this week, such as they are retain the promising character noted in our last report. The value line is lifted a trifle again, and while $1.50 may possibly be considered the average top there is enough doing at 12½ better, to fairly permit the quotation, and doubtful if anything could be purchased at $1.40 unless very poor in quality, and of such the offerings are rare. Indeed the remarkably good condition stock has shown all this season is still maintained and it is only for some special work or a determination to have a favorite brand that induces buyers to pay top figures. During the early portion of the current week trade was a trifle slow, and stock accumulated slightly in first hands, but later demand picked up somewhat and for the past day or two has taken up the supply about as rapidly as it came to hand. Only a few of the purchases will go into pile, consumers taking most stock direct to jobs under way. Pales have found fair demand and are a shade firmer. Information from primal sources cover no really new suggestions, moderate production going on at a few localities, but as a rule manufacturers have quit work for the season, so far as moulding is concerned, and indeed the majority have finished up entirely. Shipments, however, continue from pretty much all points and, so far as learned, there have been no decisive steps as yet taken to cut off supplies.

CEMENT.—Notwithstanding the importance of the articles there is really very little to say about cement. As the season works along the demand becomes better from dealers in various localities, and there has been an increased sale of both domestic and foreign to interior customers at former cost. Although the tone is id anything a shade firmer, Of Rosendale the supply has proven ample for prompt response to all calls, and with quite free arrivals foreign stock was plenty enough. Indeed, imports of some of the leading and favorite brands have not found supplies coming forward as freely as they would like.

GLASS.—The market for window glass continues interesting because of its unsettled character, and the lack of evidence that there is likely to be much improvement for some time to come. Primarily consumption is very small compared with what is ordinarily taking place at this season, or can be calculated upon with some degree of confidence, and against the unpropitious outlet supplies are quite liberal. The domestic production is by many considered fuller than need be, yet manufacturers cannot justify themselves in putting out the fires with the fact staring them in the face that such course would greatly distress their workmen, who have since the opening of the season been employed at a 22½ per cent reduction in wages. Furthermore the skillful class of artisans employed in production of cylinder glass are by no means plentiful, and it is therefore well to keep them together, even though it be at some loss. Discounts are made to suit negotiations in hand so far as jobbers are concerned, and that seems to be the case at all other points, which creates great irregularity in price on small deals, but it is claimed that no important variations occur on first-hand parcels. Importers seem to have overdone matters in way of bringing out stock, and the already somewhat congested supply is likely to receive further additions from parcels afloat or in course of shipment. The price is considered as low as it can reasonably be placed, and, failing to draw custom, importers see no necessity for further shading. Plate-glass has a generally easy tone in prices, but current reports claim that the production has been kept well sold up and no inconvenience attends the effort to take care of supplies.

LATH.—It has been a quiet and uneventful sort of week, but receivers appear very well satisfied with the net result. They did not have much stock to handle, the demand for the supply was fair, and the value line sustained firmly at $1.65 a 1.70 and possibly $1.75 might be named as it has been reached exceptionally and is now the asking figure. The previous claim of moderate quantity afloat appears for once to have been well founded, and it is again repeated most receivers reporting their advances of consignment to be remarkably small for this season of the year.

LIME.—The market has been about steady all the week and at the close seems to be in fair shape. Demand, to be sure, is somewhat irregular and at times needs a little coaxing, as dealers are in no particular hurry about taking in stock, but the offering has proven moderate and permitted sellers to hold the value line against further shrinkage. It is understood that manufacturers commence to feel a little tired over the very poor rates ruling and are endeavoring to make their production conform more closely to requirements of the market.

LUMBER.—While there is nothing [in the present condition of trade to inspire a hope of any positive improvement either in the quantity of stock moving or in value, the natural chances are against retrograde developments for some little time to come; It is settled in the minds of operators who have carefully looked over the situation that demand cannot be coaxed out of the conservative channel and will limit itself to such quantities as may appear just sufficient to last through the winter against a generally curtailed consumption, leaving the seller at first hands to calculate as nearly as possible upon the amount and the manner of the offering. Very good judgment has thus far been shown, and the general market is free from pressure of supplies, yet at the same time there is enough for current calls, and in some cases a slight increase would make a surplus and prove quite detrimental if urged at all.

Spruce has been kept steady for some little time and quite a fair amount of trading done in placing such random as became available and securing contracts for specials to be delivered later on in the season. The receivers refer particularly to Eastern stuff, and recently frankly confess that they have sought and found the best custom at outside points, the general city trade proving exceedingly slow and cautious, even in some cases where dealers could apparently add to accumulations with some freedom and then show only a fair stock. Prices, as a rule, are well sustained. Virginia and Northern spruce remains about steady and is available only in the moderate quantity noticeable for some little time past. Some piling is coming to hand coastwise, but a large proportion goes directly into possession of consumers.

A dispatch received from Ottawa, Ont., during the week says: The Government of Quebec has rescinded the order of August 16th, fixing the rate of dues on spruce logs for paper pulp cut on Crown lands in that province at forty cents per cord, but allowing a reduction of 15 cents per cord when the pulp wood is manufactured in the province. The 15-cent rebate has been abolished and a uniform rate of 40 cents per cord imposed. This action was taken upon the recommendation of the Dominion Government, which feared retaliation on the part of the United States.

Hemlock is getting a somewhat uneven trade and does not as yet make a turn that can be considered thoroughly advantageous to sellers. Occasionally a local deal is perfected that affords some encouragement, but the demand does not spread and buyers pliantly demonstrate that it would be waste of time to endeavor to coax them. Orders from outside custom are secured to fair extent, although a portion of country trade is now about provided for. Supplies are a little short on local sales, but can be reached at former rates.

Carolina Pine is by some operators claimed to be on the mend, both as regards the lessening of the tenders, and a disposition to show greater steadiness in valuation, but buyers assert that they can find quit as much stock, and as good an assortment as heretofore without the necessity for raising bids. The low grades show the best tone, because they have the fullest consumption.

White Pine remains steady with variable claims regarding the amount of business doing, though, on the whole, there has probably been some increase in the quantity of box placed. Not that the consumption of box boards is so liberal as has been erroneously stated in some reports, but simply because so many box makers are working upon a hand to mouth basis in matter of supplies, and have to replenish frequently to keep stock for even an only fair run of trade. There has been no trouble in finding sellers quite ready to meet the demand as developed, and upon former basis of valuation, although in some instances the talk is a shade firmer.

Yellow Pine is quoted steady with some demand prevailing, but no special force to the attitude of buyers, and the general run of offerings found quite equal to wants of market. There is, however, indications of a hopeful feeling in regard to probable action at primal points calculated to greatly reduce keen and useless competition.

Hardwoods retain a steady position and are, if anything, somewhat more active. The demand retains the same form common all the season, buyers figuring closely to apparent early requirements and never taking two car loads where they think one will do, but a larger number of customers are heard from, both city and near by, and trade broadens accordingly. The inquiry is of a general character, because dealers are getting together an assortment for winter use, but such leading grades as poplar and oak have the largest share of the passing trade. Accounts from interior markets have been somewhat conflicting in regard to supplies, but no real evidence of scarcity is given, and in one portion of the poplar district an increase of logs has relieved manufacturers of the necessity for claiming they would not have enough stock to keep mills running.

At the close we learn that within a couple of days local dealers have shown a more determined interest in Eastern Spruce, and finding the amount offering for all deliveries quite limited are increasing their bids, with $12 now about inside and doubtful if that would reach any random available. For extra difficult specials it is hard to find a mill ready to take an order.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES. STATE.

The Albany market is reviewed by Argus as follows:

The anticipation of the lumber dealers for a fair average fall trade are being realized. There is no rush, but none was expected. Dealings the week past have been marked by several quite large sales and buying generally is in larger lots, the retailers everywhere putting in moderate stocks for the winter, and Albany getting her share of their orders. The tone of the white pine market is a little firmer. In spruce, prices are shaded a little on some grades, but trade is considerably better and there is only a fair supply.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

In the hardwood trade generally, throughout the country, there is an expanding requirement and a more ample outlet than earlier in the season, because the furniture, agricultural implement, wagon, car and other factories are running with greater capacity, many of them full handed. It is on this side of the general lumber trade that the greater expansion is observable, while the building material requirement is simply holding about the measure of gain made late in summer.

The white pine movement of the Northwestern States is holding up well considering the lateness of the season. Its greatest volume is in the older States—Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. Farther west the demand is restricted by the results of crop failure. At Minneapolis and other up-river points greater confidence in future trade has been induced by the fall rains and the hope indulged for next season's harvest. Yet distribution at upper Mississippi points is scarcely holding up to the recent record.

At St. Louis business is fairly good in all lines. White pine is moving in fair volume, but at low and not improving prices.

It is claimed that lumber at the white pine mills on Lakes Michigan and Superior has been sold closer to the saw than for years past. Comparatively small stocks of dry lumber remain at the mills, and most of it has been sold. At the same time those stocks in this market are smaller by 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 feet than last year, and it is known that there is no great surplus in the hands of dealers anywhere. Yet prices continue to rule low and in the trade there seems to be a greater effort to sell than to insist on prices that will yield a profit. This is a peculiar condition of things that it seems must soon be succeeded by a firmer state of values. Much will depend, however, on the volume of demand during succeeding months. It is evident that wholesale dealers are looking about for stocks with rather more interest than a short time ago, for they are aware that prices will go no lower this season.

At Chicago the receipts were moderate, though the demand was good and sales of a considerable amount of lumber to arrive were made. The yard dealers, who see that the season is drawing toward the close, with no great amount of lumber offering, or likely to be this season, are beginning to pick up such lumber as they need to balance up their stocks for the winter. This induces increased sales of stock in advance of shipment.

Owing to the rise of freight rates from Lake Superior points to $2.25 a thousand, shipments from that lake have diminished and only an occasional cargo will arrive thence during the remainder of the season. It is said that one charter was made at $2.50 a thousand.

It is furthermore claimed that lumber has been sold up close to the saw all round the lakes, with but few exceptions, and that no great amount of product remains to be put on the market. Freight rates continue low from Lake Michigan points, and the tendency is to lay up boats early, since there is no money in carrying, especially now that the winds have become contrary and the weather conditions from now till the close of navigation will be uncertain.

There has been no marked change in prices though the tendency is to firmness. Short piece stuff is selling at $9 when green, $9.25 when dry, and lots of dry have been sold to arrive for $9.50. Lumber is holding firmly at quotations. The demand is for good average runs of sorts, with an especial call for six-inch strips and stock width boards. A cargo of short lumber stuck on the market two days, the objection to it having been that it contained too large a percentage of four-inch stuff.

Demand for poplar lumber continues to show slight improvement, but prices are unchanged. Dry lumber is scarce, but there is sufficient to supply current light requirements. A few of the mills received fresh supplies of logs last month, but as a rule the usual September tides failed to materialize, and a large proportion of the river mills are shut down.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

Logging matters continue to demand considerable attention in the white pine belt, and in Minnesota and Wisconsin loggers are already in the woods, making camps and roads and getting ready for the winter's work. The indications do not point to any greater amount of logs being banked the coming winter than last season, although it will cost more to bank the logs this winter than last. This will be due to the fact that most of the logs put in will be burned over timber which in many cases is far from roads and streams, necessitating a considerable outlay to put them in water, and they must be cut at once to save them. Thus logs for sawing next season cannot be any cheaper if they are as cheap as at present, and this will have a tendency to advance lumber. Further reports from the burned over territory strengthen the opinion that the loss to timber on account of the fires has been greatly exaggerated.

Here and there mills in the white pine belt are beginning to shut down for the season, and as a general thing the sawing season will end somewhat earlier than usual this year on account of the urgent need of getting the men into the woods in many instances, although in other cases mills are being shut down because the yards are full of lumber and space is becoming scarce. Stocks are sufficiently large to care for the demand, and mill men are finding that the sooner they shut down the better. Over in the Wisconsin valley some of the mills have already shut down while others will run until the first of next month. Part of the Eau Claire mills are already closed, while at down river points the shutting down season is not far away.

NAILES.—Current dealings are entirely free from speculative methods, many buyers even refusing to anticipate regular trade wants except for a few weeks ahead. A pretty fair sort of consumption, however, has to be attended and that keeps some stock in motion all the while, with about an average assortment wanted to satisfy the requirements of buyers. Prices slightly irregular, but do not change much on the general range. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.05 per keg for car lots and $1.10@1.20 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.00@1.15 for car lots, and $1.25@1.35 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Reports from all divisions of the trade advise a continued dull and unsatisfactory state of business. Of course there is more doing than during the mid-summer months, and there is likely to be more or less movement until the close of inland navigation, but buyers generally are taking only just so much stock as may seem to be required for an ordinary distribution and flatly refuse to depart from that method. Disappointment in the volume of trade and competition from foreign stock has an unsettling influence on values, and it is really somewhat difficult to decide upon quotations for many of the leading articles. Especially is that the case for white lead which simply seems to sell for any price operators can agree upon when they come together, but the figure is generally low, away down close to cost of the base material, and when domestic now and then looks like trying to steady up, foreign comes in at a rate to spoil the chance. Red lead is claimed to be selling somewhat more freely, but litharge is slow and values irregular. Zincs have shown no animation, the imported goods getting only a few small calls, and domestic manufacturers reporting about as light a run of orders booked as they have experienced for many a year at this season. Dry and oil colors sell fairly, the latter a little more freely if anything, but all calls are promptly and fully met at old rates. Orange mineral is dull, buyers feeling indifferent in face of free offerings and some pressure of foreign. Linseed Oil retains no continuous demand of importance, buyers feeling inclined to move with caution, and, while Western brands are slightly irregular at times, the supply seems to be under control and offerings carefully made. We quote at 53@54c. for Western, 54@55c. for City from domestic seed and 55@56c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine meets with only a moderate and somewhat indifferent demand, which together with tame accounts from primal markets creates an easy tone. We quote at 28@28½c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—There is not demand enough to create any animation, but buyers keep pegging away at small lots and in that way succeed in moving a fair quantity of stock. Prices without important change. We quote Tar at $1.95 p. 2.00 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.75@3.00 in pork bbls., and $3.90@4.00 in oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50@1.70.

THERE is nothing harder for outsiders than to get accurate reports of commercial conditions in any department. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the interest of insiders lies in making things appear better than they are, and it is only after the lapse of a considerable time that the real truth gets out. In the East railroad reports showing better, it is assumed that business must have improved, and it no doubt has. But does the West follow suit? It is feared not. Recent reports show that Chicago's idle population is as large as ever, and the following extract from the letter of a Chicago firm, whose business is a good indication of the buying powers of the working classes, on which any improvement must be based, gives a graphic picture of real conditions: "We have never seen business quite so dull as it is now. We have sent men out one after the other for the last three or four weeks, and they have all been forced to return unable to do any business, that is, business enough to warrant keeping them out. We have had two men in Indiana, three in Illinois, one each in Missouri, Iowa and Wisconsin, and they all report the same condition of things—merchants in receipt of their fall goods, stocked up in their stores and waiting for business which has not yet developed. It is believed that a little cold weather will start things, but as yet there has been no such weather through the West. All the reports we get on the trade situation are the same as those we receive from our men; all agree that trade is very, very dull." This state of things is naturally reflected in the New York stock market, where Western railroad securities occupy so prominent a place and gives a gloomy tone to movements there. There is a general expectation, too, that the unsatisfactory condition of the coal market will result in the disorganization of the pool which has held the anthracite producers together so long. This has been threatened a great many times since its formation in the seventies, but has always hitherto been averted by the good sense of the producers. Times are different now. There cannot be a doubt that with mild weather and limited manufactures the coal trade suffers and the smaller producers most, but in a fight the case of the latter would be utterly hopeless. The position of Reading and its needs for larger income may make a readjustment of percentages necessary, but notwithstanding all this the conviction will force itself forward that short operations on the Coalers for a big decline are very dangerous, especially as their several managements have shown so much good sense and conservatism since their bitter lesson of '77. If the coalers are a sale it is more for the same reasons that affect other issues than for any well-grounded belief that a coal fight of long duration is imminent. The maintenance of exchange at the gold shipping point continues to occasion anxiety.

FOREIGN reports give a good deal of space to the influence of the news of the impending death of the Czar of Russia upon prices. Berlin and Vienna, because their markets had previously been the most buoyant, suffered most. But as a severe seldom works twice it may be concluded that there is nothing more to be feared from that cause. There is little or no change to record in commercial conditions abroad. Wherever the returns are made up there is evidence of some increase in manufactures, but the supply of raw materials continues to be so much in excess of demand that prices of none of the great staples have a show to advance. This is borne out by the September trade reports of Great Britain for instance, which show imports to have fallen off 3.6 per cent in value and little or none in quantity. Exports declined 4.2 per cent. Returns for September from the French indirect taxes are the most unsatisfactory of the year, being nearly $2,000,000 less than the estimate and $1,800,000 less than in the same month last year. The City of Paris proposes within the next three months to enter the market for a loan of $40,000,000. The national government is soon to be again a large buyer of silver; this time for the manufacture of medals for decoration for civic and military services in the colonies. It is estimated that from seven to eight tons of silver will be required; its purchase will be extended over three years. Roumania is undergoing a mild commercial crisis which is being felt in Berlin, where also stock exchange business has a further setback in the proposal to reform the methods of dealing in the next Parliamentary session. This is driving to London, Paris and Amsterdam the business that remained after the enactment of the bourse tax. German trade returns for August show a falling off of 1.9 per cent of imports and 8.2 per cent of exports. Vienna interests have purchased a large estate in Galicia, on which boring for oil is to be carried out on an extensive scale. About 30,000,000 of one-florin notes have been withdrawn and replaced by silver. Apparently the first objections to the use of silver instead of paper are fading out of the public mind. The withdrawal of the fifty-florin notes is the next move in the currency reform of the dual Empire. The Indian jute crop promises to be slightly above the average with the quantity available for export about 25 per cent greater than last year. Statistics relating to the trade of Japan show that the United States, while its largest individual customer, has only a small portion of its patronage; we take about 32 per cent of her exports and send only 14 per cent of her imports. The United States Consul General at Kanagawa has recently pointed out that the largest part of the American cotton used in Japan is bought in London and Liverpool, and naturally asks why this trade should not be done directly, and the profits, freights and insurance go to Americans!

PRESIDENT ROBERTS joins in the cry for the massacre of the innocent junior railroad securities and thereby affords an illustration of the nonsense that may come from unexpected quarters. That the financial columns of the daily press should contain cawing demands for cutting and slashing among the junior securities of bankrupt properties is not surprising, because when one sets up a cry the others are sure to follow. It is surprising, however, that some will caw as loudly as they do notwithstanding their connection with people who are responsible for the condition which so many junior securities are in. There are many others who join in the talk about wiping out securities who might with equal taste be quite silent. President Roberts no doubt spoke as a man who cannot look with indifference on the present condition of the railroad business, but it is impossible that he could have thought out the logical results of cancelling in reorganization stocks and bonds that even at the present quotations represent hundreds of millions of dollars, or he would never have suggested that this be done. Even admitting that it would be a very happy state of things if every representative of railroad property and business was on an investment basis, that condition would only last until the promoter could get out some new prospectuses. But there is a much more serious consideration than that. The securities which are the subject of so much abuse are held all over the country. They have some value which the owner can realize by going into the market and selling his holdings. Now, if the people who hold resources counting up into the hundreds of millions of dollars wake up one day to find them carried away, would they be the only sufferers? In the past eighteen months there has been seen the results of sudden shrinkages in values, but if in the moderate period in which reorganizations might be effected so much more representative value should utterly perish we should see a much larger contraction of business than has yet been seen as a result of the lessening of the resources for carrying it on. Even people like Mr. Roberts who, in the comfort of affluence, talk so glibly of wiping out, would find their fortunes imperilled, and the dividends and interest that now seem to them so sure of payment in danger. It is a pity that the experiment of cutting out from railroad securities everything not on a paying basis could not be tried for the sole benefit of Mr. Roberts and the Pennsylvania railroad, and as an object-lesson to others who talk as foolishly. Holders of junior securities who may have been disturbed by this talk may take comfort from the fact that the policy of the courts of the country inclines towards giving them opportunities to obtain recognition in reorganizations, and that if they will combine for mutual protection all the disasters of the past few years will not fall upon them, nor they be deprived of the chances that the future may have in store for them.

THE indictment of the Atchison officials for violations of the Inter-state Commerce law, in giving rebates to shippers, by the Federal Grand Jury should be good news to everyone who believes in upholding the law. If the cooking of accounts to deceive security holders could also be made an offense and actually punishable under that law, the public might probably be benefited. That is, however, not by any means sure, because, as examples may be found every day, it is one thing to have a law and another to enforce it. A conviction in the cases of the officers of the Atchison Company is a thing only to be hoped for; it cannot be predicted [with any certainty—with such certainty, for instance, as could the conviction of a starving man charged with stealing a loaf. It is already urged that the practice of making rebates is common to the railroads, in order to get business, and that, the whole community being bad, the individual should not be blamed for doing what everybody around him does. Then, again, it is claimed that the Inter-state Commerce law is bad, because it prevents the railroads from pooling, and so keeping rates on a paying basis. As a matter of fact, while the Inter-state Commerce law does endeavor—in effectually, it may be remarked—to protect the smaller shipper from discrimination made in favor of the great one and small places from favors given to large ones by the railroad companies, it was also intended to lift the railroads out of the wretched condition into which they had fallen, prior to its passage, by reason of the entire absence of honor among them. In the very year, and those immediately prior to it, in which the Inter-state Commerce law was passed many pools were made and fell to pieces because of the lying and trickery that characterized the conduct of the several members toward each other. It was this fact as much as the depressed condition of business that followed the panics of 1883 and 1884 that reduced dividends, caused receiverships and brought down the prices of railroad securities on the stock markets. One of these violated agreements is known as the gentlemen's agreement, but the adjective is now only used in referring to it in bitter sarcasm, because its duration was no greater than that of the hoodlums' agreements, if such a term may be applied to distinguish the others from it. Railroad managers, as recent events have proved, are not any better than they were then, and the permission to pool would not help them. In their present moralless condition, what is wanted is that they shall be taught to obey the law, and it is, as already said, to be hoped that the lesson will be conveyed through the conviction and punishment of Mr. Reinhardt and his associates.

WE publish elsewhere in this issue an address delivered this week by Mr. Cornelius Doremus before the West Side Association upon the question of Consolidation. Long ago, when the project of Greater New York began to take the form it now possesses THE RECORD AND GUIDE drew the attention of its readers to the fact that whatever might be the advantages of an alliance with the City of Churches, the connection must necessarily entail considerable financial expense upon the taxpayers of New York City. Consolidation has undeniably a great deal to recommend it to the citizens of the metropolis. It appeals very strongly to civic pride, and to the desire in the human breast for big things. It would be foolish to say that there are no practical advantages to be derived from mere size. The world is impressed by bigness, and in the affairs of a municipality there is room for the play of those very considerations which induce a merchant to rent an imposing building on Broadway. New York would undoubtedly lose a great deal in prestige the world over—and in actual dollars and cents, too—should Chicago or any other city on the continent count a larger population than it. All the great cities of the world have grown by absorbing small and—let it be remembered—less wealthy satellites. In none of these annexations has the lesser interests dominated the greater ones. New York and Brooklyn, however, do not stand in exactly the same relationship to one another as, for instance, the wilds of Cook County did to the city of Chicago, or the city of London to the small scattered suburbs around it. In many particulars, as Mr. Doremus points out, Brooklyn is undeveloped, and unfortunately joined to this condition is the fact that the city is already taxed to the constitutional limit. Annexation will certainly stir the citizens of Brooklyn with a desire for much needed improvements and betterments, and we do not see how, under present conditions, any of these can be obtained, save at the expense of the New York taxpayer. Real estate people particularly should have given this matter consideration long ago. We called their attention to it. Consolidation will mean extra charges upon taxpayers. The question they should have weighed is: Will what they obtain from consolidation be worth what they will have to pay for it?

WHY should so much stress be laid upon the extraneous attributes of certain people who are the avowed champions of the Thug party in this State? It is feared that such "gentlemen" as Mr. So-and-So, "whose education and courtesy ought to teach him better," will be an example which will carry the young and wavering among the goats, when they would otherwise eventually glide into the family fold of the milk-white lambs. The young people in question must be very guileless, indeed, if they cannot see that the education, courtesy, gentility or position of the people in question have nothing whatever to do with their character, though they may appear inappropriate to the circles in which they mingle. They are simply birds with a little variety in their plumage, but they nevertheless belong to the same flock. It is not necessary that a man shall wear his hat tilted over his left eye-brow or bear a striking cognomen or indulge in the verbal raciness which the Evening Post so loves to reproduce in derision of the user, to take the worst side of a question. Indeed, many people of the most correct manners have gone into the States' prisons, and some of much learning and education have been hanged. It was the acts of these latter people that stamped their character in the eye of the community and brought about their appropriate disposal for the good of society. So when we hear wishes from 5th avenue or other unexpected quarters, for the success of candidates who represent everything that is worst in public life, they only serve to show the ramifications of the objectionable party. But to talk about it being surprising that men of courtesy and education should express the principles that belong to that party is all nonsense. A man cannot be better than the principles he advocates, however choice the language in which he makes the fact known, or the courtesy with which he insists on them. It is no more regrettable to see these in a bad cause than it is to see the Paddys and Larrys and Mikes who make up the rank and file. Nor is one any better than the other because he is ordinarily addressed with the prefix of Mr., while the other is known only by some picturesque and descriptive title.

"Reform."

PEOPLE are remarkably unanimous in ascribing an amount of moral uneasiness to the present political situation. With some this restlessness goes by the name of "reform," with others it is hypocrisy, and again, with others it is pharaseeism and one of the many odious effects of wearing silk hose. An abnormal condition, however, is conceded, and probably a majority of people are of the opinion that conscience has had no little to do with bringing about this unusual state. Something over and above partisanship has been intruded into the campaign, and this for the simon-pure politician is always a perplexing and annoying circumstance. It confuses an otherwise, for him, simple situation, and robs hurrah and demagoguery and other devices of pure electioneering of no little of their common effectiveness. Senator Hill, the other day, said the people were running the present campaign, and this is but the Senator's way of saluting the unusual and acknowledging the presence of an incalculable factor in the field. Political arithmetic is not sufficient to work out the sum this year.

The public conscience of this city especially is supposed to be quickened. The newspapers, at least, assume that we are at the eve of a political reformation of exceptional force and extent. On this point there is little dissent. Practically the entire press confidently announce the approaching defeat of Tammany. Even readers who do not believe this to be the case, await the coming election with an amount of uncertainty that is sufficient to render the scanning of the returns of next Tuesday week a more than ordinarily anxious business. Undoubtedly there is enough in the situation plainly visible to justify editorial anticipations. If Tammany be not defeated there is something very wrong in appearances. Pre-election speculations, however, are notoriously deceptive, and for a few days after the closing of the polls the chief activity in newspaper offices arises from the need of explaining why the expected didn't happen.

In this particular instance, however, should the Press be proved to have been a true prophet, it is easy to foresee the nature of the jubilation that will follow. The city, apparently, will be given over to the joys of righteousness. The triumph of reform will be vociferously hailed, and the danger is that people deceived by their own enthusiasm over superficial results will cease a labor barely begun. The need for a rigorous examination of our position is very urgent. Success at the polls on November 6th may be positively disastrous to a permanent reformation of our city government if that success be misunderstood, or overvalued, or regarded as containing forces of righteousness really not operative in producing the victory. In the first place it must not be forgotten that the force arrayed against Tammany to-day is not entirely a moral force. Victory consequently cannot be entirely a moral victory. The combination fighting the Wigwam is composed of political as well as moral elements, and we do not think that any well-informed person will deny that of the two the political is much the greater. In joining forces, the Anti-Tammany Democrats and the Republicans have no doubt mixed some morality with their "politics," but nobody will say it is all pure morality.

In the second place, there is in certain quarters at least a ridiculous notion as to what Tammany is. This being the case the nature of any victory gained may be misunderstood. Tammany is sometimes spoken of as though it meant no more than the few individuals honored in the Evening Post's racy biographies. But it is immensely more than that. Tammany is the incorporation into one body of a large proportion of the voters of this city. Its ideals and its methods are not distasteful to them, as these people will indicate by their votes. A "revolution" in November, if it arrives, will result in the political overthrow of certain conspicuous individuals and changes more or less significant in the system of government controlled by them, but there will still exist the mass of people who put these individuals into power and maintained them there year after year. This multitude will remain, and the "average" of their morality and their intelligence will not be heightened by "reform." Besides, it is customary to speak of Tammany as composed entirely of the riff-raff of the city. Of course, this is not the case. Tens of thousands of voters, accounted thoroughly respectable in the professions and in the commercial ranks support Tammany, and will continue to do so. But, even were the "riff-raff" contention precisely correct, victory on Tuesday week will not "reform" a numerically very large element of the population of the city, which is as much a part of the population of the city, and as certain one way or another to get itself "represented" in the city's government as the relatively few thoroughly moral, well-bred, well-educated individuals who reluctantly go into politics once in a while. It is better to face the fact at once squarely, the greater part of the voters of this city, Republicans and Democrats, are not burdened with very high ideals of what city government should be either in efficiency or in morality, and so long as that is the case "reform" at the polls such as may be brought about at the coming election cannot mean reformation.

An Argument against Consolidation.

A special meeting of the West End Association was held at its rooms, 167 West 89th street, New York City, on the evening of Monday, October 22, 1894, to consider the scheme of the Greater New York, at which the following paper by Mr. Cornelius Doremus was read:

By the last Legislature an Act was passed intended to elicit at the election to be held on November 6th next an expression of opinion by the inhabitants of the Counties of New York, Kings, Queens and Richmond on the question of annexing to the present City of New York the territory contained within the three counties last named.

While the opinion thus expressed by the inhabitants of the proposed "Greater New York" will accomplish nothing, practically, it will surely lead, if the majority of votes be in the affirmative, to an Act of consolidation by a subsequent Legislature, which Act will most likely not be submitted to the people for ratification or rejection.

With Chicago pressing New York so closely in the number of her population it is natural, perhaps, to desire that our boundaries be extended to take in as much territory as Chicago to-day does and thereby show a population double that of the latter city.

It is, however, very necessary that voters inform themselves thoroughly as to what is involved by the proposed annexation.

The question of taking Brooklyn into our municipal limits is the main factor and a matter of most serious import.

The debt of New York City is about $100,000,000 on an assessed valuation of $2,000,000,000, or 5 per cent.

The debt of Brooklyn is about $50,000,000 on an assessed valuation of $500,000,000, or 10 per cent.

This comparison, however, does not by any means show the relative situation financially of the two cities, because, while New York real estate is not assessed for purposes of taxation at more than one-half its value, in Brooklyn it is assessed for fully three-fourths, and I frequently find instances where the assessment for purposes of taxation is greater than the value of the property.

Take the following instances of Brooklyn assessments for purposes of taxation:

1. Value of property.....	$11,000	Assessed at.....	$11,000
2. " " " " " " " " " "	7,000	" " " " " " " " " "	5,700
3. " " " " " " " " " "	9,000	" " " " " " " " " "	6,500
4. " " " " " " " " " "	9,000	" " " " " " " " " "	6,500
5. " " " " " " " " " "	27,500	" " " " " " " " " "	25,000
6. " " " " " " " " " "	11,100	" " " " " " " " " "	8,400
7. " " " " " " " " " "	9,000	" " " " " " " " " "	7,000
8. " " " " " " " " " "	8,000	" " " " " " " " " "	5,800
9. " " " " " " " " " "	13,000	" " " " " " " " " "	12,300
10. " " " " " " " " " "	7,000	" " " " " " " " " "	7,500
Showing total value of these ten properties to be.....	$114,000	While they are assessed for purposes of taxation by the City of Brooklyn at.....	$95,700

On these excessive valuations for purposes of taxation, the rate in Brooklyn is almost three per cent per annum, while in New York, on a much lower assessment, it is considerably under two per cent.

No public improvements, such as our new bridges, Viaduct, Speedway, thousands of acres of parks, can be made in Brooklyn, because she is in debt to-day up to the constitutional limit, and every dollar extorted from taxpayers on the scale shown above, is either used in payment of interest on the existing debt or absorbed by the ring by which she is governed.

A couple of years ago, after years of effort in that direction, the Brooklyn Congressmen got an act passed selling to the city part of the Navy Yard land for market purposes at a price of $1,000,000. The transaction could not be carried out because the city had no money to pay for the land, and the constitution of the State properly debarred her from incurring further indebtedness, so that Mayor Boody made an arrangement with the then Secretary of the Treasury to give a year or more of time for the payment.

Whether by still further increasing their already enormous tax valuations it was made possible to issue bonds and pay for this land from the proceeds of them, or whether the land be not paid for yet to-day, I do not know.

It is no wonder that in Brooklyn a most active consolidation league has been formed, with branches in every ward, to further this scheme to foist a city practically bankrupt into partnership on equal terms with the prosperous metropolis.

It is a matter of easy calculation to ascertain to what an enormous extent the annual taxes on New York City realty will be increased, as things stand to-day, if this scheme of consolidation be consummated.

And when we consider that Brooklyn, in everything that pertains to the making of a city, has been starved for generations; that half of her streets to-day are paved with cobble-stones and boulders, many of them the size of a flour barrel; that her water supply is entirely inadequate to her population; that Prospect Park is the only park worth mentioning within her borders, and that in almost every respect she is lacking in everything which goes to make a large city attractive, we can faintly imagine what a scramble there would be on the part of her population immediately after her annexation to New York, to have all these things supplied to her at the expense of the New York City of to-day.

It behoves every one who has the interest and further progress of New York City at heart, not only to vote against consolidation, but to see that all whom he can influence, and who may not be aware of the evil effects of consolidation, do the same.

At the conclusion of the reading, the paper was ordered printed by the association for circulation, and a resolution passed disapproving of the scheme of Greater New York, there being only one dissenting vote on the resolution.

Municipal Rapid Transit.

The Rapid Transit Railroad Commission has issued its promised statement explanatory of the Rapid Transit Act and their powers thereunder. Voters who are in doubt on any point involved in this question or of the intentions of the Commission toward any part of the city should obtain a copy of this statement and give it attentive perusal. In view of the fact that the citizens of New York must decide yea or nay, whether on the municipality shall devolve the duty of providing rapid transit for the city, in about ten days, it is important that they should at once take measures to remove any doubts that may afflict their minds. They will doubtless bear in mind, and for that reason alone the only reasonable conclusion is that an affirmative vote is assured, that nay means no rapid transit at all in any comprehensive sense and yea assures it in the near future, though leaving the whole ground of route and system of travel to be hereafter decided by the Commission and the local authorities. There never was in the history of the city a more propitious moment for deciding upon a great improvement with perfect confidence in its being carried out honestly and efficiently. Events have so ordered it that this question comes up for the direct approval of the voters at the very time that there is every prospect of the power of the party which has so long dominated the city and whose every act is regarded with suspicion being most effectively broken.

The points raised and met by the statement of the Rapid Transit Commission have already been thoroughly explained and discussed in these columns and need now only be briefly alluded to to refresh the minds of the readers of THE RECORD AND GUIDE. The law is based on the theory which no disinterested person will attempt to refute, that a comprehensive system of rapid transit is absolutely necessary to the proper development and growth of the city, and that such a system cannot be provided in the ordinary way by private capital. It provides for the submission of the question of municipal rapid transit to the decision of the voter. That being rendered in the affirmative, the Commission is to select routes and submit the same for the approval of the city authorities and the property owners. The road is to be built by contract awarded by a vote of six out of eight members of the Commission. The contractor is to operate the road for not less than thirty-five and not more than fifty years, at a yearly rental equal to the interest on the bonds, limited to fifty millions of dollars, issued to pay for the work, and an additional sum of 1 per cent on the entire cost of the road, to be used as a sinking fund to redeem the bonds. The contractor must deposit one million of dollars and give suitable bonds in various contingencies to protect the city against loss. The Commission is amply provided with power to secure the comfort and safety of passengers and to limit the fares charged.

The opponents of municipal rapid transit continue to insist upon two points. One is that a work that it would not pay private capital to undertake can only be done by the city at a loss. Now, as a private undertaking, bonds could not be issued at less than five per cent, and then at a discount for negotiation, etc., which would bring the interest upon the actual cash put into the work up to seven or eight per cent, and perhaps more. This, too, would be backed by stock issued for profits to contractors and construction companies, which would always be an obstacle to cheap fares. The city can borrow money at probably three per cent, without discounts, so that the net proceeds of the bonds would go into the work, and there would be no watering of capital and no excessive interest to pay. It will be seen then that the city can do the work with an economy that would not be possible in the case of private capital. The other point is that the city's margin of borrowing power is now fifty-seven millions of dollars, and that it cannot dedicate fifty millions of dollars to the building of a rapid transit railroad without prejudice to other needed improvements. The answer to this is obvious. It would not be required to borrow the fifty millions of dollars at once, but could and naturally would extend it, over the period of years that would be required to build the railroad. Meantime the normal improvement in the value of property, as well as that resulting from the building of the system of rapid transit facilities itself, would be sufficient to increase the municipal borrowing limits probably far beyond any possible necessities for other works.

Near Riverside Park and Drive.

SEVEN ATTRACTIVE HOUSES ON WEST SEVENTY-FIRST STREET,
NOS. 328 TO 340.

We publish herewith an illustration of a row of seven new New York houses situated on the south side of 71st street—a restricted block near Riverside Drive—which has recently been handsomely asphalted. The houses speak for themselves. They are of the style which for more than a century has been the most popular in this city and

and there are also the 9th and 10th avenue surface lines. These are soon to be supplemented by extensions of the cable system, and every project for improved rapid transit which has received the favorable consideration of the public, makes the Boulevard the route for a main line. So that, whatever comes in the future the value of this property cannot help but be greatly enhanced.

As to the houses themselves, it may be said that they have been designed and built in the best style of the art structural. The fronts are of selected brown, white and red freestone, in two varieties of design. Four of the houses have oriel bay fronts through the two upper stories and three have only the second stories extended in bays. All have handsome portico stoops and are appropriately ornamented with rich sculpture. Cemented walks and areas and well guarded basement windows and doors give them ample protection and express the substantial qualities that may be found all through the houses.

LINDSAY & JOHNSEN, Owners and Builders.

which has come to be known, wherever New York is known, as the New York style of town house. As to their size, three stories and basement and cellar, it is the size for which there has always been the greatest demand on the new West Side as well as in the older parts of the city. Containing eleven rooms besides the halls, butler's pantries, laundry, store-rooms, baths, closets and cellar, they afford all the room required by the average family and are more economical to furnish and maintain than larger houses would be—and, of course, they are purchasable at a relatively lower price. They were built and are owned by Messrs. Lindsay and Johnsen.

When viewing such a group of houses and seeing them in picture one cannot help regretting the limitations of pictorial art—it conveys no impression of the quiet beauty and dignity of their setting, in the midst of this bustling metropolis. On the edge of the high bluff which here overlooks the Hudson River they command an ever changing panorama, and of the majestic palisades that wall it in on the west. The street ends at the edge of the cliff overlooking the river, and consequently there is no thoroughfare for street traffic, and the block from West End avenue to the edge of the cliff on which these houses are located therefore promises to retain for all time the quiet, orderly aspect of a private park or place. A block away to the north begins Riverside Drive and Riverside Park, skirting the Hudson to 125th street and preserving the water front forever from the intrusion of commerce and trade.

The property is accessible by way of the surface cars on the Boulevard a block to the east, connecting with the Broadway cable sys-

Massive oak doors guard the main entrance and introduce the visitor to a spacious vestibule which is paved with mosaic and wainscoted and paneled in quartered oak. Through heavy plate glazed doors entrance is effected to the main hall, which is handsomely finished in quartered oak, cabinet style, paneled wainscot, console mirror and balcony stairs. The latter partly screened behind a handsome fretwork arch. The parlors are entered through massive sliding doors, opposite which there are in all the houses highly artistic wood mantles with tiled facings and hearths. A fret-work arch, from which a portiere can be hung, marks the division of the parlor from the music-room, and back of this is the dining-room, done in hospitable oak, and extending across the full width of the house. It has parquette flooring, a mosaic oak mantle and fireplace, cabinet oak wainscoting, a large panel of French plate mirror and an adjoining butler's pantry in the extension, which is also done in oak.

On the second floor there are two spacious sleeping chambers, with boudoir dressing saloons between and a sumptuous bath in the rear extension. The front room in some of the houses is done in maple and the rear in hazel; in others other woods are used, among them being cherry, birch, sycamore and oak. All are finished in the natural grain in the best manner. The bath-rooms have all the conveniences and improvements that have made the West Side houses so popular and so much superior as dwelling places for human beings to those of former years. Marble tiled and waterproof floors, encaustic tile wainscoting, porcelain lined tub, marble lavatory, cistern closets, all exposed plumbing—these are the inevitable items, and in addition to these the Lindsay and Johnsen houses have a mantle and fireplace with gas log in each bath-room.

The top floor has four bedrooms, the larger front room having a lavatory closet, and through an independent hall an entrance to a bath-room that is the counterpart of that on the floor below. All this floor is finished handsomely in white ash.

In the basement are the billiard-room, which may also be used as a breakfast-room,—a large store-room, the kitchen and pantry, and in the extension the laundry. The tubs and sink are of porcelain, the walls are finished with Keene's cement, the plumbing is of the exposed, sanitary pattern and received special treatment at the hands of Mr. Josiah S. Lindsay, of No. 352 4th avenue, who is well and favorably known as an able and expert plumber, and there is an abundance of closet room. The houses are heated by a furnace in the cellar and are as "dry as a bone." Home-seekers who are alive to their own interests will not fail to give these houses a critical inspection.—(Communicated.)

The Overzealous for Sensations.

The overzeal of the New York Tribune reporter, who is "working up" what that journal calls the Brooklyn Arch steal, caused him to accuse Mr. Charles L. Eidlitz of obtaining a contract for the electric lighting of the arch without competition, and by underhand means, and receiving for the job $3,000, while a fair price would have been $1,000. To this story the Tribune devoted a column of its space. Next day the Tribune retracted everything it had said derogatory to the character of Mr. Eidlitz, or his work, and published a letter from him in which he stated fairly and openly how he came to have the contract, and why his bid was a proper and fair one. This retraction, coming apparently only as a result of Mr. Eidlitz's letter, does not relieve the paper of the stigma of publishing statements first and verifying them after, or retracting them to avoid or mitigate consequences, as the case might be. This is the policy of the cheapest among journalistic sensation-gatherers and ought not to be that of the Tribune. It would have been the easiest thing in the world for the Tribune to have seen Mr. Eidlitz before making the original publication, and have saved itself from giving expressions to serious and unfounded reflections upon that gentleman's character.

Real Estate Market.

The brokers have had another fairly good week, the sales reported involving an aggregate investment about as large as those of either of the preceding two weeks. Down-town business property does not figure as largely in the transactions as it recently has, but the buying movement has given more general satisfaction, for the reason that it has extended to other sections of the city, in some of which owners of recently improved properties had almost concluded that their selling season was ended. West Side dwellings have again been sought and sold in goodly numbers. Flat property along the avenues, west of Central Park, has been in specially excellent demand, and as it has been offered and disposed of at prices below those ruling last year, the buyers, it must be said, have acted wisely in closing contracts. Vacant lots have not lacked attention, and an unusually large number of such parcels, including a number on which old buildings are standing, will change hands as a result of sales agreed upon during the week. Many of them have been bought for improvement, either immediate or to be begun in the spring.

The following are the comparative tables for New York Conveyances, Mortgages and Projected Buildings for the corresponding weeks of 1893 and 1894.

Many weeks have passed since the total amount realized for city real estate in the auction rooms has approached a million dollars. The aggregate sum obtained this week falls little short of that sum. By far the greater portion of it represents purchases of property disposed of under legal decrees, but nevertheless the last five days must be credited as the busiest week of the season thus far. Prices ruled as low as formerly and shrewd buyers were able to pick up an occasional bargain by bidding on parcels of a specially desirable character, the offering of which met with no appreciative response from the general public. On Tuesday alone the property sold at No. 111 Broadway brought $572,062, of which $102,725 was realized at partition sales, $60,900 at sales by order of executors and the balance for parcels foreclosed upon.

The property offered on Tuesday at the Real Estate Exchange by Richard V. Harnett & Co. for the estate of Henry S. Seguire was withdrawn, owing to unsatisfactory bidding. At the Broadway Salesroom on Tuesday William Kennelly adjourned sine die a sale of Nos. 1064 and 1066 Madison avenue, and until November 7th the sale of a right, title and interest in property on Gerard and Walton avenues, south of Ella street. On Wednesday, No. 311 East 123d street and No. 283 Monroe street, with an adjoining leasehold, were withdrawn from sale and a foreclosure sale of No. 352 West 16th street was adjourned until November 21st. On Thursday Fairchild & Yorán announced the adjournment sine die of three lots on Bainbridge avenue, 100 feet south of Suburban street. Richard V. Harnett & Co. on Friday adjourned the foreclosure sale of Nos. 1311 and 1313 Amsterdam avenue until November 5th.

TO SELL ITS PROPERTY.

Judge Lacombe, in the United States Circuit Court, on Friday of last week, made an order of sale of the property of the Archer & Panoast Manufacturing Company for Nov. 15 at the Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway. The upset price was fixed at $600,000, of which $50,000 must be in cash. Creditors representing 80 per cent of the company's indebtedness have assented to the plan of reorganization laid out by a committee consisting of S. Van Rensselaer Cruger, John C. Granger and William S. Fearing.

Two of the three members of the committee originally appointed by the Board of Directors of the Real Estate Exchange to select candidates to be voted for at the annual election of directors having declined to act, Franklin B. Lord and Augustus H. Carpenter have been appointed in their stead. J. Edgar Leaycraft is the other member of the committee. It is stated that the names will not be selected until after the State and city elections are held.

F. Frederic Georger, of the firm of Brooke & Georger, has been proposed as a member and stockholder of the Real Estate Exchange by Paul F. Gonon.

The Cass Realty Corporation, whose offices are at No. 503 5th avenue, call attention to a site on the corner of 86th street and Lexington avenue, suitable for any business requiring large premises, on which they will build to suit tenant and lease for a term of years. Diagram and other particulars will be found in our advertising pages, and are recommended to the attention of business men looking to establish themselves in a good locality. Two car lines pass the property.

Charles E. Runk calls the attention of brokers and others interested to the fact that he can be found at his down-town office, at No. 47 Broad street, New York.

IN FAVOR OF HONEST GOVERNMENT.

The Real Estate Exchange Honest Government Club, which now has nearly 2,000 members, will hold an Anti-Taunmany Rally Meeting next Monday afternoon, at 3.30 o'clock, in the Exchange Salesroom, No. 59 Liberty street. Such prominent speakers as Hon. Seth Low, Gen. Wager Swayne, Mr. Wheeler H. Peckham, Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, Hon. Chas. S. Fairchild, Mr. James C. Carter, Gen. James M. Varnum and others will address the meeting, which promises to be a rousing one.

As above stated, the Real Estate Exchange Honest Government Club has nearly 2,000 members, and it is conceded to be the strongest of the Good Government clubs. Its roll of members bears the names of such men as Mr. S. Van Rensselaer Cruger; Clarence H. Kelsey, President of the Title Guarantee and Trust Co.; Henry C. Swords, President of the Real Estate Trust Co.; John A. McCall, of the New York Life Insurance Co.; Geo. R. Read; Richard V. Harnett; H. H. Cammann; Cyrus Field Judson; Frank Yorán; Wm. H. Whitling, of Ruland & Whiting; John C. R. Eckerson, of Thomas & Eckerson; Hon. Charles A. Loxow, and hundreds of the most prominent real estate owners, operators, agents and brokers. The officers of the club are Cornelius W. Luyster, President; Douglas Robinson, Jr., Vice-President; Geo. De Forest Barton, Secretary; and S. Elwood May, Chairman of the Executive Committee; and it is to the earnest efforts and constant work of these gentlemen that the club has grown so in membership and influence.

Hon. Theodore Roosevelt and Hon. Levi P. Morton have sent letters heartily indorsing the work undertaken by the club, and all persons interested in honest government are cordially invited to attend the meeting on Monday afternoon.

THE "HUCKLEBERRY" SYSTEM.

Judge Ingraham has decided that the act under which the "Huckleberry" trolley system is operated is unconstitutional in that it conflicts with the constitutional provision that no private or local bill shall contain more than one subject, and that shall be expressed in its title.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

F. Southack & Co. are completing a transaction that promises, if rumor is correct, to be one of the most important of the year. The property secured comprises the lots with stables and dwellings on the north side of 18th street and south side of 19th street, just east of 6th avenue. A contract is reported signed with J. H. Lane for the purchase of Nos. 49 to 53 West 18th street at about $160,000, and another for No. 47 West, owned by Henry A. Hurlburt, at a still higher rate it is said. Nos. 44 and 46 West 19th street have also been purchased, the former from W. A. Street at $55,000, and the latter from W. H. Scott at $70,000. The report goes farther and says that 200 feet frontage has been secured on 18th street and nearly as much on 19th street. Who are the buyers? is a question that has been frequently asked in the last day or two. The most reliable information at hand indicates that an out-of-town publishing house modeled somewhat after the Methodist Book Concern is making the investment with the intention of erecting a large building and establishing its headquarters here. Whoever the principal or principals may be they appear to have determined to carry out their plans, cost what they may.

Gutwillig Bros. and Jacob Hirsh have bought of Freedman Bros., Nos. 134 and 136 Spring street, 50x50, and Nos. 84-88 Wooster street, 75x100, with old buildings, for $156,750. The two plots form an L and, it is understood, have been resold to a purchaser who will improve the property at an early date by the erection of a seven or ten-story semi-fire-proof business structure. The first sale was negotiated through M. & L. Hess.

Heilner & Wolf have sold to William W. Gallagher the lot, 28x98.9, with old buildings, Nos. 303 and 305 East 31st street, 72 feet east of 2d avenue. The buyer will erect a five-story double tenement on the lot.

E. H. Ludlow & Co. have sold for William Conyers Herring the four-story store and office building on lot about 20.3x43, No. 90 John street, southwest corner of Gold street, for about $52,000, and to the same buyer for Edward F. Keating, No. 83 John street, a four-story store and loft building, on lot 27x103x28.1x100.8 for about $70,000. The same firm has sold for Katharine V. Butler the four-story stone front house on lot 23x92, No. 128 East 18th street, for $21,000, to John S. Huyler, president of the "Huyler's Candy" corporation, whose factory occupies the adjoining lots fronting on Irving place. The house will ultimately form part of the factory or its site utilized for an extension of the building.

Wm. H. Hoyt & Co., conjointly with Joseph Emrich and J. Warner, have sold for John Stewart the three lots, 25x98.9 each, with old four-story brick buildings, Nos. 316, 318 and 320 East 34th street, for $54,000.

John M. Reid has sold the three and four-story houses, Nos. 225 and 227 East 35th street, on plot 40x98.9.

We were misled last week into quoting $90,000 as the price agreed upon for No. 31 Liberty street, in the sale made by Jefferson M. Levy to Joseph Fahys. That sum is far above the actual consideration, but exactly what the latter is will probably not be known until the delivery of the deed, which is to take place on November 1st. Mr. Levy will give no information and none can be obtained at Mr. Fahys' establishment. It might prove a shrewd guess to say that the figure will not be much above $70,000.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

Fitzsimons & Smith have sold for John Welcker the five-story brick double flat, 26x90x104, No. 370 Columbus avenue, west side, between 77th and 78th streets, to Henry McAleenan for $45,000.

Charles Gabren has sold a plot, 100x100.8, on the south side of 90th street, 300 feet east of Amsterdam avenue, for about $48,000.

Ware & Gibbs have sold for Mrs. Gunning the five-story flats with stores, on lots 25x100 each, Nos. 227 and 229 Columbus avenue, between 70th and 71st streets, for about $50,000 each, and to Frank Tilford the four-story 21-foot dwelling, No. 62 Riverside Drive. The latter has been resold through another firm.

Henry F. Cook has bought of Henry Oppenheimer two lots, 25x102.2 each, on the south side of 72d street, 175 feet west of West End avenue, for about $70,000. The lots adjoin a plot on the east, on which Mr. Cook has completed foundations for three fine residences, and they will also be improved at once by the erection of similar dwellings. The new houses will have a frontage of 25 feet each.

E. B. H. Myers has sold for T. M. P. Mills Nos. 306 and 308 West 104th street, two three-and-a-half-story dwellings.

Edward Kilpatrick has sold to Mrs. Minnie Esterbrook the three-story dwelling on lot 18x100, No. 678 West End avenue, one door south of 98th street.

E. H. Ludlow & Co. have sold for Henry Harbeck the four-story stone front dwelling, lot 24x75, on the southeast corner of Lexington avenue and 72d street.

William J. Merritt has sold one of his group of new unfinished dwellings on the southeast corner of West End avenue and 78th street for about $26,000. It is reported to be the four-story brick and stone house, 16x55x87 on the avenue, 67.2 north of 78th street, and adjoins the 19-foot house sold to Rev. H. E. Cobb before work upon the buildings was begun.

Frank Tilford has sold, through Ware & Gibbs, the five-story apartment house with seven stores on the southeast corner of 88th street and Columbus avenue, 45x100.8, on terms which have not transpired.

Wm. H. Hoyt & Co., conjointly with Joseph Emrich and J. Warner have sold for Simon Arendt Nos. 104 to 114 Bradhurst avenue, east side, about 25 feet north of 147th street, six five-story brick flats on lots 25 by about 75 each, for $108,000. The buyer is said to be John Stewart, who gives in exchange Nos. 316 to 320 East 34th street, the sale of which by the same brokers is noted above.

F. Van Axte & Co. have sold for J. Mahler to H. Mosemann the five-story stone front flat, 25x81x85, on the southeast corner of Lenox avenue and 131st street, for $40,000.

Robert Wallaco has sold Nos. 2342 to 2346 Amsterdam avenue, three five-story brick flats, on the northeast corner of 130th street, lots 25x100 each, to Charles Weisbecker, for about $100,000, the latter giving in exchange a plot, 150x99.11, on the south side of 160th street, between the Boulevard and Amsterdam avenue, valued at $36,000.

W. H. & T. M. Hall have sold No. 218 West 79th street, one of a row of new three-and-a-half-story houses that are nearing completion.

M. E. Curry has sold for the executors of the McCabe estate a lot, 25x102.2, on the north side of 85th street, 200 feet west of West End avenue, for $12,000, to Bloch Bros., who will erect a fine stable thereon. The same broker has sold for Mrs. J. R. dd to Mrs. M. Smith the property, 30x25, on the north side of 67th street, 40 feet east of Amsterdam avenue, for $7,000.

John W. Stevens has sold for Mrs. Aspinwall the four-story dwelling, on lot 20x100.11, No. 46 West 97th street, to M. J. Moses for about $28,000, and for the Mercantile Building Co. the three-story 16-foot dwelling, No. 35 West 95th street, to a Mr. Wilhelm, for about $20,000.

Builder Charles G. Judson has sold to Mrs. C. Trne the four-story 25-foot dwelling, No. 274 West 94th street.

Frank L. Fisher has sold for William H. Jackson & Co. the six four-story stone front dwellings, 20x60x100.8 each, Nos. 47 to 57 West 88th street, to William Buhler. The houses have box stoops, bay windows and three-story extensions.

A Favored Spot.

A BLOCK ON WEST 75TH STREET THAT ANSWERS ALL REQUIREMENTS FOR RESIDENCES OF THE BEST CLASS.

The West Side is the result of a movement of the better class of the city into new residential quarters. This exodus was led by merchants, manufacturers, bankers, high officials of great corporations and a good representation of the enlightened professions. These had their following of less individual estimation, but larger collective dimensions. The cause of the movement was the immense development of the commerce of the city. The growth in all departments of business has been so great in the past ten or fifteen years that it is no exaggeration to say that many business men might with advantage have their offices now where they had their residences at the beginning of this period. Fortunately the West Side was ready for this change. It immediately on the movement becoming defined became the scene of the wondrous activity which has resulted in covering the vast open spaces that met the eye between 59th street and the river with almost every class of building devoted to domestic use, but for the wealthy and respectable classes only.

It follows here, however, as elsewhere that particular sections of this large district became more or less desirable in accordance with the character of the first occupants and the kind of building they put up. These in their turn were subject to the influence of natural or other advantages of the site. The block line along Central Park on the east and Riverside Drive on the west, naturally attracted the richer people, who put up, or bought splendid mansions overlooking or contiguous to these works of beauty. Within those two lines come the dwellings of lesser cost and the apartment houses. But in every direction there is room for extensive classification, according to whether location or surroundings, or style, material and workmanship in the buildings erected are superior or inferior.

A good illustration of a spot favored for residence investment is without doubt the block on 75th street, between West End avenue and the Riverside Drive, which is now nearing the process of filling up. It may truly be described as one of the very choicest residence blocks in this city. It answers to all tests. It has superior location, accessibility to all modes of transit and every form of recreation the city affords, and last and most, it is built up and surrounded by a uniform style and quality of houses, all of the highest class known to the West Side, and indeed, exceeded in the city itself only by the mansions erected by well-known multi-millionaires. The location west of West End avenue, brings it within the selected line of the Riverside Drive, which will always have a special value for residence purposes. This position also carries with it the advantages of having at hand the finest and most beautiful drive in the world, along the high bank of the Hudson River for a distance of two and a-half miles. The attractions of Central Park are within easy reach. Communications with the business or other portions of the city are not far away, yet not near enough to disturb the repose, which is one of the best characteristics of the block, and which has caused it to be selected for the home-site of a number of the best people of New York.

A fact that probably cannot be stated in connection with any other block in the city, and which is of the highest importance in estimating the investment value of the property within the limits of the block as well as being the most conclusive evidence of its exclusiveness, is that the whole of the south side has been built up by private owners for individual use. Not only is this the fact, but the way in which they have built calls for remark. The houses are of stately proportions, built of costly materials and in the highest architectural taste of the times. They are all detached and embellished with grass plots at the front and sides, wrought-iron work and such other additions as give them completeness and finish. Their owners are all well-known business men. No. 304 is the property of Thos. MacIntyre, Esq.; No. 310 that of Wm. H. Harris, Esq.; No. 312 owned by Edward C. Homan, Esq., and No. 314 by James O. Hoyt, Esq., who are all also occupying their houses, while Louis F. Dommerich, the well-known woollen merchant is just completing a very large and handsome house to be known as No. 318. The plot between the houses of Messrs. Hoyt and Dommerich has been purchased by Mrs. Emma B. Stimson, who will erect a house in architectural consonance with those of her immediate neighbors on either hand. The roadway in front of the house is asphalted.

While these people of wealth and taste have the satisfaction of possessing handsome and airy houses, their neighbors on the north side of the block have the optical enjoyment of their selection of exterior arrangements and embellishments. The setting of the houses back from the ordinary building gives a sunniness and appearance of width to the block and also, of course, brings out the architectural features and the proportions of the houses better than would be possible if they were built in one unbroken row and with the ordinary proximity to the sidewalk. The north side is filled with houses built by well-known builders for sale, but their work is the best of its kind and in keeping with the character of the block as established by the private builders. There is a row of five near West End avenue, and beyond these are eight houses built by Mr. Perez M. Stewart, of which, though completed only this year, six have already been sold, showing that the buying public has an eye for and an appreciation of the conditions which the block contains. Wooley & Brinckerhoff have erected a row of large limestone dwellings on the northeast corner of the street and Riverside drive, completing the filling up of the block on the north side. Outside of the block itself, while the special features described as peculiarly belonging to it are wanting, the property for several streets on either way, where there are streets built up with expensive private dwellings, and the land unoccupied is restricted, if by reason of the price at which it is held alone, such. So that, taking it altogether, the block in question may be called an ideal residence block.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, OCTOBER 27, 1894.

Flatbush Avenue.

PUBLIC MEETING OF THE FLATBUSH AVENUE EXTENSION COMMISSION.

The fourth but first public meeting of the Flatbush Avenue Extension Commission was held on Tuesday evening in the Common Council chamber. Richard Young presided at the opening in the absence of Colonel William Hester, the chairman. Many representative citizens took the opportunity to present their views. Among those present were Daniel F. Lewis, A. Augustus Low, Theodore B. Willis, Frank Bailey, W. D. Niper, General George W. Wingate, William H. Grace, John M. Conklin, Thomas D. Mosserop, Patrick Keady, Dr. Homer L. Bartlett, Edward L. Vaughan, Henry Mumford and E. W. Sherrill. In opening the meeting, Mr. Young said that its object was to give the Commission an opportunity to hear what the public had to offer in regard to relieving Fulton street, between Flatbush avenue and the City Hall. The condition was such that it was imperative that some remedy be provided. The Commission, he said, had examined many plans and considered them carefully, and it was now desired to hear from the public. It was a very important matter, involving not only the expenditure of money, but also the future of a great city which in twenty or thirty years would have fully 3,000,000 inhabitants. Dr. Homer L. Bartlett, of the 29th Ward, advocated the direct extension of Flatbush avenue to the bridge, the so-called "air line." He said the only solution of the trouble was to extend Flatbush avenue. It would not cost any more than the other proposed routes and would not be an injury to the business interests on Fulton street, between the City Hall and Flatbush avenue.

Patrick Keady, a property owner, and representative of several taxpayers, said that he was opposed to the scheme. It had been proposed many years ago. The new wards would soon be clamoring for improvements in school, police and fire departments. The city was deeply in debt, and yet the Commission was desirous to burden the people with $3,850,000. He insisted that the proposed route would cost $1,000,000 before they were through with it. In conclusion he said that the poor people who owned small pieces of property could not afford to pay any more taxes.

Mr. E. L. Vaughan, representing the property owners of the 22d Ward, favored the "air line" route. Its cost would, no doubt, be great, but its construction would advance the valuation of property, and thereby bring more revenue to the city.

Henry Hyams, who said he owned property on Livingston street, thought that the Livingston street route was the most favorable plan of relieving Fulton street.

General George W. Wingate, counsel for the elevated railroad companies, said that when the trolley system was adopted the Board of Aldermen fixed the speed at ten miles an hour, and it is a well-known fact that they run fifteen to eighteen miles an hour without interference. The Brooklyn City Railroad Company, he held, was responsible for the condition of affairs on Fulton street. It had kept putting more and more trolley cars on, until the street could hold no more. The idea of making more streets for trolley cars was preposterous, as Brooklyn was in no condition to go into such a gigantic scheme merely to make an avenue for trolley cars. He said: "If you want a suggestion to relieve Fulton street, buy the Kings County road and run trolley cars on it."

Albert Seiner was in favor of the "air line" plan of extension. He regarded it as the only plan of relief for the crowded condition of Fulton street, and said that it would draw many thousand people to become residents of the suburbs on Brooklyn.

Daniel F. Lewis, president of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company, said that he was in favor of any plan that the Commission might adopt, and that the company he represented would bear its proportionate share of the expense.

W. H. Grace said should the railroad companies lay tracks through Livingston, Clinton and Liberty streets to the bridge, and from Fulton street through Gold, Willow-bly and Adams streets to Myrtle avenue, it would, he believed, relieve the condition of Fulton street without much cost.

Robert S. Walker, H. W. Sherrill, A. A. Low and W. D. Niper spoke for the "air line" as the only plan that would benefit the whole city.

The Commission will make a report to the Mayor at an early date.

A Big Loan.

Frank Bailey, of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, has closed a mortgage between the Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York, and the West Brooklyn Land and Improvement Company, for $210,000. The property consists of a partially improved tract extending from 10th to 60th street, between 11th and New Utrecht avenues, in what was the old town of New Utrecht, now the 31st Ward. The mortgage is for three years and draws interest at 6 per cent. The land company will use the money raised in improving and bringing the property up to the grade of a high-class residential section. This is the first considerable amount of money that has been placed on this class of Brooklyn property by a moneyed institution of New York for many years, and indicates that values here are beginning to be regarded by them as of a far better investment character.

Notes Gathered Here and There.

Notice is given that the assessment rolls in the following entitled matter have been completed and placed in the hands of the Collector of Taxes and Assessments for collection: Repaving McDonough street, from Lewis to Stuyvesant avenue.

Notice is given that the assessment for the cost and expense of constructing a sewer in Map O, District 37, Dean street, beginning at a point 347 feet easterly from Utica avenue and extending easterly to Rochester avenue. The said Commissioner will be at his office, Room 15, Municipal Building, on the 5th day of November, at 11 A. M., to hear objections to said assessment.

The Litchfield estate on Monday paid into the Department of Arrears $125,000, making about $130,000 paid there. The estate also paid into the Department of Collection $18,500.82 for taxes of 1893. It was stipulated in the injunction proceedings that the sale of the property of the estate in arrears for taxes would be postponed on the payment of $250,000.

Commissioner Bush, of the Department of Buildings, has appointed Herbert B. Reynolds as expert architect. The salary is $1,200 a year.

In a report received by the City Works Department, from Joseph Edwards & Co., who have the contract for an additional water supply of 25,000,000 gallons a day, they say that the water they have struck is satisfactory in quality and quantity. The commissioner now believes there is more water in the water extension than he had supposed could be taken without impairing the local supply. With the economies being provided for, he believes satisfactory results will be obtained without increased cost.

Commissioner White, of the Department of City Works, has received an appeal from the residents of the 30th Ward, New Utrecht, asking for the extension of the water mains in that section of the city, the local water company in the old town reaching only a small portion of the ward. Mr. White says the water supply in the ward, which is furnished by a private company, is entirely inadequate. The company wishes the city authorities to make contract with them, but that he can find no provision in the city charter which would enable him to enter into any such arrangement. He says that he has offered to buy water from the company and to lay mains, but no agreement has been reached as to the price. Mr. White is of the opinion that if the plant of the company could be required on the same basis of cost as the new works of the city in Queens County it might be a good thing, although those works will furnish an abundant supply next year for the old city as well as the annexed wards.

Almet F. Jenks, referee to examine the accounts of W. N. Dykman, receiver of the Commercial Bank, has filed his report. He says that the receiver has collected $615,130.58, and that the creditors have received dividends amounting to 76 2/3 per cent. The expenses are $1,726.59. The referee says that the receiver has shown himself to be an economical, a vigilant and a successful officer of the court.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—Reports continue in generally cheerful form, and the advantage of the position remains with the seller. Arrivals have been pretty full, larger than last week if anything, but the demand proved equal to the occasion, and the supply has kept closely sold up, a small portion of it going into storage pile, but the bulk still passes directly to hands of consumers, a condition likely to prevail for some time, as it is the season when the hurry to get work under cover commences. In matter of quality all hands agree that it is keeping up to the line average of early portion of season remarkably well, so well indeed that it is only buyers who must have, or think they must have certain makes, that are compelled to pay top rates. On the general range of quotations we retain former figures and call the position firm for Common Bards. Pales are getting a little call now and then, and there seems to be an effort to stiffen the price, but no known sales are suggested above last week's figures. Down to date there has been no evidence of a tendency among manufacturers to curtail the movement of supplies, and as rapidly as they get back their barges they reload and ship again. There has, however, been some hints thrown out of a possible effort to strengthen the market by cutting down the shipments, and should that plan be followed for a week or ten days it might have the desired effect. The buyer, however, is a "mighty unsartain critter" in these times, and it does not take much of an influence to shut off demand which is likely to induce manufacturers to think twice before acting.

LATH.—Moderate receipts and a fair demand extending in some cases to parcels before arrival, have been contributive influences to keep the market in healthy form, and the close is firm at full former rates. Receivers, indeed, are feeling quite hopeful that the lowest plane of valuation has been passed for this season, and rather look for quite a little raise in the line of cost before snow flies. The chances for demand are based upon some outside or country trade yet to be heard from, and a belief that a great many local dealers will yet have to buy freely to make a working stock.

LIME.—One of the results of the breaking up of the late Eastern manufacturers' combination was quite naturally found in an increase of the local competition and more or less irregularity in values. This week matters seem to be a little more mixed than usual. On the one side we have report of an advance to 90c, and on the other, respectively for common and lump and general suggestions of a firmer market, with the stereotyped claim about light shipments, etc. Against that, however, comes the statement that if any sales were really made at the advanced figures noted above they were only in form of small car lots sent into New Jersey, and that cargo rates remain as before at 80 and 90c. We give the two stories just as they came to us from leading operators in the trade, both sides, of course, claiming to be correct and generally found so, and dealers in want of stock seem to be somewhat in the position of the visitor at the wax works who, upon inquiring of the showman in relation to a certain biblical group, and desiring to know which was Daniel and which the lion, was told it was an optional matter—"You pays your money and you takes your choice."

LUMBER.—Changes in the local market are few and not particularly important. Nearly all new developments in matter of trading show an increase, but the incentive to that result comes through the force of absolute necessity on part of buyers rather than through a voluntary movement based upon the merits of goods; and the form of negotiation indicates clearly that it would be simply a waste of time to argue with any custom worth having upon the propriety of adopting a more liberal plan of investment. Against the outlet offered a few lines of stock are a trifle scarce, but as a rule the offering meets the call fairly and could be increased if needed, especially in the way of the coarser grades of standard stuff. The export trade has not taken as much from local stock as hoped for, but there have been some local Canadian shipments, hurried on account of the season, and upon the approach of close of navigation in the Provinces it is expected that a greater number of foreign orders will come to this port.

White Pine, so far as sales in the local market may be concerned, has been dull, and only the regular agents, either resident or traveling, could get custom. It was no place for new hands, no matter what the attractions may have been. Many dealers, however, have been taking trips to nearby sources of supply, such as Albany and Tonawanda, and picking up quite an amount of stock which will be sent along promptly, and it is intimated that in a few cases where extra desirable goods were found they have been placed under contract with an understanding they can remain in pile where not stored until ordered forward. Prices generally remain about as before. A private letter recently received by an operator here from a correspondent now looking over the Canadian situation reports that in the Georgian Bay section and along the Ottawa lumbering operations are being pushed with liberality and vigor.

Yellow Pine meets with no influence calculated to stimulate values, and in a general way competition for custom continues sharp enough to place buyers in a position of advantage. There is, however, report of fair demand prevailing for special bills from city and nearby out-of-town trade at about as good rates as for some time current, and also quite a number of export orders, f.o.b., are booked on both West Indian and South American account. An offering of random wood encounter a pretty tough market at the moment. Efforts to control and regulate the output at principal manufacturing points continue, and there are strong hopes for success, in view of the representative operators engaged in the movement. The matter has in fact reached a point of organization known as the Southern Lumber Exchange, which commencing at Savannah and vicinity has now taken in the lumber interests at the ports of Jacksonville, Fernandina and Brunswick, making it an organization of practically all the lumbermen engaged in the coastwise trade in Georgia and Florida. The main office of the exchange will be at Savannah, but branches will be established at Brunswick, Fernandina and Jacksonville at once. Following are the officers elected:

President, J. J. McDonough.
Vice-president, T. J. Agnew.
Secretary and Treasurer, Norton Frierson.
Board of Managers: J. J. McDonough, T. J. Agnew, J. J. Cooney, M. W. Dixon, T. S. Wally, Geo. W. Perkins, and the three vice-presidents of the associate exchanges at the other ports, the officers of which are to be elected by their members after those exchanges have been organized.

The exchange will endeavor to establish prices for lumber which will yield the mill men a profit, and also to correct other abuses which have resulted from former go-as-you-please methods. The promoters are more than satisfied with what has been accomplished so far, and regard the work of reconstruction as only just begun.

Carolina Pine inclines toward a steadier position. The local demand has no great amount of force, and some agents think there is less of it than hitherto, but more interest is shown at points outside, where dealers want to get in an extra cargo or two before winter signs appear. Offerings, too, have been in moderate and more careful form, and manufacturers are reported to have brought matters about in such shape as to insure greater firmness hereafter.

Hemlock may be considered about steady, and some of the agents located here are talking much more hopefully. Still there is no present force to trade of a specially noteworthy character, and the chances are thought to be against much more country business, except an odd car-load now and then, and only moderate sales to city dealers are looked for.

Spruce is steadier and more of it wanted by a portion of the trade in this immediate vicinity, that has for some time been quite indifferent. The demand, however, is only about what was expected at this juncture, is a great way behind the average of former years, and accrues to the advantage of sellers only because of the scantiness of immediately available supplies, and advices from the Eastward indicating the probability of a small movement for some time to come. Wide stuff will be particularly difficult to reach, as so few of the mills are in a position to cut it at the moment. There has been some figuring on West Virginia Spruce, but no deals of importance appear to have been perfected.

Hardwoods are making a slightly erratic record as to the development of business, but taken all in all the total movement reached is fair as times go, and for all desirable parcels of staple goods sellers manage to secure about old rates. It is, however, useless to devote time over efforts to secure fuller bids, to that buyers will not submit, and while occasional stories of higher prices paid are heard they can generally be traced to some deal for special quality and selection. Export orders are received to some extent but not freely. Complaints come from abroad of the very poor quality of oak that has been sent out from this side in a great many instances and stating that suspicion falls upon all parcels of American oak offered. The complaint is not a new one but probably well to repeat it now and then for benefit of shippers.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

The Albany Argus reports:

There was a fair week's trade in white pine, but nothing out of the ordinary developed to influence prices. In spruce trade was quite good at unchanged prices, the box-makers taking a great deal of stock. The stock sizes of good spruce are in light supply, and the prospects are that dealers will go into the winter with less on hand than last year. Freight continues at the figures last reported. After ten weeks enforced idleness the mills on the upper Hudson have started sawing 10,000,000 feet of spruce logs, which is all that can come forward from that point this season.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

The wholesale dealers in northern pine are getting forward their lumber from the mills as rapidly as possible, so as to put their yards in shape for the winter. The movement by lake is as large as the weather and rough seas will permit. Rates from Lake Superior points to points on Lake Michigan have been advanced so that it amounts to an embargo on further shipments. Lumber is going forward to Lake Erie markets from Duluth in heavy volume. About 30,000,000 feet of solid lumber at a late date remained at that point to be shipped. When that is forwarded, less lumber will remain on dock there than at the close of the season for years. The product of Ashland and Washburn mills has been shipped up closer to the saw than in any previous year. It has developed that at the majority of leading points on Lakes Superior and Michigan a smaller than usual amount of lumber remains unsold. This statement includes both green and dry stock. It is a remarkable outcome of what has been generally considered a dull season. There is still a large quantity of lumber remaining on-dock on the Saginaw River. Within ten days 10,000,000 feet have been sold there for shipment by water to Chicago. Thus it seems that this great vortex for lumber, having fairly exhausted the ready supply on Lakes Michigan and Superior, is drawing a supplemental quantity from the staid, high-priced old Saginaw district. It is a drift of recent movement that is worthy of more than passing notice. It is also to be observed that, despite the slowness of the eastern demand this year, and the careful and restricted buying of the western wholesale trade, room has been found for the entire mill product of the lake districts, except that in Saginaw valley.

Anything like accurate data respecting the amount of standing pine burned last summer so seriously that it will have to be cut the coming winter in order to save it is slow in developing. Owners of stumpage in the burned districts have taken pains to refute the statements about burned pine that were made in the newspapers, pronouncing them greatly exaggerated. Doubtless they were overdrawn, but it is to be noticed that extraordinary efforts are being made to get out burned pine this season. In the Duluth and Ashland districts and in the upper Michigan peninsula every available man and team is being sent into the woods and the call is still for more and at wages higher than prevailed after the panic last year. This shows that there is a good deal of burned pine to be cut, for certainly the market would not justify special effort to cut green timber.

There are indications that the white pine mills will early cease operations this year. Market conditions are such that operators have no inducement to prolong the producing season. Many have exhausted their piling room, with the demand so weak that they cannot sell off their accumulations without sacrifice. Prices are now considered so low that there is little or no profit in selling, and it is seen that any attempt to force stock on the market would result in a break and further decline, which would entail positive loss. It is believed that late in the winter or early in the spring better conditions will prevail, especially if the cut of the mills this season shall be somewhat curtailed.

A little more inquiry and slightly firmer prices for poplar are noted this week, but the market is still dull as compared with the average condition at this time of year in former seasons. Dry stock is in light supply at all distributing centers, but owing to the limited demand, no serious shortages have been developed. Mill men have about given up the hope of getting new supplies of logs this year at the river mills, and predict a big advance in prices next season as the result of this shortage.

At Chicago receipts are falling off as the season approaches the close. The diminishment of market supply is likely to come earlier and be more pronounced this year than in previous seasons. A prominent cause for this is the cessation of shipments from Lake Superior points, on account of high lake rates. That is, while $2.25 a thousand would not be considered an excessive rate if lumber was selling at prices $2 to $3 a thousand higher than those prevailing, shippers feel that they cannot afford to pay $2.25 a thousand at present prices for lumber. The greater share of the lumber hereafter to arrive for sale on the market will have to come from Lake Michigan ports, with probably a few cargoes from Lake Huron.

Such lumber as is offering is selling at about quoted prices, there having been but slight recent changes. Ordinary cargoes of green pine stuff is selling at $9 a thousand. There is a good demand for long timber, and prices of such have advanced 50 cents a thousand within the month.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

The Lumberman is glad to be able to tell of a brighter outlook in the trade at this point this week. It may be but temporary, but it is the hope of our manufacturers that it will hold out a few weeks and then they will go into winter, for the fall demand will then be over. The increased volume of lumber moved the past week undoubtedly is caused by the regular fall demand for lumber, which has been rather late in making its appearance. Better late than never is the old saying. So it is with the trade. Lumbermen all over the white pine belt have been enjoying but a fluctuating trade for the last year or more, but the business done at Minneapolis this week is encouraging, to say the least. The improvement is not confined to Minneapolis alone, however, but over in the Wisconsin valley, at Duluth, Winona and at some other down river points a slight increase in the demand is noticeable. This is due partly to the fine weather and partly to the fact that the crops are now out of the way, farmers know their exact standing and are buying accordingly. Still there is no disposition on the part of retail dealers to stock up, and none will be displayed this season. When the present spurt of trade is over it will settle down to the winter dullness undoubtedly, and manufacturers can go ahead and attend to logging matters. The closeness of competition, however, has put prices at a notch where little is gained from an increased trade beyond the disposing of stocks, but then that is considered a good deal by many lumbermen in need of funds to carry on the winter's operations. Another encouraging sign is the disposition of the greater part of the operators in the pineries to curtail the crop of logs this winter. If they will only keep on pursuing this policy the benefits that will accrue to the trade will be many. With good judgment and conservatism exercised for a few months more, the trade will come out of the dumps all right, and start in a new year in much better shape than it has been in for a couple of years.

METALS.—COPPER.—Ingot has been handled rather moderately and, as a rule, only where the early wants of dependent custom induced orders. The effect of dull trade has been to give the market a slightly slack tone, yet good control of supplies prevents liberal offerings and keeps the value line from settling off seriously. On the average range of valuation we quote at 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 9 $\frac{3}{4}$ c. for Lake and 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 9 $\frac{3}{4}$ c. for casting brands. Manufactured copper

THE death of the Czar of Russia was without significance in the European markets, and our own had not to suffer as a consequence from that event. The influences of the policy of his successor have yet to be seen; it is too soon to have any opinion thereupon. Operations on the stock market do not encourage sales, and that fact has created expectation of a rally from the depression of the past two months. Reorganizations wherever perfected will help the situation much. Notwithstanding all that has been said, Europe is sure to come into our market as a purchaser of the new securities, and this will relieve the exchange position, which continues to give anxiety. The bear attack on the Coalers proved not as successful as its originators expected it would be. As a matter of fact, they were away behind time, inasmuch as the crisis in the coal trade caused by the demands of Reading and Lehigh Valley had passed about sixty days before they began operations. Their attention is now directed to Northwest, but it is hardly likely that they will be more successful in that, considering its dividend record for the past fifteen years, than they were last Fall in New York Central and lately in the coal stocks, in which the amount of stock brought out made profitable short selling an impossibility. With the opening of a new month there is some talk of improved business, based seemingly more on the theory that two such bad months as last cannot come together than upon any positively favorable feature in the situation. The near approach of Winter does not much fortify the hope of any considerable activity, if it exists anywhere, which is improbable, because there is so general a wish to go slowly, even on predictions. The ruddy glare that characterized views last Fall is nowhere present to-day, which is much better and probably more indicative of sound conditions than the previous enthusiasm was. It is between the optimistic and the pessimistic that the right view is generally obtained, and this remark is peculiarly fitted to the business situation to-day.

GOLD exports have revived interest abroad in the Treasury reserve of that metal and, while all the disadvantages of having so small an amount as $60,000,000 with which to keep good official promises as to gold payments in the face of an export demand are fully insisted upon, none of the mitigating circumstances receive any attention. It is still the opinion of foreign economical writers that the Treasury is violating the law and not custom merely in allowing the gold reserve to be less than $100,000,000. Such misrepresentations explain part, at least, of the discredit of American securities in Europe. Affairs there appear to be as mixed as they are here. While advices from Berlin indicate some nervousness regarding the soundness of affairs in Vienna and Buda-Pesth, based at the moment largely upon a reported advance by the Finance Minister of three millions gold to the banks in order to enable them to carry on their hausse engagements with greater facility, news from Vienna gives no indication of trouble, but on the contrary an official plan for capitalizing the Danubian improvements and raising the money at low rates in the different markets of Europe is being circulated. Further it is proposed to reduce Austro-Hungarian interest rates by the conversion of the debt. This will not be possible if trouble fall upon the two capitals of the Empire. At the same time reports have been long continued that business was overdone in both and particularly in Buda-Pesth. The over subscription, by four times the amount required of the Canadian loan, is only another indication of the little desire investors have for anything but first-class obligations otherwise there would be no such scramble for a low rate bond. This is also proved by the quotations for English bank shares which have, notwithstanding some curtailment of the banks' profit-making powers, appreciated considerably in the past year.

As, however, these shares were much higher in 1891 and 1892 than now, it may be that their rise from bottom prices of last year is a sign of returning confidence. Occasionally from Australia comes a report that business is moving toward an improved condition, though in the unsatisfactory form of sacrifices made. For instance, it is claimed that in the process of collecting on defaulted mortgages in Melbourne, landlordism has succeeded to a system of general individual proprietorship. This tells who bear the burden of financial disaster in Melbourne at any rate. The Argentine Republic is still struggling with its national and provincial debt problems; the currency appreciation of the past months is naturally helping her in her efforts to arrange them advantageously. Government securities being the principal objects of attention in all the foreign markets, it follows that in the present unsettled condition of European politics and their relations to the politics of the Orient that those markets will be disturbed for some time to come with speculation running only in the securities directly affected by political events or rumors.

UNDER any system that could be devised it is probable that some gold must move from place to place, but it does seem as if a plan ought to be adopted to avoid the continued movement of this metal from one government vault to another, especially considering the cost of such removals. According to a statement recently issued by the Treasury Department the requirements for gold between March and October of this year at the principal centres of commerce, and mainly, of course, at New York, caused the transfer of no less a sum than $47,307,500, all of which was carried long distances and much the entire breadth of the country. The expense of these transfers was very heavy, not only in view of the weight of the metal itself, but because its value renders it necessary that every precaution shall be taken for its safe carriage. In this instance the total expense amounted to no less a sum than $93,480. It has been more than once urged, in fact the question always comes up whenever there is a large export of gold, that the method of carrying it from one place to another is antiquated, cumbersome and dangerous to the integrity of the gold holdings of the world. Where the actual metal is used in the daily transaction of retail business, as in Europe, gold must move according to the demand at particular places for the time being, but in a country like this, where the currency passed from hand to hand is almost wholly paper or silver, it does seem as if some other arrangement could be made than shipping the metal from New York to Boston and from Philadelphia to Boston, and so forth. It has been suggested that even foreign trade balances should be settled by some form of gold acknowledgment instead of by sending the actual metal across the ocean, where the danger of loss to the world, if not to the individual shipper, is real. The expense of such a transfer would only be a very small fraction of the expense of shipping metal and the danger of loss would be entirely removed. If this plan could be made practicable as far as the foreign shipments of gold are concerned it certainly could be adapted to the interecine requirements.

RECENT events have proved the truth of Moltke's saying, that only three or four people know anything about a country's foreign politics. All the rest are in the dark and must accept any situation that is prepared for them by the dominant few. Only the other day, England was thrown into a condition of panic simply by the calling together of the Cabinet, and although it is what is called a free country, with the government vested in the people through their representatives in Parliament, no one outside of its participants to-day is justified in saying that he actually knows what occupied the attention of that meeting. In like manner, it is only through reports from other countries that we here learned that our State Department had been asked to join outside intervention between China and Japan and had refused. The announcement of the resignation of Chancellor Caprivi fell like the report of a bomb on the ears of the German people. It is the ignorance of the general masses that occasions war scares. For all that the sovereign peoples know, plans may already have been made for a general outburst to settle the differences that agitate the different nations of Europe; alliances may have been made and plans of campaign already determined upon. On the other hand, war may be farther off than ever. Although really possessing no actual knowledge which would justify their fears, the European public is keeping itself in a condition of nervous tension, ever dreading that their worst anticipations will be realized. England has for more than ten years now listened with too willing ears to the stories of weakness in her fleet. Germany, ever since the treaty of Versailles, has dreaded the coming of a recuperated France on one side and a jealous Russia on the other. The war fear has been kept up in other countries according to the degrees of closeness of their alliances to the great powers. The press has constant prayers, which they at the same time admit are of doubtful efficacy, that war may be averted. Altogether, Europe is in a very unenviable state of mind and entitled to our pity and hopes that she may be restored to reason, though it is hardly possible to see how this can be done while the whole continent is a series of vast camps set in tacit array against each other. The fears that animate the people cannot be dispelled by journalistic prayers or even by ministerial platitudes on the friendly condition that exists between different nations. Only disarmament will have that potency, and until the larger portions of the men now under arms are returned to peaceful occupations the fear of war must continue.

The Cant of the Reform Movement.

Tweed.

Croker.

Next?

If Tammany should be defeated at the polls next Tuesday, may we expect confidently any permanent and radical change in the spirit animating the conduct of the city government? The answer of the "reform" enthusiast we may anticipate at once. His noisy affirmative is already in the air. And the believer in the sufficiency of merely political methods as an instrument of social reform will, of course, chorus with the enthusiast; and, joining with this pair, we will surely hear the victorious partisan, hardened in the absurd superstition that virtue and decency strictly follow party lines.

Experience and reason, however, have a great deal to urge against the dominant confidence of the moment that a sharp decisive overthrow of the organization now ruling in the City Hall will, of itself, insure an era of honest and efficient government.

The conspicuous failure of the Tweed revolution to firmly establish decency and integrity is an object lesson of peculiar significance at this hour. Who imagined twenty years ago that before the children of that day attained to full manhood the city, after a long period of misrule, would again be in revolt to secure the common fundamental conditions of civilization in the administration of its municipal affairs? Even a suggestion of the possibility of the reaction that has occurred would have been scouted at as absurd. Nevertheless, here is New York face to face with the absurdity, and the spectacle is presented to a scornful world of the greatest city in the Union in a state of high agitation to secure, not an ideal condition of government, but government free from police court vices!

Why, in biblical language, is it that we have returned to our vomit? Tweed and his chief confederates were utterly routed out. Popular condemnation of the ring and its methods was neither uncertain in its judgment nor halting in its effects? Yet, the city was not purged of the old iniquity, and again we are in the midst of the same confusion. Surely it must be apparent to all that in effect the Tweed regime was not broken when everybody thought it was broken; but at most was only suspended for a short a time in its extremest results, and then speedily resumed.

The common explanation of the phenomenon is: a few bold, bad men of extreme audacity and peculiar aptitude in vice have succeeded by a sort of Norman conquest in imposing their rule upon more than a million-and-a-half of simple-minded and extremely virtuous citizens. Year after year, so the legend runs, our voters have gone to the polls cherishing in sadness dreams of a fair city honestly governed, but the milk of all this goodness has resulted only in fattening the wicked and assisting the vicious few to wax stronger in high places. Was virtue ever so ineffectual! Government everywhere reflects the character of the people governed—except, if we must believe what is said, in New York. All over the world the brutal are ruled brutally, the vicious, viciously, the ignorant, ignorantly. On Manhattan Island only have we a government out of all relationship to the character of the governed. Absurd!

People may reason out this view of the situation, but the question for us is: Is it rational? We venture to say it is not. There has been no conquest of this city from without. Our government has not been intruded upon us. It is an indigenous growth; the creation of our own hands. It is our "average" intelligence and morality made operative in a certain sphere of action. To deny this is to deny our own handwriting. It is possible, of course, by arbitrarily restricting our conception of the extent of the body politic known as New York City to reach an opposite conclusion. If we say, for instance, that Mr. Parkhurst is the "people" of the metropolis, and exclude all other citizens from consideration, then, indeed, we may affirm that our government is not "of the people." Or, if we become more liberal in our exclusions and define the "people" as Mr. Parkhurst and a few thousand others of clerical character, upon the principle of an elite directory, our government, truly, is not "of the people." But we cannot define "the people" in these select terms. We must include the millions, down to the dregs of society and all the unnameables. These are the constituents of our government.

Some individuals' conception of New York City geographically is confined strictly to the limits of a pleasant promenade along 5th avenue and the central thoroughfares of the island, with the West Side as an addendum. The spicy avenues of the Orient and the dreary vistas of 8th, 9th, 10th and adjacent avenues are clean outside of their view. So it is with many when they speak of "the people." The "people" are those we know, you know, or would like to know. One scheme of government, however, is not a refined, selective one. In the count of noses a thug or an ignorant is numerically the equal of Dr. Parkhurst or Mr. Seth Low, and the character of the former works itself into our government as surely as does that of the latter.

We must not, however, be understood as saying that Tammany is supported politically only or chiefly by thugs and the ignorant. Nothing of the kind is the case. Who will doubt that could we obtain the names of the hundreds of thousands who have voted for Tammany during the last ten years we would be able to present an array of "respectability"—merchants, professional men, clerks, salesmen, decent mechanics and others—that would make laughable the assertions now dimming in the ears of people that Tammany is the creation of the criminal classes. We wager that every reader of this paper numbers among his "decent" acquaintancesmen who have voted for and supported the Tiger. The campaign nonsense that is being spouted to the effect that Tammany holds its power despite the people, is like most campaign stuff, manufactured without facts.

Another bit of humbug is the exaggeration of the numbers and influence of the so-called "better element." This precious remnant is a fetich with some good people. They have been invoking it and supplicating it for years to come out and declare itself, and, like a god, perform some miracle to convert the heathen and dumbfound the unrighteous. "Ah," we have been assured, "if the 'better element' would but rise (in its might is the usual phrase) the world would see how foreign our government is to the desires of our people." But, alas, the god has been sleeping and rational people have been left to ask: How are we to know that this hypothetical "element" is "better" than any other "element," or that it exists at all, unless it gives evidence of its worth and its reality? A "better element" that won't vote, that calmly tolerates iniquity and prefers to go about its business of money-making or pleasure-seeking, or campaigning for party success is a dubious quantity, and of no more account in the world of reality than a metaphysical entity. It reminds one of the fellow who said he could be a gentleman if he wanted to. But we are told that the "better" element is awake to-day and will register itself at the polls next Tuesday. Wonderful "better element" this! When the house is on fire and the stench is in its very nostrils it steps out onto the pavement. Splendid force in a city's affairs!

To the thousands of voters, respectable and not respectable, educated and ignorant, who support Tammany and do not in any real sense object to the kind of rule that prevails in this city must be added, in order to get a full view of the situation, the body of voters who make up the New York contingent of the Republican army. These people, of course, are opposed to Tammany; but clearly their opposition is in the main political, not moral. Partisanship, however, is not the chief matter to-day. The moral, not the political overthrow of Tammany is the object of the present reform campaign. Undoubtedly, Republican opposition to the Tiger employs the "morality business" as electioneering thunder, but the use of the ten commandments as a platform document is not conclusive evidence of the spiritual perfection either of the candidates who stand on the platform or of the voters who support them. The notion that one party is markedly superior to another is on the face of it ridiculous. There is no principle in "politics" that operates to divide a community into two flocks, sheep on the one hand and goats on the other. The Democratic party and the Republican party are recruited in the main alike from the same stock. They share pretty evenly the good qualities and the bad qualities of all the people. There is nothing to show that Tammany government is more offensive to the moral sense of the rank and file of the Republican voters than it is to the followers of the Wigwag—except that it is Tammany. There are loafers and thugs and saloon-keepers, clerks, salesmen, merchants, professional men, voting for the Republican ticket, who, in the daily walk of their lives stand shoulder to shoulder with the loafers, thugs, saloon-keepers, clerks, salesmen, merchants and professional men who vote for Tammany. They were taught in the same public schools, enjoyed the same home influences, breath the same social air, have before them the same standards of life. Clearly, despite any small differences, the bulk of both parties are composed of the same human stuff. The dregs of the city may perhaps be credited in larger quantity to Tammany, but the dregs will usually be with the party in power.

So then, to sum up, what is the situation we have to face? A government existing in this city that roughly answers to the average of the morality and intelligence of the citizens. Tweed carried his system beyond the "average" and was kicked out. The "average" was restored again; and as this "average" is rather low, and as human nature tends toward extremes, presses to realize itself to the fullest, to-day we again have Tweed. Suppose there is another ejection on Tuesday, what then? The old "average" will once more be restored, and our children (should present conditions remain), will be fighting their Tweed just as we are ours, after another generation of misrule. Dodge the position as we may, back and back we will be brought to the same point. No real, permanent, improvement is to be effected by spasmodic "reform movements," by revolutions at the polls, by the agency of mere political machinery, by twenty-year-campaigns against vice. Line by line, precept upon precept, we must build up good government by heightening the moral and the intellectual tone of the whole people, the tone of the upper classes and the millionaires, as well as the tone of the lowly and the poor. That is the only effectual process. The Lexow investigation while it has made visible the rotteness of the Police Department has at the same time revealed that we are a city of bribers. If our "respectable" wealthy citizens pay blackmail and then seek on the witness stand to protect the criminals they have aided why should we not have government by blackmail? Can we not read the lesson of the evidence on both sides of the paper? If all the departments of this city's government would tell what they know of the dirty persistence of "good citizens" to secure for themselves illegal exemption from taxation and the rigid administration of the laws a very nice discrimination would be necessary to distinguish between Tammany and the People. Dr. Cantor's exhortation is timely: "Let us clear our mind, Sir, of cant."

The Extension of an Idea.

WE feel somewhat in the mood that the exponent of a good idea feels when his idea has been generally adopted, satisfied and complacent, yet somewhat curious as to the ways in which that idea penetrated so many minds and brought about a change of faith. Success in this line is a very remarkable thing, much more remarkable than appears on the surface. For instance, it is very rarely acknowledged by the world, the virtue which brings it about is necessarily one that must be its own reward. With success, too, comes the puzzling question, by what processes were others brought to view the thing as the leader viewed it. At first the cause seemed so utterly hopeless. So impenetrable did appear the wall of prejudices and other ideas through which it had to find light.

Three years ago THE RECORD AND GUIDE stood alone among the newspapers of New York in advocating municipal ownership as the only way out of the rapid transit muddle. This suggestion struck fairly in the centre of a great prejudice of the New York press that no public work could be carried out by the city and not become also a great political steal. These journals opposed any suggestion of rapid transit, except such as should be constructed with the aid of private capital.

We had many times before pointed out the difficulties of financing any plan for efficient rapid transit for the city when in September of 1891, fully assured that the financial was sure to be the rock on which any plan would split, we respectfully asked: Why should not the city build the road? Two months later we gave editorial expression of our views at length, pointing out that such a system as would be necessary would involve the building of unremunerative as well as remunerative road and that private capital would not accept the burden of the first with such opportunities for profit as the second offered. Further there was the greater ease and cheapness with which the city could borrow the money necessary to carry out the work and consequently the better terms to the public on which the system could be operated when built. We have never swerved from those views since, a fact that increases our satisfaction in finding to-day that municipal ownership has the encouragement and indorsement of the entire press of the city with the exception of the Sun, which so obviously prefers inadequate and slow transit to any system of rapid transit that can be devised, no matter what are the agencies and means suggested for carrying it into effect, that it cannot be considered as entirely sincere in its opposition to municipal ownership as a principle of operations.

It must be owned that the daily newspapers have been slow in coming round to this view. The Times, certainly, on the failure to find a purchaser for the franchise in December, 1892, did say that the people should insist upon having the advantages of rapid transit, even if the city itself must furnish the capital. But the others have only recently given this principle indorsement. The Herald has, with its usual modesty, tried to keep in the front of the rapid transit discussion, but until quite recently has always been blinded by the mirage of private capital, eager to come forward and invest in the road. On June 18th, 1892, it informed its readers that capital was quick to see money-making opportunities, and would hardly fail to recognize the value of the franchise as soon as it was offered for sale. It kept that up until the franchise was offered for sale six months later and failed to find a bidder, and then started off on the tack that the terms should be made such as private capital would find agreeable. Later it took up the proposal of relief through the Spencer plan. When that plan was adopted it told such of the city as is included in its readers that rapid transit was assured, and the Herald had secured it. When, however, it found that it had been sold it sulkily told the Commission to go to the devil, by remarking that it was high time for the Commission to do something or disband. When the extension of the Manhattan Elevated system to Fort St. George was talked about it recovered its spirits and again told its readers that owing to its exertions rapid transit was at last coming. It maintained its devotion to the Elevated railroad extension plan for some time, relieved by a flirtation with the Bushe plan; but, during the latter half of 1893 it contended itself with occasionally asking whether the Commission was asleep or not. At the beginning of this year light began to dawn upon it; on January 19th it asked in connection with the Wilson proposal why, if the city was to advance the money, it should not build itself. Its condition, however, was still one of fuddle, because in the same breath it repeated its demand that the franchise be offered to capital at the earliest day possible. The Herald is now clear upon the question, for the time being at least, having frankly endorsed the recently issued statement of the Commission urging a favorable vote next Tuesday for municipal construction of a rapid transit road.

The Evening Post smelt Tammany in every suggestion of municipal ownership until the adoption of the Chamber of Commerce resolutions submitted by ex-Mayor Hewitt. In May of 1892, speaking of Mr. T. C. Clarke's plan, it said that it would gain more approval if our city expenditures were directed by a body of men in whose intelligence, capacity and honesty the public had confidence. Until we could get around that objection either by reform of our city government, or by devising some method by which the control of the work could be taken out of the hands of the city authorities, and put into the hands of a commission of honest and capable men, it would be unwise to advocate construction otherwise than by private capital. All the operations of the earlier commission, the Evening Post conceived to be moved by Tammany for the purpose of securing control of the work, and it therefore, flourishing its tomahawk, threw itself between the Tammany brave and his intended prey. Regarding the prospective failure of securing private capital to undertake the work it said on November 21, 1892: "It had been our opinion ever since the plan of the commission was first broached that the design was to have it (the road) built by the city, that is—by Tammany Hall. Every day of delay has been useful in aiding the scheme forward as a Tammany job. . . . Then Tammany Hall will be in possession of the greatest job of its life," etc. As a matter of fact the delays have brought the question where it now stands to-day, a better position than it has ever had before. So it goes on all through '92 and '93 until April of this year, when spent and despairing with the fight it had maintained, the Evening Post exclaims: "Unless we get the Chamber of Commerce plan now we shall be forced to let Tammany Hall build the road and take the consequences." However, it has all come right at last and the Evening Post now makes the full and ample confession: "We have wasted seven years in trying to have a rapid transit system constructed without calling in the aid of the city."

All this is very jolly, for while three years ago we were in a manner of speaking alone and crying out in the wilderness the new idea, we have now, that time has so emphatically proved the impossibility of getting private capital to undertake the work, many voices joining ours in urging on the citizens of New York to affirm the principle of municipal ownership by their votes next Tuesday as the only practical solution of the problem of rapid transit for New York City.

But, although THE RECORD AND GUIDE is in favor of municipal ownership, and regards an underground road as the only practicable form of structure adequate to the rapidly increasing needs of the city, we also are of the opinion that the daily press now goes to extremes in excluding from consideration the very material aid that may be derived from improvement, and even judicious extension of the present elevated roads. We do not believe that an underground system will ever meet the requirements of short trip travel. Its functions would rather be that of a great trunk line running through the city. The local traffic from street to street would go naturally to the surface roads and to the elevated roads; but the longer trips—the higher class of traffic, if one may speak so—will go to the underground system. This means a further differentiation of the transportation machinery of the city. It is the natural order of development. There can be no question that a vote favorable to municipal ownership will be the antecedent of the greatest activity in real estate the upper part of this city has ever known.

THE Michigan furniture manufacturers have begun an attack on the fortress of the English market. As they have already gained a footing in South America, Australia, and the Asiatic possessions of Great Britain, they may now be said to be assaulting the citadel. But that time, and plenty of it is an important element in every movement of this character, it is somewhat surprising that this was not done before. A comparison of the furniture trade catalogues of this country and Great Britain will show how much superior the furniture made here in the two important matters of styles and prices is to that made on the other side of the Atlantic. This refers almost wholly, it may be said, to the cheaper classes of furniture, and is due doubtless to the availability and immense variety of material here supplemented by more development of the machinery used in its manufacture. Artistic furniture made from special designs and largely the work of hand is another matter. The American Consul, at Brunswick, suggests a further field for development of the American furniture trade. He says that despite the fact that the Germans are eminently practical and excel in many forms of handicraft, they are very deficient in respect to the manufacture of ordinary furniture. The German ordinary household furniture cannot begin to compare with the American article for either beauty, finish, practicability or strength. It is rare to find a table or desk that sits evenly on its legs, and rarer still to find a common chair that will not come apart after very little use. He thinks that high as custom duties and freights are, the superiority of the American product and the improved methods of workmanship would practically offset them. All this will doubtless be interesting to American makers of furniture.

The "Greater New York" Question.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Referring to the article in the last number of THE RECORD AND GUIDE relating to the proposed Greater New York, in which you reported and commented upon a paper which was read by Mr. Doremus at a special meeting of the West End Association, you close your article with a statement that a resolution was passed disapproving of the scheme of the Greater New York, and that there was only one dissenting vote. I wish to publicly acknowledge that I cast that vote, and I wish to put myself on record to that effect. It is proper to say that the meeting in question was attended by not more than twenty-five members, out of a total of about three hundred in the association. It almost surpasses belief that such action should have been taken. In fact, one prominent member at that meeting stated that he considered that the building of the Brooklyn Bridge had been quite a detriment to New York real estate.

It is surprising the lack of knowledge in discussing this matter, and from what a very narrow-minded standpoint it is regarded by some persons—who view it upon precisely the same basis as they do the Rapid Transit question which is to regard it only from the immediate present, and not one calculated to provide adequately for the future. It is possible that if some New York real estate dealers had their own way they would cause a sort of Chinese wall to be built which would entirely surround this island, and effectually prevent anyone leaving it in order to locate in any of the surrounding territory.

There seems to prevail among the public a very erroneous impression concerning two of the most salient features connected with the proposed Greater New York. First, regarding taxation: It is taken for granted that the rate which prevails in New York will necessarily be the same rate for Brooklyn. Mr. Andrew H. Green has told the writer that this was never intended to be the case, and that it would not be so. Each of the several portions agreeing to consolidate would have different tax rates. Second: If a large majority of all the ballots cast by the different towns were in favor of Consolidation, that would indicate only a simple expression of opinion, and would be the first preliminary step to be taken. The final Consolidation could not be affected without considerable further action being taken by the Legislature, when all such questions as methods, terms and equitable taxation could be equitably adjusted. It would probably require five or six years before Greater New York would be an accomplished fact.

In relation to this point, I beg leave to quote from the report of the Greater New York Commission.

"It should always be borne in mind that the ballot cast on this subject determines nothing finally. Were every vote in its favor, consolidation would not necessarily result. The outcome of the ballot would stand as advice to the legislative body that might be called upon to act on it. In this legislature, each locality would be represented in both houses to guard and protect its interests.

"I learn that it is said in some places by some lot owners, that if this union is consummated their lots will be brought in competition with other lots, and their pecuniary interests would be affected. This can scarcely be designated other than as selfish and very short sighted.

"To those apprehensive of increased taxation, we point to the experience of three towns having about the same area as the island of Manhattan. The tax rate of this city, notwithstanding the consolidation of these towns, has steadily diminished, and the progress of improvements has been very marked.

"In 1874 the tax valuation of these towns was $22,906,365; in 1894 it was $62,595,458, an increase of nearly $50,000,000. In 1874 the tax produced by these towns was $390,093.99. In 1894 it was $1,120,444.91, an increase of $730,351. Neither these towns nor this city have reason to complain of the results of annexation."

If such a consolidation was consummated I think it is reasonable to expect that there would very shortly follow an increase of between 25 and 33 per cent in value of all Brooklyn real estate, to say nothing of the wonderful impetus which would be caused in building operations there, and these items in themselves would result in materially reducing the tax rate of Brooklyn.

As a matter of fact Brooklyn is growing in population relatively very much faster than New York, and it cannot be many years before her population will surpass that of New York.

As giving an idea of what might be expected from such a consolidation it is only necessary to refer to what has taken place since the new wards were annexed twenty years ago.

	1874.	1894.
Population.....	40,000	125,000
Tax Valuation.....	$22,906,365	$62,595,458

The new buildings erected there in 1881 [which was the first year that any record was kept], cost $1,052,995. In 1892 the new buildings erected cost $5,092,823. The registration for 1894 was 20,355. It is a well-known fact that the largest building operations are conducted in the newer or outlying portions of a city, and values of vacant property on Manhattan Island have become so great that they tend to check the normal growth of building here.

New Yorkers who visited Chicago during the World's Fair must have been greatly impressed with the wonderful growth of that town and recently we have had another incidence of how rapidly Chicago is overtaking us when the recent registration in Chicago showed a total of 310,000, whereas the total for New York, with all the very unusual interest in the election prevailing here, only amounted to 308,401. Do New Yorkers fully realize what this means?

Mr. E. C. Graves, whose able letter I beg to enclose, has suggested a very pertinent new point in connection with this matter, which is, that many people now residing in New Jersey would much prefer to live within the boundaries of the Greater New York were they able to secure homes within their reach. This can easily be done by such resident obtaining cheap homes in some of the immense territory already within the limits of Brooklyn, for it would be much more accessible and easier to reach by bridges across the East River, and thence by Rapid Transit Railways in Brooklyn than it would be to be compelled to take the ferries across the North River. Among all the arguments which have been advanced for a Greater New York but comparatively little has been written with the aim of showing the benefits which would be conferred upon New York itself. Mr. Edward C. Graves has made a very strong presentation of the matter in his pamphlet entitled "The Greater New York." And I will ask you to reprint in your paper his most important remarks in relation to it.

To sum up the whole question, it seems to me if it is wished that New York should keep her great pre-eminence among American cities, and thereby enable us to maintain our present real estate values and our hopes for future enhancement, there can be but one way for New Yorkers to vote at the present time, and that is to vote in favor of Greater New York; otherwise New York will just as surely be surpassed by Chicago in population and business as New York has surpassed Philadelphia.

FRANK R. HOUGHTON.

Owners' Responsibility for Contractors.

A case of very great importance to every owner, contractor and builder in this State, by reason of a new principle of law being accepted in relation to responsibility for contractors by their employers, was recently tried in the Supreme Court before Justice O'Brien and a jury.

The facts briefly stated are that the plaintiff, Charles J. Berg, was the owner of the house, No. 315 West 82d street, and the defendant, Henry Parsons, owned a vacant lot adjoining. The defendant employed an independent contractor named Tobin to remove the rock from his lot preparatory to building. As a result of Tobin's work the plaintiff's house and its contents were damaged, the walls were cracked, plaster broken off, plumbing injured and glassware and other things broken. Plaintiff obtained an injunction from Judge Lawrence, though in an altogether distinct proceeding from the one recently tried and in which the decision referred to was made, restraining Parsons, his builder, Squier, and Tobin from proceeding further with the work of blasting. Tobin is said to have thereupon thrown up the job, and another contractor having been obtained it was completed without further injury to the adjoining property. Berg sought to obtain pecuniary satisfaction for the injury he had sustained and finally brought suit to recover the sum of $1,546. Parsons defended the suit on the ground that Tobin was an independent contractor over whom he had no control and for whose acts he was not responsible under the law. It was claimed for the plaintiff, however, that the defendant was responsible because he had been negligent in employing the contractor to do the work; that Tobin was incompetent and reckless and that defendant could have found this out if he had exercised reasonable care before employing him. Judge O'Brien charged the jury in effect that if they believed the defendant failed to exercise due and reasonable care in selecting a contractor they must find a verdict for the plaintiff. The jury did find for the plaintiff, awarding the full amount claimed. Alexander & Green represented the plaintiff through Mr. Charles W. Pierson, and Mr. Alex. Thain appeared for the defendant, who immediately on the rendering of the verdict of the jury took an appeal.

The Business Man in Politics.

ONE GOOD TERM DESERVES ANOTHER—THE MAN AND HIS WORK.

Mr. Judson Lawson, whose facial lineaments are reproduced above, has been serving his city and State as the representative of the 23d Assembly District, which consists of what is known as the West Side, between 72d and 120th streets, west of Central Park and 7th avenue. Those who have watched Mr. Lawson's career at Albany are so satisfied that they have given him a nomination for re-election, so that he is to-day the regular Republican and Good Government Club nominee. On the same ticket, running for Alder-104th street, and the handsome residence of William F. Foster, Esq., near 103d street. David S. Brown, Esq., has just purchased a corner on 102d street and the Drive, which he will improve at a cost of $100,000 by erecting a mansion thereon. Lots in the vicinity are owned by the best-known and richest people in New York, such as the Astors, the Goelets, Collis P. Huntington and others.

As their location is so excellent it almost follows as a matter of course that the houses are in every respect first-class. The fronts are of selected blue Indiana limestone, relieved by Romanesque carvings. The parlor floor is arranged for use as three separate rooms or one large salon 64 feet in depth. The trim of the parlor is of white mahogany. Finely carved mantels adorn the fireplaces which have facings of inlaid mosaic glass and tiled backs and floors. Beyond the parlor is the music room. The dining room trim is quartered white oak, with paneled ceiling to match. The mantle in this room is of special, very imposing and handsome design. The butler's pantry addition is furnished in all the requisites of that important addition to the dining-room service.

The three upper floors are laid out for use as library and bedrooms, servants' quarters and store rooms. They contain bookcases, mantles, mirrors, open fireplaces, inlaid floors, dressing salons with all the needed accessories, wardrobes, closets, mirrors, etc. The bath-rooms are models of sanitation and lavatorial convenience. Variety is obtained in the several rooms by the use of different colored woods and tiles and mantles of special designs. Among many other valuable features which cannot be specially mentioned is a system of direct and indirect steam heating in use in every house. The plumbman, is Mr. Wm. M. K. Olecott, an able lawyer and worthy candidate. It may surprise some even of his friends to learn how much work Mr. Lawson has done in the Assembly. He was the sponsor for no less than forty-eight bills, of which fifteen were passed and signed by the Governor. One of these provided for the Riverside Park extension to the bulkhead line; another was for an appropriation of $750,000 to complete the Riverside Drive, including a viaduct over 96th street, where it crosses the Drive, with proper approaches thereto north and south; a third for an appropriation of $250,000 for the Cathedral Parkway. Mr. Lawson affords an example of what the business man can do in politics, and there is no doubt whatever that, having been so ably served by him, the 23d Assembly District appreciates his connection with their affairs in Albany.

Mr. Lawson's title to be called a business man comes from his being a member of the firm of Walker & Lawson, who have been identified with the building up of the West Side so far as the best class of houses is concerned, and their work has several times been the subject of favorable notice in these columns. Their latest addition to the architectural development of this district are the four houses, Nos. 311 to 314 Riverside Drive. The best thing that can be said in their behalf is that they are Walker & Lawson houses, which means that they are built of the best materials, by the best workmen under the constant and experienced supervision of the owners, and that they are in interior arrangement and finish in every sense up to date. Their location is near 104th street, amidst some of the finest, present and prospective, Riverside Drive mansions. It will be remembered that Prof. Bacon's large granite mansion stands on the corner of ing is of course of the best. These houses will certainly be appreciated whenever seen. The houses, it should be added, are piped for gas and wired for electric light.—(Communicated.)

Municipal Construction of Rapid Transit Facilities.

Friends of the movement undertaken to procure proper travelling facilities from one part of the city to another are confident that the result of the vote on Tuesday next will be overwhelmingly in favor of municipal construction. This confidence has good foundation. The Chamber of Commerce Special Committee on Rapid Transit consisting of Messrs. Charles S. Smith, John Harsen Rhoades, John A. Stewart, Cornelius N. Bliss, Richard T. Wilson, Abram S. Hewitt and Alexander E. Orr, winds up the discussion prior to the vote by emphasizing the statement of the Rapid Transit Commission referred to last week in a short address to the voters giving seven reasons why they should vote for municipal construction, viz., present transit facilities are inadequate; the Rapid Transit act providing for municipal construction is legal and constitutional; rapid transit will increase the taxable value of the property in the city and thereby the city's income; guarantees to prevent extravagance in construction and expenditure in money are ample and business-like; municipal construction means one-half interest charges on money borrowed to build the road; rapid transit will enable the people of the city to reach cheaper and more comfortable homes in the country at a minimum expenditure of time and money, and all engineering difficulties in the way of disturbing adjacent buildings can be readily overcome.

The Hudson River Bridge.

The Board of War-Office Engineers who were appointed to consider the Hudson River Bridge problem have recommended a suspension bridge as having the most stable equilibrium, and as capable of being so constructed, by giving suitable dimensions to towers and anchorages, that its capacity can be readily increased. The board says that a cantilever or arch bridge has comparatively unstable equilibrium, and is liable to collapse from the failure of any stiffening member. It considers that the amount of traffic which the bridge, as proposed, would accommodate justifies its construction, and believes that it should be so constructed that it could be readily increased in capacity. The board estimates cost as follows: Superstructure, $10,402,540; substructure, $11,784,000; and remarks that, assuming the most favorable location and the most competent engineering management, $23,000,000 is a reasonable estimate for a six-track railroad suspension bridge 3,200 feet long.

Columbia College's Future Home.

There was placed on view a few days ago a model and plans of the new library building designed by Messrs. McKim, Mead & White for Columbia College, which it is proposed to erect as a part of the new home of the college at Bloomingdale. This is to be the central building of a general plan adopted some time ago, and described at the time, and the whole of which it is estimated will cost about $2,850,000 to carry out. The library is the first for which plans have been prepared, and the object in drawing attention to it by exhibition of the model and plans is to enlist funds for its erection and so start the work of creating the new home for the college. President Low has expressed the hope that the buildings to be erected will without exception come to the college by gift. Here is a very splendid opportunity for someone to imitate in the case of Columbia Mr. Rockefeller's generosity to the Chicago University.

The College Place Improvement.

By the withdrawal of the last of the appeals against decisions of the Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the matter of widening College place, the city now is in possession of the necessary land and can go along with the work now if it has funds or as soon as the money is provided. Mayor Gilroy recently said in relation to this improvement: "We can now take possession of the property. The Board of Aldermen can pass a resolution providing for the grading of the street, etc., and the Commissioner of Public Works can soon begin work on it."

For Honest Government.

The meeting of the Real Estate Exchange Honest Government Club on Monday afternoon attracted the largest attendance that the salesroom of the Exchange had ever held. Speeches were made by Seth Low, Charles S. Fairchild, Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, Gen. Wager Swaine, James C. Carter and Col. James M. Varnum. The meeting was most enthusiastic and in full sympathy with the sentiments voiced by the speakers. C. W. Luyster, President of the club, presided. A letter of sympathy with the organization from Levi P. Morton was read by the Secretary, George DeForest Barton, and also one from Theodore Roosevelt.

FROM MR. FAIRCHILD'S SPEECH.

"You cannot carry elections by meeting here and listening to speakers. There is a vast population living over on the east side of your city, a population that, if they knew what it was, would desire good government as much as you do. Only a small portion of them read the newspapers. They learn from one another. In those regions where they live Tammany Hall in every block has a captain, and under him as many lieutenants as necessary in order to reach, sway, terrify and control the people living there. There lies the power of Tammany.

"What thought have you given to anything that can break up this relation? I believe we will carry this election by a great majority. I believe that Col. Strong and John W. Goff and the rest of the ticket will come into power in a way that will gratify your heart. (Applause.) But it won't do to stop there.

"If you want to reach results you must produce a state of things under which you can continue to elect similar men in the future. You must produce a state of things out of which you can continue this non-partisan movement for good government in this city. You must get your municipal election day fixed at another time from your other elections. You have a constitutional amendment which will bring that about. I am sorry that at the same time you must vote for other amendments that you will not, perhaps, like, but I am inclined to think that there is more merit than demerit in those amendments. Therefore, in order to secure this point of vantage, you might better vote for those amendments."

Questions and Answers.

Correspondents who do not find answers to their communications in this paper must please refer to future issues.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly advise me in your next issue what is the present condition of the Elm street improvement? Has a commission been appointed yet?

SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—Every step has been taken up to the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment, but no proceedings have been taken for this appointment which, however, can be made on ten days' notice. It appears that no pressure is being brought on the city authorities to carry the work further, though it is said that under the new law the improvement cannot be delayed much longer.

LANDLORD AND TENANT—LEASE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly answer the following query in your next issue:

(1) If an agent rents a store to a tenant for four years, with a privilege of five years more, and draws a lease accordingly, and then the tenant gets sick, or for some reason fails to sign the lease, and then, later on, comes around and pays $25 on account of the rent and gets a receipt from the agent which says, "$25 on account November rent" and nothing else, and the tenant says then, "I will take the store," can the landlord hold him for the entire term of four years? or (2) is the tenant held for one year? or (3) can he be held at all under the circumstances, he never having signed any lease? (4) Suppose he received a receipt for his $25 and that receipt stated that the renting was for four years, etc. (covering all the terms of the lease), would he then be bound for the entire term of the lease? (5) Is not the landlord any way bound to give him his lease and possession of the premises on payment of the balance of the first month's rent?

Answer.—(1) No. (2) Yes. (3) He can be held for one year. (4) Yes. (5) The landlord cannot be compelled to give him the lease agreed upon, but the tenant is entitled to possession for one year.—LAW EDITOR.

GAME LAW.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Please let one of your oldest subscribers know in your next issue if you are allowed to shoot robins or not this year after Nov. 1st, or if there is a fine attached to it on Long Island?

Answer.—It is contrary to law to kill robins in the State of New York at any time.—LAW EDITOR.

AGENT'S COMMISSION.

Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you please answer the following in your next and oblige: A note was addressed to owner, viz.: "A gentleman (card inclosed, written by himself), with references, very respectable family, offers $40 per month for your top apartment, from November 1st. All is, he won't pay $50, your price. You told me for a good party you would rent at $45; my commissions for renting will be $20." Word came back: Would not take less than $50. I induced the gentleman to go and see owner. Result, he rented it for $45 for only seven months. Owner refuses to pay the $20, and only 2½ per cent on seven months. Nothing was said for any less time than one year and sign lease. Brokers' commissions are usually based at 2½ per cent on yearly lease.

Answer.—We advise your acceptance of the 2½ per cent on seven months' rental. We do not think you could recover any more.—LAW EDITOR.

ASSESSMENT.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Kindly give me your opinion regarding assessments on a certain lot. The same is triangular in shape. A sewer is being put in along the avenue, now what I would like to know is, if I will be assessed for the full length of the frontage, 95 feet on this avenue. Any information you can give me on this subject will greatly oblige.

Answer.—Yes. But the owner in the rear will also be assessed to a certain depth.—LAW EDITOR.

ANNEXATION OF WILLIAMSBURGH.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Kindly give me the date when Williamsburgh was annexed to the city of Brooklyn?

Answer.—The act of the Legislature was passed April 17, 1854, consolidating Brooklyn, Williamsburgh and Bushwick.

A Help to the Saving.

The Sun and Evening Sun Building, Mutual Loan and Accumulating Fund Association of New York City is apparently as successful as its name is lengthy considering the comparatively brief period that it has been in existence. Its sixth annual report has lately appeared, showing that nineteen new loans were made in the year under review and one paid off, leaving one hundred loans outstanding, representing, after deducting the paid premiums, a balance of loans of $313,069.85. The following table of profit and loss since organization, taken from the annual report, gives the six years history of the Association in a very succinct way:

Cronter & Co., of No. 155 Broadway, who are thoroughly equipped to supply all kinds of office and store fixtures, should be consulted by people who are rearranging or fitting up new headquarters. Personal.

Wesley J. Havell, architect, for many years at No. 66 Liberty street, has removed to a more spacious and modern office in the J. Monroe Taylor building, Nos. 39 and 41 Cortlandt street.

Wanted, a copy of the "Real Estate Record Guide to Buyers and Sellers of Real Estate, etc., by Geo. W. Van Sienlen," for which fifty cents will be given at THE RECORD AND GUIDE office.

Concerning Real Estate Agents and Brokers

Attention is directed to the card of Mr. M. Ogden Giles, on page x. As there announced, Mr. Giles' business is the negotiation of real estate mortgage loans, to which he devotes his entire attention. Mr. Giles is young and energetic, and promises to secure a place in the front ranks of the real estate mortgage brokers. His office is at 150 Broadway (Williamsburgh Fire Building), convenient to the real estate salesrooms.

Mr. Andrew A. Bibby, for a number of years with Mr. W. E. Callender, has removed his office to No. 66 Liberty street, nearly opposite the Real Estate Exchange. Mr. Bibby's specialty is mortgage loans, and his facilities for prompt and satisfactory work are of the best. He has money to loan in various sums, and good applications will receive prompt attention.

M. Bargebuhr & Son, of No. 165 East 91st street, have opened an office at No. 2178 8th avenue, near 117th street, in the midst of a district in which they have negotiated numerous sales for builders and others.

Bryan L. Kennelly has enlarged his offices at No. 66 Liberty street by taking in the large office lately occupied by Lewis S. Samuel, and with their tasty fittings and thorough equipment for real estate business purposes his quarters are among the best down town.

The firm of R. L. Julian & Co., of 264 Columbus avenue, composed of R. L. Julian and A. A. Meyer, has been dissolved. Mr. A. A. Meyer retiring from the firm. Mr. Julian has removed his office to 451 Amsterdam avenue, between 81st and 82d streets, where he will transact a general real estate business, making a specialty of renting and collecting and insurance.

The Trinity Church corporation has been awarded $520,000 by the commissioners appointed by the city in the proceedings relating to the condemnation of the old St. John's cemetery on the easterly side of Hudson street, between Clarkson street and St. Luke's place or Leroy street, which is to be converted into a park. The name St. John's will be retained.

NEW HOUSES.

Builder James Livingston is putting the finishing touches to nine handsome four-story lime stone and light brick dwellings on the north side of 88th street near Riverside Drive. They are each 20x60 with extensions. Four have oriel and three octagon bay windows on the second and third stories, and two have oriel bay windows on the parlor floors. Of the nine houses of a like character built by Mr. Livingston on the south side of the same street six have been sold.

A Mystery Solved.

THE CAUSE FOR THE RECENT BUYING ON EIGHTEENTH AND NINETEENTH STREETS.

Brokers and operators whose expert knowledge of all matters pertaining to New York real estate is the result of many years' experience, have read with surprise the frequent statements made of late of sales, at remarkably high and apparently unwarranted prices, of property on 18th and 19th streets, between 5th and 6th avenues. Reports, fairly well authenticated, have added to their wonder from day to day and it began to look as if the block referred to was destined to become a sort of fairy land, containing all the things most prized by man, and that a select number of buyers had been made aware of what the future held in store and were willing to pay any price for the privilege of ownership in the district to be enchanted. But now it seems the cause of the persistent buying is one that has been suspected by good judges from the beginning of the movement. It had its origin in the decision of the American Lithographic Company to erect in the block the large building that the Cooper estate executors had agreed some months ago to build on 4th avenue, 27th and 28th streets. This project having fallen through the officers of the company fell back on plans that had previously existed, and which provided for the purchase of a site and the construction of a suitable building on 18th and 19th streets. The brokerage firm intrusted with the carrying out of the project having secured almost all the plot desired gave the cue to others who, impressed with the prospect of property on both streets becoming specially desirable for business purposes, at once rushed in to buy parcels that would adjoin or be near to the proposed big building. That is all there is of mystery in the operation that has set realty circles on edge for the past week or two. Conceding the wisdom of the American Lithographic Company's seeming the necessary site for its building even when required to pay extravagant prices for intermediate lots, how will it fare with the speculators who have followed its lead? The prices quoted are unusual ones, and it may be that their investments may prove profitable. Yet when it is considered that the average is over $2 a foot frontage or more than $50,000 for a full lot, some doubt must arise as to the advisability of such investments in a neighborhood that has been regarded as unpromising for many years. The movement is almost without a precedent in the history of the city. A similar operation was conceived by a syndicate which more than a score of years ago acquired the ownership of all the vacant lots that could be bought along the line of 5th avenue between 27th and 57th streets. The lots were plentiful then, and had previously sold at the uniform price of $25,000. When the syndicate had secured all that were obtainable, the quotations doubled, and no 5th avenue lots could be purchased for less than $50,000. All were resold within a reasonable period with a large profit for the syndicate.

CITY BUILDING NOTES.

In THE RECORD AND GUIDE, October 27th, it was erroneously stated that the architect, Wesley J. Havell, was drawing plans for three apartment houses to be erected on 149th street, west of Amsterdam avenue. It should have read: 145th street, north side, 200 west of Amsterdam avenue.

A large mercantile building will probably be erected on the north-west corner of Leonard street and Broadway to replace the structure recently burned. F. F. Ayer, representing the Ayer estate, owner, will take no action looking toward the erection of a new building until the insurance has been adjusted.

Contracts for the twelve-story mercantile buildings to be erected on Broadway, Washington and Waverly places, and Mercer street, for Randolph Guggenheimer, a detailed description of which appeared in THE RECORD AND GUIDE, October 27, have been awarded as follows: Mason-work, Isaac A. Hopper, No. 217 west 125th street; iron-work, J. B. & J. M. Cornell, 26th street and 11th avenue; cut stone, Haulin & Co., No. 417 east 103d street; cut granite, Granite Railway Co. No other contracts let.

Six Elegant Well Located Houses.

NOS. 47 TO 57 WEST EIGHTY-EIGHTH STREET, NEAR CENTRAL PARK.

As is well known West 88th street, between Columbus avenue and Central Park, affords a very desirable place for residences and consequently for investment. The advantages of the Park are near at hand, those of the Riverside Drive not far away. Speedy transit to other parts of the city is assured through the proximity of the Traction and the Manhattan Elevated Companies' lines. Moreover, the district is one restricted to high-class dwellings, affording a proper assurance that no undesirable neighbors can come in. The houses in this block are mostly owned by their occupants, and the few that have been offered for rent have readily found tenants.

Mr. Wm. Buhler, of the Havemeyer Building, No. 26 Cortlandt street, is offering for sale six well built, spacious, handsome houses on the whole house in the most inclement weather. In the basement there are a morning, or billiard room, according to the choice of the occupant, a hall communicating between the area door and the kitchen, the kitchen and laundry. The parlor floor is divided into parlor, music-room, dining-room and butler's pantry. The second and third floors contain each two large rooms, communicating through dressing-salons, and a bath-room opening from the hall. The uppermost and fourth story is composed of three bed-rooms, servants bath-room and a large store-room. It will be seen, therefore, that there is no question about the accommodations being ample, especially when the dimensions of the houses, 20x60, with butler's pantry extension, lot 100 feet, are borne in mind as allowing for spacious width of the different rooms.

While the distribution of the floor space is admirably adapted to the north side of this block, Nos. 47 to 57, on very advantageous terms to the buyer. Their exterior appearance is quite imposing as a result of a judicious selection of design and materials. Some have box stoops and oriel windows, and the others high stoops and bay windows up to the second story. In some cases the fronts are of rich red sandstone and pressed brick, while those of Nos. 49 and 51 are entirely of Indiana limestone. All the stone-work is carved in graceful and tasteful designs. Thus there is afforded to prospective buyers a good selection in the matters of material, color, style and general architectural appearance and decoration. There is in the facades of these houses an appearance of substantiability produced by a generous use of material and good judgment in its disposal that especially commends themselves and ought to attract buyers.

Nos. 47 to 57 West Eighty-eighth Street, near Central Park.

WM. BUHLER, OWNER.

Going through these houses from floor to floor, and critically examining the several apartments they contain, their commodiousness and convenience would strike anyone. There is nothing wanting for comfortable living. The arrangement is the one that has been found to be in the best estimation of our fair housekeepers, whose judgment is naturally final on that point. It is on the lady of the house that falls the disposal of the family and guests, and she it is, therefore, who looks to the facilities that are offered her for living, entertainment and communicating with the servants, and the servants' quarters; that will, as a matter of fact, enable her to be everywhere at once. Beginning lowest down, the arrangements in this case include a cellar, cemented bottom and sides, the latter ruled off to imitate masonry, containing a furnace sufficient to heat the requirements of modern family life, the interior fittings are very handsome indeed. In one house, for instance, taken as a sample the whole of the basement, dining-room and pantry, hallways and stairs and fourth floor are trimmed in polished oak, and the parlors and the bedrooms on the second and third floors of rich polished mahogany; in another, mahogany is wholly used, except in the basement and fourth floor, and in a third bird's-eye maple takes the place of mahogany in the principal bedrooms. In each case the outer and inner vestibule doors match the trim of the main hallway. All the vestibules are tiled and paneled in accordance with the general trim of the hallways. The dining-rooms and inner halls are laid with parquette flooring. A high post and railing screen the stairs from view at the entrance, and connecting scroll-work forms a sort of arch over the passage to the dining-room. The parlors communicate through sliding doors with both the dining-room and halls. All the windows of the principal rooms are recessed and contain colored glass transoms in tasteful designs, inside shutters, and so forth. The mantles in each apartment are stately, generally from a sort of Corinthian design well calculated to set off rooms of such dimensions. The fireplaces are of different colored tile and fitted for gas logs.

In arranging the front room of the second floor its probable use as a sitting-room was not lost sight of. Therefore part of the space usually given to the dressing salons was made into an open recess and fitted with bookcases, while beyond it was placed the dressing salon, in this case an unusually large one, to which entrance can be obtained from either the front or back room. The bath-room on the floor is remarkably well provided as it contains beside a porcelain bath tub, wash-bowl, etc., a large and handsome arrangement of closets and drawers and dressing-glass panel above box seats, thus providing all the facilities for dressing within the bath-room itself. The bath-room on the third floor is similar to the one below, except that it has less cabinet work, it is, however, just as luxurious in its tiled floor and wainscoting, bath-tub, etc. The fourth floor front room has a dressing salon and the back room a dressing closet attached. The dressing salons and closets contain full and half size mirrors of double French plate glass. Throughout the house, kitchen, butler's pantry, dining-room and bedrooms, there is ample provision of dressers, cupboards, wardrobes, closets and other conveniences for the disposal of necessities. The glass throughout is double thick French plate, the plumbing all open and the best of its kind as are the other fittings, such as electric bells, etc. The wash-sinks of the pantry and kitchen are porcelain lined as are also the wash-tubs of the laundry. Besides the things specially mentioned there is nothing wanting of the ordinary necessities and these are the best of their kind.

In addition to their perfect suitability for family life, their outward and inward attractiveness, the workmanship and material in these houses will bear the closest inspection. They were built by one of the most careful, experienced and successful builders in New York, by day's work, and are now offered for sale new, equal to any the most fastidious could plan or build. They are a part of sixteen which were put up together in panic times by day's work, and in providing for which every advantage was taken that the material market of the times afforded. Consequently by reason of the facts that so many were built at once, and at a time when prices for material were low, they are a cheap as well as good product, and in consequence are offered at very reasonable figures. They will be sold in exchange at $15,000 each, subject to a mortgage for $30,000 at 5 per cent for three years. As these are the terms offered in trade, a cash buyer can make even better terms, and in either case there cannot be a question that these houses at the terms named deserve a careful examination by intending buyers. (Communicated).

Real Estate Market.

The market has continued moderately active, as is shown by the reports of sales negotiated by brokers. Business property, private dwellings, flats and vacant lots have all been sought by investors and the result is almost as satisfactory from a seller's point of view as were the transactions of the preceding October weeks. The interest of operators, agents and the other active factors of the market has been centered, however, on the purchases of property on West 18th and 19th streets, between 5th and 6th avenues. The operation referred to last week has since developed into one of far greater moment than had been suspected. Hardly a day has passed without the announcement of additional sales on either street in which F. Southack & Co. have figured as the purchasing agents. In but two instances have other brokers been associated with that firm in transactions that have been reported closed. Much of the mystery that has enveloped the sales made is dispelled by the statement published elsewhere in this issue, that the incentive for the buying movement has been the knowledge obtained of the intention of the American Lithographic Company to locate its establishment on the block, occupying a site about 200x184, fronting on both streets. The tip, once given, has been the cause of an unprecedented rush to purchase, in the belief that the erection of the big building near 6th avenue will be the means of attracting other corporations, who, it is expected, will not be slow to realize that a new business centre has been created. The neighborhood enjoys advantages, as regards accessibility, that are second to none in the middle section of the city. Whether the purely speculative purchases that have been and are being made will prove in the end judicious depends, of course, on the extent of the demand that shall be made for sites for future business structures. The list of the sales on each street that have been reported within a week will be found below.

Nothing of interest occurred in the auction rooms this week. The sales were nearly all held under legal decrees and by far the greater number of the parcels offered fell to the plaintiffs in the various actions. On Monday the northeast corner of Ridge and Delancey streets was withdrawn from sale by W. W. Fogg, who announced the settlement of the judgment in foreclosure.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

The largest of the purchases through Frederick Southack & Co. made public this week is that of the southwest corner of 5th avenue and 18th street, a plot 92x175, with the four-story building formerly known as the Hotel de Legerot and its one-story annex, fronting on the street. The New York Realty Co. (Flake & Dowling) will be remembered as the buyers of the property in the spring, securing it at foreclosure sale for $437,000. They will obtain for it something less than $550,000, according to the terms of the contract recently signed, of which amount it is said the sum of $19,000 has been put up to bind the agreement. The sale next in importance is that of the old St. Ann's Protestant Episcopal Church and rectory property, Nos. 3 to 9 West 18th street, a plot 100x92, on the north side, adjoining Chickering Hall. The purchase price is $192,000.

Reported sales of minor parcels on the north side of 18th street include the following to the American Lithographic Company: No. 43 West, a stable, on lot 25x92, with a similar lot and four-story dwelling, No. 48 West 19th street, by Peter Marie, for between $175,000 and $200,000; No. 41 West 18th street, a five-story dwelling, on lot 16.8x92, by H. S. Ely & Co. and Southack & Co., for D. W. Bishop, at about $45,000; No. 43 West, a similar dwelling on lot of same dimensions, owned by Mrs. Piggott, at about the same price; No. 39 West, a four-story dwelling on a similar lot, by Philip C. Slaughter, for a like amount, and probably No. 37 West, a four-story dwelling, on lot 25x92, which was purchased in April for $40,000, and is now owned and occupied by Marie Verhaeren, a dressmaker.

H. S. Ely & Co., conjointly with Southack & Co., have also sold the four-story stone front dwelling No. 11 West 18th street, lot 25x92, adjoining St. Ann's rectory, for M. Freedman to E. H. Van Ingen for $45,000. This house has just been rented as it stands, and is Mr. Van Ingen's only investment in the block.

The purchases on the south side of 18th street embrace Nos. 34 and 36 West, two four-story dwellings on full lots, sold by Eben McIntyre and William Campbell, respectively, the former for $40,000 and the latter for $42,500. The buyer in this case is J. Purdy Berger, who is understood to be merely the representative of the real purchasers, for whom, it is said, an adjoining property has also been secured.

Nos. 50 and 52 West 19th street, 52x92, to which Robert P. Getty took title on Wednesday will be conveyed to Alfred L. Thompson, who has signed a contract for the resale of the property to the lithographic company.

On the north side of 19th street, No. 17 West and No. 41 West, have been purchased, the former for $49,000 and the latter for $42,500. Both are four-story dwellings on full lots. Charles M. Heymann & Co. were the brokers who negotiated the sale of the lower-priced house for Mrs. Sarah Branan of Newburg.

The report of a sale of the northeast corner of 6th avenue and 18th street, published yesterday, is incorrect.

The property purchased in the interest of the American Lithographic Company includes some that was mentioned last week and comprises, it is said, Nos. 37 to 53 West 18th street and Nos. 44 to 52 West 19th street, with two or three additional parcels adjoining on the latter street which are doubtless under contract.

L. J. Phillips & Co. have sold for Abraham Stern, at $33,000, the plot, 50x98.9, with old buildings, No. 323 and 325 West 26th street, to Builder Thomas J. McLaughlin for improvement.

J. Edgar Leayercraft has sold for Edmund Y. Jacobus the three-story dwelling, 18.9x55x100.5, No. 164 West 47th street, to Sarah A. Walker for about $24,000.

Hoffman Bros. have sold for Jefferson M. Levy, to Warren E. Dennis, the five-story building (leasehold), No. 20 Warren street, which is rented at $5,800 per annum.

M. and L. Hess have sold for Henry Rothschild, No. 246 Mercer street, a six-story brick business building on lot, 25x100, on the southeast corner of West 3d street, for about $140,000.

Alexander Gutlman has sold for the Kingsland estate the plot, 92 x100, with old two and three-story brick and frame buildings, Nos. 212 to 218½ Wooster street, east side, between Bleecker and West 3d streets, with an L, 57x40, extending north from the rear portion of the plot to No. 226 Wooster street, for $110,000.

Alfred Kuhlke has sold for A. C. Beckstein, the four-story brick dwelling, No. 131 East 45th street, for $25,000, to John J. Schwartz, who gives in exchange the dwelling, No. 335 Warburton avenue, Yonkers, valued at $15,000.

Daniel Birdsall & Co. have sold for Charles Lesinsky the lot and new building, No. 45 Vesey street, for something under $65,000.

MORTGAGES.

The arrangement of this list is as follows:
1. First name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.
